U. N. ORDER REJECTED BY ISRAEL

Nation's Chief, Forrestal Have 45-Minute Talk

Discuss Diplomatic, Defense Problems But Not China Crisis

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 18 (AP)—President Truman and Secretary of Defense Forrestal went into a 45-minute huddle today on diplomatic and defense problems but postponed a discussion of the crisis facing the Chinese nationalist government.

The Defense Secretary, fresh from an inspection of the European peace fronts, submitted a 10-page memorandum and reported orally to the President on his observations of the peace outlook in Europe.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the Chinese situation did not come up and that there was no discussion of Forrestal's pending resignation which Forrestal has said would become effective at the "will of the President."

Presumably the talk covered the European situation, with emphasis on the Berlin blockade.

Forrestal flew here for the conference and returned to Washington in the afternoon.

He was accompanied by Maj. Gen. Alfred Gruenther, director of the joint staff, who carried a bulging brief case and joined in the conference.

Forrestal Makes Oral Report

The discussion took place on the palm-shaded lawn of the temporary "White House"—the commandant's house on the submarine base here.

It took place after a luncheon in which the President also was joined by Sen. Pepper (D-Fla.); Florida's Governor-elect Fuller Warren; Rep. George Smathers (D-Fla.), and C. V. Griffin, citrus fruit grower of Howey, Fla.

The conversation at the luncheon table was general, and then the President went out on the lawn to talk with Forrestal.

"The Secretary presented a written memorandum concerning his observations abroad, and then made an oral report," Ross related. "The Secretary's observations abroad were almost the sole topic of conversation."

As for China, Ross asserted:

"The subject of China, I'm categorically informed by the President and the Secretary, did not come up."

The President talked briefly with Forrestal alone as they strolled around the lawn after the 45-minute conference.

"What's the situation on Forrestal's resignation?" a reported wanted to know.

"There is no situation," Ross repiled promptly. "That matter, I am told, did not come up at all."

Mums On Cabinet Changes

"Will the President ask Forrestal to remain in the Cabinet?"

"I have no comment on any changes that may be made in the Cabinet," Ross asserted.

Meanwhile, former Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.), the new speaker-to-be, came in from Bonham, Texas, to visit the President.

The Chief Executive's conference with the Defense Secretary is preliminary to a major review of the entire outlook for peace to be held at the White House Monday. He is flying back to Washington Sunday to await this parley with Secretary of State Marshall and W.

Substitute For T-H Labor Act Predicted By Demos' Chairman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Sen. McGrath (D-RI) called today for restoration of the excess profits tax on business.

McGrath, who heads the Democratic National Committee, said he spoke as a senator and not as committee chairman, in making this call.

In a news conference, the Rhode Island Senator, who conferred last week with President Truman, also:

1. Predicted a substitute law for the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

2. Listed as the other "most important" business of the new Congress, legislation to (A) curb inflation, (B) promote housing, (C) give federal aid to education, (D) provide health aids, E) restore the full reciprocal trade agreement program, (F) set up new farm benefits, (G) establish civil rights by law.

3. Called for a change in the Senate rebate rules to kill southern filibusters on civil rights measures.

4. Indicated that States' Rights ticket supporters will not be denied committee places in the new Congress.

Hatch Act—Revision Favored

5. Urged revision of the Hatch Act to permit political committees to borrow money from banks during campaigns.

6. Came out for Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois as Democratic leader of the Senate to succeed Vice-President-elect Barkley.

7. Said the House committee investigating un-American activities "has no future if it intends to act as it has in the past."

8. Predicted "99 per cent" of administration personnel will remain on the job in the President's new term, but declined to speculate on possible cabinet changes.

McGrath said that, speaking as a senator, he feels "there should be a reimposition of certain taxes on excess profits. On the other hand, Sen. George (D-Ga) said at Vienna, Ga., today that he believed an excess profits tax would lead to "destruction of business." George is due to be chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Urges Substitute For T-H

In this connection, McGrath said, he doesn't see any basic for "fear on the part of business" about what may happen to it in the President's full four-year term.

The Democratic chairman said he thinks repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act ought to be accompanied with some revisions of the original Wagner labor law.

"I think we've got to substitute something for the Taft-Hartley Act," he said.

He added that he favors some provisions which will prevent strikes that would create national emergencies.

McGrath came out against the Taft-Hartley provision which requires union officials to sign affidavits they are not Communists if their unions wish to qualify for cases before the National Labor Relations Board.

Intuition Right As Felled Tree Falls On House

DES MOINES, Nov. 18 (AP) — City Fireman P. R. Wallace said he "felt there was going to be trouble" as he neared the end of a tree-felling project at his home.

How right he was.

A 65-foot cottonwood toppled the wrong way last night, smashed through the roof of his one-story home, and bowed out the east and west walls.

No windows were broken.

Wallace had called his wife out of the house moments before the tree fell. She was only a half a block away when it hit.

New Carrier Jet Plane Is Tailless

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — A tailless jet fighter, capable of over 600 miles an hour, and designed for use from carriers, has completed its basic test flights, it was reported tonight.

The Navy called the new craft "in reality a flying wing."

The plane has two vertical stabilizers and rudders at the trailing edge of the wing, with control also effected through combined ailerons and elevators. These are known as "ailevators."

Powered with two Westinghouse turbo jets, the Chance-Vought plane, technically known as the XF7U-1, has a high rate of climb, the Navy said.

To offset the forces created by high speed flight, the plane's controls are equipped with hydraulic boosters.

The pilot's cockpit is pressurized for high altitude flight and the pilot's seat can be ejected when it is necessary to bail out.

James Files Appeal

U. S., Britain And Canada Sign Nut-And-Bolt Pact

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The United States, Britain and Canada signed an agreement today standardizing screw threads on bolts and nuts. The signers hope the agreement eventually will save millions of dollars and make cooperation easier in production for peace—or war, should that develop.

The agreement, reached after 30 years of discussion, was worked out so that nuts and bolts made in any of the three countries will fit the machines and home appliances made in the others.

The pact is expected to overcome industrial problems that are troublesome in peacetime and acute in war, and to stimulate trade among the countries in the future.

China Government Proclaims Victory In Battle Of Suchow

Nationalists Claim Reds Have Suffered 130,000 Casualties

NANKING, Nov. 18 (AP)—A complete government victory was proclaimed today in the fateful battle of Suchow. Masses of Chinese Communists were reported surrendering or retreating after suffering 130,000 casualties.

Maj. Gen. Chang Liu-Shih, military spokesman, asserted that Communist troops north, east and south of the big base had been broken into small bands and were grounding arms. He listed government casualties at 40,000 men.

More sober opinion among Chinese officials is that the government won the first round in 10 days of bloody combat. The Communists were believed withdrawing to regroup for a probable second assault.

Even the pessimists conceded that Nanking is safe for at least one more month. Optimists declared Chiang Kai-Shek's fortunes are bounding after hitting the toboggan when it looked as if the day was lost.

Reds Rehash Past Events

(The Communist radio, for the first time since the battle broke, made no new claims of victory. As heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco, it was content with rehashing events of three days ago.)

A new possible trouble spot cropped up as both sides prepared for the next phase of the struggle north of Nanking.

A Shanghai reort said a Communist truck column had been spotted moving toward Tsingtao, the United States naval anchorage which is being reinforced by 1,250 United States marines from Guam. Tsingtao is 225 miles northeast of Suchow.

Officials in Nanking said they had heard the report. It was suggested the trucks might be headed for the Poshan mines west of Tsingtao to pick up coal.

Gen. Chaing told his news conference that "the battle for Suchow can be considered as concluded," but added: "What the Communists will do now is a subject of conjecture."

It seemed clear that a grave tactical error by the usually-adroit Gen. Chen Yi, who commands the Communist armies of East China, and wily one-eyed Gen. Liu Po-Cheng, Red commander in Central China, proved costly.

Chen deployed his troops on the plains east of Suchow in clear weather, and the Chinese air force struck them with all it had—more than 100 bombers and fighter bombers.

Reds Chose To Gamble

Liu, whose troops attacked from the south, cutting the railway from Suchow to Nanking, likewise found no cover from the aerial storm.

Both generals, who are used to fighting in rough terrain which provides a natural cover, seemed to lack the antiaircraft guns which their Manchurian comrades have been using to such good effect.

Instead of waiting for the cloudy weather which can be expected with approaching winter, they chose to gamble with Nanking's air field no more than an hour's flying time away.

It seems certain that at the least

CIO Leaders Cool To AFL Merger Bid

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 18—(AP)—High CIO officials today threw cool water on the AFL's annual proposal for a merger of the two organizations.

Recent cooperation between the AFL and CIO in the political and international fields has stirred up fresh talk of labor unity. At Cincinnati, the AFL convention called on AFL leaders to approach the CIO and "reach out and grasp them by the hand and urge them to come back into the AFL."

The CIO may issue a counter-invitation, on its own terms, at its own convention here next week, but these bids mean very little if fundamental obstacles remain in the way of a merger.

Convinced Obstacles Remain

CIO leaders are convinced fundamental obstacles do remain. They point to recent efforts of AFL craft unions to move into steel plants and other industries where CIO industrial unions now represent all the workers, regardless of craft.

The position of CIO leaders seems to be this:

They prabably will accept a suitable invitation to meet with AFL leaders and talk the thing over. If an agreement can be reached on such questions as union jurisdiction and craft unionism vs. industrial unionism, perhaps a merger can be worked out.

But the CIO leaders think there is practically no change of reaching an agreement on such questions. Above all, they will not consent to any arrangement under which the CIO would be "absorbed" by the larger organization.

Resolutions Group Meets

The CIO convention's committee on resolutions held its first meeting today. Van A. Bittner, chairman, declined to say what issues were discussed.

The big topic of conversation among CIO leaders continued to be the anti-Communist drive, which seems headed for a public showdown in the convention.

There is much speculation as to how far the convention will go in the direction of ridding the CIO leadership of people who have followed Communist Party policies on political and international questions.

Ruhr Issue Threat To French Regime

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—French fears that Britain and the United States are pushing German recovery too fast appeared today to be a greater danger to the French government than the Communist strike problem.

The National Assembly's Committee on Foreign Affairs protested violently the recent decision of the British and American military governments to return control of Ruhr coal mines and steel mills to German trustees.

The committee demanded that French representatives to the London six-power conference of the Ruhr take a stand not only for international control over distribution of the industrial area's coal and steel, but for "international technical and commercial control as well."

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman will be called before the Foreign Affairs Committee next week. He will have to do a lot of explaining to appease the Assembly.

United States Secretary of State Marshall talked privately today with Britain's Hector McNeil, and it was understood French objections on the Ruhr were discussed.

All French factions are united against pushing German recovery, and differ only as to degree.

U. S. Education Aid Asked

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 18 (AP)—The United Council of Church Women asked today for federal aid to education as a means to combat low teachers' salaries and inadequate school facilities.

L. A.'s CANDIDATE-- Los Angeles' candidate for the country's tallest Christmas tree was erected yesterday in Pershing Square, where palm trees provide a semi-tropical contrast. The tree measures 95 feet from ground to tip, not including the star. This is five feet more than the tree to be erected in Rockefeller Center, New York, but three feet less than the one Redding, Calif., plans to put up.

DeGaulle's Views Source Of Worry For U. S. Officials

Fear ERP, Alliance Will Be Jeopardized

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The strong "France first" views of Gen. Charles DeGaulle, now enhanced by his increased political power, are again becoming a source of sharp concern for top American officials.

Diplomatic authorities fear that if DeGaulle gains control of the French government, his policies will jeopardize (1) success of European recovery program and (2) development of the projected North Atlantic defense alliance.

They regard his nationalism as running against the present trend of increasing international cooperation among the Western European nations themselves and between them and the United States.

Comment Arouses Interest

Considerable interest was aroused among State Department officials by DeGaulle's comment to a news conference yesterday that while he approves of the Marshall recovery plan it must not be allowed to displace "the essential interests of France." He made the statement in reaffirming his opposition to American and British plans for developing Western German industrial resources as an essential element of the recovery program.

DeGaulle held the news conference following the recent success of his French Peoples Party in attaining a strategic position in the upper house of the French Parliament. In talking about joint Western European defense plans in which Britain plays a leading role, he asserted, "It is inconceivable that the defense of France should be assured by anyone other than the French themselves."

Uncompromising Stand Feared

No one in authority here seems to consider it possible that DeGaulle, even in a row over the future control of German industry, would pull France out of the recovery program.

What the policy makers are afraid of is that if he were in power, the French leader would tend to disrupt international cooperation by an uncompromising attitude, particularly on the German issue.

Secondarily, authorities here believe that by making a domestic political fight on the issue DeGaulle may inflame French fears about a revived Germany to an extreme degree, and thereby hamper the operation of French governments even though his personal position was not decisive.

Chemist-To-Be Blows Off Pants And Cellar Door

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18 (AP)—Less than an hour after he told his teacher he wants to be a chemist when he grows up, a 13-year-old boy blew off his pants and the cellar door of his home.

Young Larry Rose escaped with slight burns of his legs and arm in the explosion that resulted from his efforts to make a rocket.

The family residence did not get off so easily. The cellar door was blasted off, a back window shattered and a neighbor's garage window blown out.

Early End To Port Tieup Is Unlikely

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Prospects for a quick end to the East Coast waterfront strike faded today.

Continuation of the crippling walkout of AFL dock workers at least into next week was predicted by William N. Margolis, ace federal mediator who was sent here in an effort to crack an employer-union deadlock over a new contract.

Margolis made his comments after conferring with Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, whose 65,000 members struck more than a week ago, and oth union leaders.

The strike has closed ports from Maine to Virginia and has made heavy inroads into the East's industrial and commercial life.

Margolis said he expected negotiations to continue into next week.

One bright spot in the picture, however, is a meeting tomorrow of federal conciliators with representatives of ship owners and the union, the first joint meeting since the strike began.

Meanwhile, more industries began to stagger under the impact of the strike.

The American Sugar Refining Company said here it will have to close its Brooklyn and Baltimore plants within 10 to 12 days if the strike goes on. A. B. Babcock, refinery manager of the Brooklyn plant, said the raw sugar supplies there are nearly exhausted.

Six American Newsmen Branded "Warmongers"

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 18 (AP) — Harry S. Martin, president of the American Newspaper Guild, walked out today on a meeting of the executive committee of the International Organization of Journalists which branded six Americans and one Turkish journalist as "warmongers and war propagandists."

The six were William Laurence, of the New York Times; Drew Pearson; Paul Shubert, of Collier's; Bela Kotcivary, of Look; Keebour, of Life; Cecil Braun; Jakid Yalchin, of Turkey.

Martin walked out after a clash with Russian Delegate Pavel Yudin, editor of the bi-weekly bulletin of the Communist International Information Bureau.

Yudin quoted numerous excerpts from American and British papers and alleged their authors were warmongers.

Britain Asks U.N. To Repartition Palestine, Reduce Israel's Size

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Britain asked the United Nations today to repartition Palestine and reduce the size of Israel by three-fifths.

Israel's opposition to any such proposal was demonstrated sharply several hours later in Tel Aviv, when the Israeli government rejected flatly a directive of the Security Council to withdraw its troops from the Negev.

At the same time the Israeli government said it welcomed the action of the Security Council two days ago in calling for an armistice as a bridge for a Pelestine peace. Israel urged the United Nations to name the time and place the Israelis could meet representatives of the Arab states "to begin negotiations for a permanent peace."

Only tonight in Paris the acting Palestine mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, asked Israel and the seven Arab states to begin negotiations for an armistice to replace the present Holy Land truce .

Bunche said he believed the "interests of all parties to this dispute would be best served by direct negotiations undertaken by the parties themselves." He asked both sides to reply promptly on what type of negotiations they wanted.

A United Nations official said the United Nations had not yet been advised of the Israeli decision against withdrawing from the Negev.

Based On Bernadotte Plan

The Israeli position will have to be studied by Dr. Bunche before he makes any further recommendations.

The British submitted to the General Assembly's Political Committee a draft resolution calling for solution of the Holy Land problem on the basis of the plan of the late mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte.

Under that plan the Negev, or Southern Desert, would be given to the Arabs. In turn the Jews would receive Western Galilee. The original United Nations partition plan gave the Negev to the Jews and Western Galilee to the Arabs.

British spokesman declared the United States delegation was consulted "on an official level" during drafting of the resolution calling for a Palestine settlement on the basis of the Bernadotte report. The spokesman said the British were hopeful the proposal will receive American support.

An American informant said the United States delegation will make a preliminary statement on Palestine at the next meeting of the Assembly's Political Committee.

The committee had been scheduled to meet tomorrow, but the meeting was postponed tonight. No reason was given and no date was set for the next meeting.

Delegates said they expected the Palestine debate to take on new life after the United States speaks. Some delegates said the full United States position may not be known until after Secretary of State Marshall confers in Washington Monday with President Truman. The American delegation makes it a practice to refer all Palestine matters to the White House.

Dulles Says U. S. Wants Strong, Unified Europe

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—If Western Europe chooses to remain feeble and disunited its separate pieces may be drawn one at a time "into the orbit of the East," John Foster Dulles warned today.

Speaking to the American Club of Paris, Dulles said Americans want a strong and unified Europe capable of standing up for itself. He denounced as "ignoble" any charge that the United States wants to use the continent merely as a base for achieving world mastery.

Dulles, a Republican, was designated today by President Truman as acting chairman of the United States delegation to the United Nations Assembly.

Radio Comic Jack Benny Now Appears CBS-Bound

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System tonight appeared to be all set to take Jack Benny away from the National Broadcasting Company in a multi-million dollar deal.

And the radio comedian was all set to get a basketful of cash and a big tax saving in a transaction under which he would "sell" his services as a business to the network on a lifetime basis. Trade circles estimated the amount at close to $4,000,000 but a source close to the negotiations called the figure too high.

Just one week ago, NBC over whose network Benny now broadcasts for $25,000 a week, was reported to have a similar deal with Benny practically sewed up. CBS said then it had dropped out of the battle of dollars for Benny.

But today NBC said it now had discontinued negotiations with Benny. CBS declined to comment but neither did it deny trade reports that it was near the signing stage with the comedian. A spokesman said a statement on the situation might come soon.

Earlier this year CBS got the comedy team of Amos 'n' Andy, long a fixture on NBC, in a similar transaction said to have involved $2,000,000.

There are two major advantages for a radio star in such a deal. First, he gets a lump sum payment equivalent to many years of high pay on a seasonal basis. Second, he pays a capital gains tax of 25 per cent instead of the high bracket taxes that apply to personal income.

The CBS-Benny negotiations are said to involve his Amusement Enterprises, Inc., which also controls the personal managment of Phil Harris, Alice Faye and others. The deal presumably would include the firm's television and movie activities.

Car 'Gouging' Is Held 'Not Illegal But Immoral'

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP)—Circuit Judge Martin E. Morthland declared today the practice of buying new cars and re-selling them above list price is "not illegal but is immoral."

He made the statement in placing James H. Scammahorn, Jr., 26, Decatur, on three year probation. Scammahorn pleaded guilty to a charge of defrauding Carl F. Wall, Ipswich, S. D., of $1,925 in a fake new car deal.

Businessman Sighs As He Looks Back On Amount Of Time Spent In Capital

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—A. C. Spurr is in Washington, wishing he weren't in Washington.

And he thinks a lot of other businessmen are here, every day, and wishing they were somewhere else.

Spurr is president of the Monongahela Power Company of Fairmont, W. Va. As he moodily stirred his coffee, he asked this reporter:

"Do you have any idea how much time the businessmen of this country have to spend in Washington?"

No.

"I don't either. But it must be termendous. I think I can give you some idea from my home town of Fairmont, with a population of 30,000.

"It isn't quite as bad now, but during the war, when the coal people had a lot of business here, the night train always had a fairly full carload from Fairmont. Look at it on a national scale, and the total must be staggering."

Spurr sighed and sipped his coffee.

"And after they get here—. Do you know that I have been shifted from 10 to 12 agencies before I could find a man who knew the answer? It's so bad that many companies are hiring an expediter. He doesn't do any lobbying. All he does is find out where to go to get the answers."

Spurr said it isn't that he objects to governmental control. ("As a power monopoly," he said, "we have to have it.") But he said he thinks the tendency is to drift toward more and more controls, regardless of the party in power.

Quarryman's Body Found After 10 Days Of Digging

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Nov. 18—(INS)—Ten days of intense rescue work in a Lambertville quarry ended today when the crushed body of Edgar S. Snyder, 64, came into view under a huge rock.

Rescue crews and special equipment had been rushed to Lambertville by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll when the quarryman and a companion, Raymond Wellman, 48, were buried under 200,000 tons of rock in a quarry landslide last week.

An official of the quarry company said Snyder must have died instantly. Wellman's body was found soon after the slide, about 30 feet from the site of Snyder's body.

Snowstorm, Moving East, Disrupts Communications

GARDEN CITY, Kas., Nov. 18 (AP)—A snowstorm blew eastward tonight from the Plains region after halting highway travel and disrupting communications in six states.

Cold air masses sweeping down from the Rockies spread snow up to a foot deep over Eastern Colorado, Northwestern Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, and parts of New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

Visibility in 19 Southwest Kansas counties was reported nearly at zero by highway division headquarters. Traffic on all highways there was at a standstill. Crews roamed the roads towing dozens of stalled cars out of ditches.

Snow was still falling in Western Kansas tonight. The C.A.A. said wind strength was at 75 miles an hour.

Driving snow had closed United States Highway 64 at one point in the Oklahoma Panhandle and motorists were warned off other roads in the chill northwest corner of the state.

Clearing weather in the Idaho primitive area made possible air rescue of 20 snowbound hunters and an injured forest service worker.

"The Kansas storm will move east northeastward through the southern Great Lakes region during the next 36 hours," the Chicago Weather Bureau said. It added that the storm will be "attended by widespread precipitation." The southern sections will get rain and the north, snow.

Temperatures were about normal in the East today.

In Kansas, S. D. Flora, weatherman at Topeka, said Western Kansas had all the elements of a blizzard except that temperatures were not extremely cold.

Temperatures were colder to the west, slipping to two degrees below zero at Big Piney, Wyo.

Weather Forecast

Nation's Chief, Forrestal Have 45-Minute Talk

KEY WEST, Fla., Nov. 18 (AP)—President Truman and Secretary of Defense Forrestal went into a 45-minute huddle today on diplomatic and defense problems but postponed a discussion of the crisis facing the Chinese nationalist government.

Sen. McGrath Urges Excess Profits Tax

Substitute For T-H Labor Act Predicted By Demos' Chairman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — Sen. McGrath (D-RI) called today for restoration of the excess profits tax on business.

McGrath, who heads the Democratic National Committee, said he spoke as a senator and not as committee chairman, in making this call.

In a news conference, the Rhode Island Senator, who conferred last week with President Truman, also:

1. Predicted a substitute law for the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

2. Listed as the other "most important" business of the new Congress, legislation to (A) curb inflation, (B) promote housing, (C) give federal aid to education, (D) provide health aids, E) restore the full reciprocal trade agreement program, (F) set up new farm benefits, (G) establish civil rights by law.

3. Called for a change in the Senate rebate rules to kill southern filibusters on civil rights measures.

4. Indicated that States' Rights ticket supporters will not be denied committee places in the new Congress.

Hatch Act—Revision Favored

5. Urged revision of the Hatch Act to permit political committees to borrow money from banks during campaigns.

6. Came out for Sen. Scott Lucas of Illinois as Democratic leader of the Senate to succeed Vice-President-elect Barkley.

7. Said the House committee investigating un-American activities "has no future if it intends to act as it has in the past."

8. Predicted "99 per cent" of administration personnel will remain on the job in the President's new term, but declined to speculate on possible cabinet changes.

McGrath said that, speaking as a senator, he feels "there should be a reimposition of certain taxes on excess profits. On the other hand, Sen. George (D-Ga) said at Vienna, Ga., today that he believed an excess profits tax would lead to "destruction of business." George is due to be chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Urges Substitute For T-H

In this connection, McGrath said, he doesn't see any basic for "fear on the part of business" about what may happen to it in the President's full four-year term.

The Democratic chairman said he thinks repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act ought to be accompanied with some revisions of the original Wagner labor law.

"I think we've got to substitute something for the Taft-Hartley Act," he said.

He added that he favors some provisions which will prevent strikes that would create national emergencies.

McGrath came out against the Taft-Hartley provision which requires union officials to sign affidavits they are not Communists if their unions wish to qualify for cases before the National Labor Relations Board.

Intuition Right As Felled Tree Falls On House

DES MOINES, Nov. 18 (AP) — City Fireman P. R. Wallace said he "felt there was going to be trouble" as he neared the end of a tree-felling project at his home.

How right he was.

No windows were broken.

Wallace had called his wife out of the house moments before the tree fell. She was only a half a block away when it hit.

New Carrier Jet Plane Is Tailless

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP) — A tailless jet fighter, capable of over 600 miles an hour, and designed for use from carriers, has completed its basic test flights, it was reported tonight.

The plane has two vertical stabilizers and rudders at the trailing edge of the wing, with control also effected through combined ailerons and elevators. These are known as "ailevators."

Powered with two Westinghouse turbo jets, the Chance-Vought plane, technically known as the XF7U-1, has a high rate of climb, the Navy said.

To offset the forces created by high speed flight, the plane's controls are equipped with hydraulic boosters.

The pilot's cockpit is pressurized for high altitude flight and the pilot's seat can be ejected when it is necessary to bail out.

James Files Appeal

U. S., Britain And Canada Sign Nut-And-Bolt Pact

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The United States, Britain and Canada signed an agreement today standardizing screw threads on bolts and nuts. The signers hope the agreement eventually will save millions of dollars and make cooperation easier in production for peace—or war, should that develop.

The agreement, reached after 30 years of discussion, was worked out so that nuts and bolts made in any of the three countries will fit the machines and home appliances made in the others.

The pact is expected to overcome industrial problems that are troublesome in peacetime and acute in war, and to stimulate trade among the countries in the future.

Radio Comic Jack Benny Now Appears CBS-Bound

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System tonight appeared to be all set to take Jack Benny away from the National Broadcasting Company in a multi-million dollar deal.

And the radio comedian was all set to get a basketful of cash and a big tax saving in a transaction under which he would "sell" his services as a business to the network on a lifetime basis. Trade circles estimated the amount at close to $4,000,000 but a source close to the negotiations called the figure too high.

Just one week ago, NBC over whose network Benny now broadcasts for $25,000 a week, was reported to have a similar deal with Benny practically sewed up. CBS said then it had dropped out of the battle of dollars for Benny.

But today NBC said it now had discontinued negotiations with Benny. CBS declined to comment but neither did it deny trade reports that it was near the signing stage with the comedian. A spokesman said a statement on the situation might come soon.

Earlier this year CBS got the comedy team of Amos 'n' Andy, long a fixture on NBC, in a similar transaction said to have involved $2,000,000.

There are two major advantages for a radio star in such a deal. First, he gets a lump sum payment equivalent to many years of high pay on a seasonal basis. Second, he pays a capital gains tax of 25 per cent instead of the high bracket taxes that apply to personal income.

The CBS-Benny negotiations are said to involve his Amusement Enterprises, Inc., which also controls the personal managment of Phil Harris, Alice Faye and others. The deal presumably would include the firm's television and movie activities.

Car 'Gouging' Is Held 'Not Illegal But Immoral'

DECATUR, Ill., Nov. 18 (AP)—Circuit Judge Martin E. Morthland declared today the practice of buying new cars and re-selling them above list price is "not illegal but is immoral."

He made the statement in placing James H. Scammahorn, Jr., 26, Decatur, on three year probation. Scammahorn pleaded guilty to a charge of defrauding Carl F. Wall, Ipswich, S. D., of $1,925 in a fake new car deal.

China Government Proclaims Victory In Battle Of Suchow

Nationalists Claim Reds Have Suffered 130,000 Casualties

NANKING, Nov. 18 (AP)—A complete government victory was proclaimed today in the fateful battle of Suchow. Masses of Chinese Communists were reported surrendering or retreating after suffering 130,000 casualties.

Maj. Gen. Chang Liu-Shih, military spokesman, asserted that Communist troops north, east and south of the big base had been broken into small bands and were grounding arms. He listed government casualties at 40,000 men.

More sober opinion among Chinese officials is that the government won the first round in 10 days of bloody combat. The Communists were believed withdrawing to regroup for a probable second assault.

Even the pessimists conceded that Nanking is safe for at least one more month. Optimists declared Chiang Kai-Shek's fortunes are bounding after hitting the toboggan when it looked as if the day was lost.

Reds Rehash Past Events

(The Communist radio, for the first time since the battle broke, made no new claims of victory. As heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco, it was content with rehashing events of three days ago.)

A new possible trouble spot cropped up as both sides prepared for the next phase of the struggle north of Nanking.

A Shanghai reort said a Communist truck column had been spotted moving toward Tsingtao, the United States naval anchorage which is being reinforced by 1,250 United States marines from Guam. Tsingtao is 225 miles northeast of Suchow.

Officials in Nanking said they had heard the report. It was suggested the trucks might be headed for the Poshan mines west of Tsingtao to pick up coal.

Gen. Chaing told his news conference that "the battle for Suchow can be considered as concluded," but added: "What the Communists will do now is a subject of conjecture."

It seemed clear that a grave tactical error by the usually-adroit Gen. Chen Yi, who commands the Communist armies of East China, and wily one-eyed Gen. Liu Po-Cheng, Red commander in Central China, proved costly.

Chen deployed his troops on the plains east of Suchow in clear weather, and the Chinese air force struck them with all it had—more than 100 bombers and fighter bombers.

Reds Chose To Gamble

Liu, whose troops attacked from the south, cutting the railway from Suchow to Nanking, likewise found no cover from the aerial storm.

Both generals, who are used to fighting in rough terrain which provides a natural cover, seemed to lack the antiaircraft guns which their Manchurian comrades have been using to such good effect.

Instead of waiting for the cloudy weather which can be expected with approaching winter, they chose to gamble with Nanking's air field no more than an hour's flying time away.

It seems certain that at the least

CIO Leaders Cool To AFL Merger Bid

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 18—(AP)—High CIO officials today threw cool water on the AFL's annual proposal for a merger of the two organizations.

Recent cooperation between the AFL and CIO in the political and international fields has stirred up fresh talk of labor unity. At Cincinnati, the AFL convention called on AFL leaders to approach the CIO and "reach out and grasp them by the hand and urge them to come back into the AFL."

The CIO may issue a counter-invitation, on its own terms, at its own convention here next week, but these bids mean very little if fundamental obstacles remain in the way of a merger.

Convinced Obstacles Remain

CIO leaders are convinced fundamental obstacles do remain. They point to recent efforts of AFL craft unions to move into steel plants and other industries where CIO industrial unions now represent all the workers, regardless of craft.

The position of CIO leaders seems to be this:

They prabably will accept a suitable invitation to meet with AFL leaders and talk the thing over. If an agreement can be reached on such questions as union jurisdiction and craft unionism vs. industrial unionism, perhaps a merger can be worked out.

But the CIO leaders think there is practically no change of reaching an agreement on such questions. Above all, they will not consent to any arrangement under which the CIO would be "absorbed" by the larger organization.

Resolutions Group Meets

The CIO convention's committee on resolutions held its first meeting today. Van A. Bittner, chairman, declined to say what issues were discussed.

The big topic of conversation among CIO leaders continued to be the anti-Communist drive, which seems headed for a public showdown in the convention.

There is much speculation as to how far the convention will go in the direction of ridding the CIO leadership of people who have followed Communist Party policies on political and international questions.

Ruhr Issue Threat To French Regime

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—French fears that Britain and the United States are pushing German recovery too fast appeared today to be a greater danger to the French government than the Communist strike problem.

The National Assembly's Committee on Foreign Affairs protested violently the recent decision of the British and American military governments to return control of Ruhr coal mines and steel mills to German trustees.

The committee demanded that French representatives to the London six-power conference of the Ruhr take a stand not only for international control over distribution of the industrial area's coal and steel, but for "international technical and commercial control as well."

Foreign Minister Robert Schuman will be called before the Foreign Affairs Committee next week. He will have to do a lot of explaining to appease the Assembly.

United States Secretary of State Marshall talked privately today with Britain's Hector McNeil, and it was understood French objections on the Ruhr were discussed.

All French factions are united against pushing German recovery, and differ only as to degree.

U. S. Education Aid Asked

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 18 (AP)—The United Council of Church Women asked today for federal aid to education as a means to combat low teachers' salaries and inadequate school facilities.

Six American Newsmen Branded "Warmongers"

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 18 (AP) — Harry S. Martin, president of the American Newspaper Guild, walked out today on a meeting of the executive committee of the International Organization of Journalists which branded six Americans and one Turkish journalist as "warmongers and war propagandists."

The six were William Laurence, of the New York Times; Drew Pearson; Paul Shubert, of Collier's; Bela Kotcivary, of Look; Keebour, of Life; Cecil Braun; Jakid Yalchin, of Turkey.

Martin walked out after a clash with Russian Delegate Pavel Yudin, editor of the bi-weekly bulletin of the Communist International Information Bureau.

Yudin quoted numerous excerpts from American and British papers and alleged their authors were warmongers.

Businessman Sighs As He Looks Back On Amount Of Time Spent In Capital

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—A. C. Spurr is in Washington, wishing he weren't in Washington.

And he thinks a lot of other businessmen are here, every day, and wishing they were somewhere else.

Spurr is president of the Monongahela Power Company of Fairmont, W. Va. As he moodily stirred his coffee, he asked this reporter:

"Do you have any idea how much time the businessmen of this country have to spend in Washington?" No.

"I don't either. But it must be termendous. I think I can give you some idea from my home town of Fairmont, with a population of 30,000.

"It isn't quite as bad now, but during the war, when the coal people had a lot of business here, the night train always had a fairly full carload from Fairmont. Look at it on a national scale, and the total must be staggering."

Spurr sighed and sipped his coffee.

"And after they get here—. Do you know that I have been shifted from 10 to 12 agencies before I could find a man who knew the answer? It's so bad that many companies are hiring an expediter. He doesn't do any lobbying. All he does is find out where to go to get the answers."

Spurr said it isn't that he objects to governmental control. ("As a power monopoly," he said, "we have to have it.") But he said he thinks the tendency is to drift toward more and more controls, regardless of the party in power.

L. A.'s CANDIDATE-- Los Angeles' candidate for the country's tallest Christmas tree was erected yesterday in Pershing Square, where palm trees provide a semi-tropical contrast. The tree measures 95 feet from ground to tip, not including the star. This is five feet more than the tree to be erected in Rockefeller Center, New York, but three feet less than the one Redding, Calif., plans to put up.

DeGaulle's Views Source Of Worry For U. S. Officials

Fear ERP, Alliance Will Be Jeopardized

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The strong "France first" views of Gen. Charles DeGaulle, now enhanced by his increased political power, are again becoming a source of sharp concern for top American officials.

Diplomatic authorities fear that if DeGaulle gains control of the French government, his policies will jeopardize (1) success of European recovery program and (2) development of the projected North Atlantic defense alliance.

They regard his nationalism as running against the present trend of increasing international cooperation among the Western European nations themselves and between them and the United States.

Comment Arouses Interest

Considerable interest was aroused among State Department officials by DeGaulle's comment to a news conference yesterday that while he approves of the Marshall recovery plan it must not be allowed to displace "the essential interests of France." He made the statement in reaffirming his opposition to American and British plans for developing Western German industrial resources as an essential element of the recovery program.

DeGaulle held the news conference following the recent success of his French Peoples Party in attaining a strategic position in the upper house of the French Parliament. In talking about joint Western European defense plans in which Britain plays a leading role, he asserted, "It is inconceivable that the defense of France should be assured by anyone other than the French themselves."

Uncompromising Stand Feared

No one in authority here seems to consider it possible that DeGaulle, even in a row over the future control of German industry, would pull France out of the recovery program.

What the policy makers are afraid of is that if he were in power, the French leader would tend to disrupt international cooperation by an uncompromising attitude, particularly on the German issue.

Secondarily, authorities here believe that by making a domestic political fight on the issue DeGaulle may inflame French fears about a revived Germany to an extreme degree, and thereby hamper the operation of French governments even though his personal position was not decisive.

Quarryman's Body Found After 10 Days Of Digging

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., Nov. 18—(INS)—Ten days of intense rescue work in a Lambertville quarry ended today when the crushed body of Edgar S. Snyder, 64, came into view under a huge rock.

Rescue crews and special equipment had been rushed to Lambertville by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll when the quarryman and a companion, Raymond Wellman, 48, were buried under 200,000 tons of rock in a quarry landslide last week.

An official of the quarry company said Snyder must have died instantly. Wellman's body was found soon after the slide, about 30 feet from the site of Snyder's body.

Britain Asks U.N. To Repartition Palestine, Reduce Israel's Size

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Britain asked the United Nations today to repartition Palestine and reduce the size of Israel by three-fifths.

Israel's opposition to any such proposal was demonstrated sharply several hours later in Tel Aviv, when the Israeli government rejected flatly a directive of the Security Council to withdraw its troops from the Negev.

At the same time the Israeli government said it welcomed the action of the Security Council two days ago in calling for an armistice as a bridge for a Pelestine peace. Israel urged the United Nations to name the time and place the Israelis could meet representatives of the Arab states "to begin negotiations for a permanent peace."

Only tonight in Paris the acting Palestine mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, asked Israel and the seven Arab states to begin negotiations for an armistice to replace the present Holy Land truce .

Bunche said he believed the "interests of all parties to this dispute would be best served by direct negotiations undertaken by the parties themselves." He asked both sides to reply promptly on what type of negotiations they wanted.

A United Nations official said the United Nations had not yet been advised of the Israeli decision against withdrawing from the Negev.

Based On Bernadotte Plan

The Israeli position will have to be studied by Dr. Bunche before he makes any further recommendations.

The British submitted to the General Assembly's Political Committee a draft resolution calling for solution of the Holy Land problem on the basis of the plan of the late mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte.

Under that plan the Negev, or Southern Desert, would be given to the Arabs. In turn the Jews would receive Western Galilee. The original United Nations partition plan gave the Negev to the Jews and Western Galilee to the Arabs.

British spokesman declared the United States delegation was consulted "on an official level" during drafting of the resolution calling for a Palestine settlement on the basis of the Bernadotte report. The spokesman said the British were hopeful the proposal will receive American support.

An American informant said the United States delegation will make a preliminary statement on Palestine at the next meeting of the Assembly's Political Committee.

The committee had been scheduled to meet tomorrow, but the meeting was postponed tonight. No reason was given and no date was set for the next meeting.

Delegates said they expected the Palestine debate to take on new life after the United States speaks. Some delegates said the full United States position may not be known until after Secretary of State Marshall confers in Washington Monday with President Truman. The American delegation makes it a practice to refer all Palestine matters to the White House.

Chemist-To-Be Blows Off Pants And Cellar Door

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 18 (AP)—Less than an hour after he told his teacher he wants to be a chemist when he grows up, a 13-year-old boy blew off his pants and the cellar door of his home.

Young Larry Rose escaped with slight burns of his legs and arm in the explosion that resulted from his efforts to make a rocket.

The family residence did not get off so easily. The cellar door was blasted off, a back window shattered and a neighbor's garage window blown out.

Early End To Port Tieup Is Unlikely

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Prospects for a quick end to the East Coast waterfront strike faded today.

Continuation of the crippling walkout of AFL dock workers at least into next week was predicted by William N. Margolis, ace federal mediator who was sent here in an effort to crack an employer-union deadlock over a new contract.

Margolis made his comments after conferring with Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association, whose 65,000 members struck more than a week ago, and other union leaders.

The strike has closed ports from Maine to Virginia and has made heavy inroads into the East's industrial and commercial life.

Margolis said he expected negotiations to continue into next week.

One bright spot in the picture, however, is a meeting tomorrow of federal conciliators with representatives of ship owners and the union, the first joint meeting since the strike began.

Meanwhile, more industries began to stagger under the impact of the strike.

The American Sugar Refining Company said here it will have to close its Brooklyn and Baltimore plants within 10 to 12 days if the strike goes on. A. B. Babcock, refinery manager of the Brooklyn plant, said the raw sugar supplies there are nearly exhausted.

Dulles Says U. S. Wants Strong, Unified Europe

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—If Western Europe chooses to remain feeble and disunited its separate pieces may be drawn one at a time "into the orbit of the East," John Foster Dulles warned today.

Speaking to the American Club of Paris, Dulles said Americans want a strong and unified Europe capable of standing up for itself. He denounced as "ignoble" any charge that the United States wants to use the continent merely as a base for achieving world mastery.

Dulles, a Republican, was designated today by President Truman as acting chairman of the United States delegation to the United Nations Assembly.

Snowstorm, Moving East, Disrupts Communications

GARDEN CITY, Kas., Nov. 18 (AP)—A snowstorm blew eastward tonight from the Plains region after halting highway travel and disrupting communications in six states.

Cold air masses sweeping down from the Rockies spread snow up to a foot deep over Eastern Colorado, Northwestern Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, and parts of New Mexico and the Texas Panhandle.

Visibility in 19 Southwest Kansas counties was reported nearly at zero by highway division headquarters. Traffic on all highways there was at a standstill. Crews roamed the roads towing dozens of stalled cars out of ditches.

Snow was still falling in Western Kansas tonight. The C.A.A. said wind strength was at 75 miles an hour.

Driving snow had closed United States Highway 64 at one point in the Oklahoma Panhandle and motorists were warned off other roads in the chill northwest corner of the state.

Clearing weather in the Idaho primitive area made possible air rescue of 20 snowbound hunters and an injured forest service worker.

"The Kansas storm will move east northeastward through the southern Great Lakes region during the next 36 hours," the Chicago Weather Bureau said. It added that the storm will be "attended by widespread precipitation." The southern sections will get rain and the north, snow.

Temperatures were about normal in the East today.

In Kansas, S. D. Flora, weatherman at Topeka, said Western Kansas had all the elements of a blizzard except that temperatures were not extremely cold.

Temperatures were colder to the west, slipping to two degrees below zero at Big Piney, Wyo.

Cresaptown Water Meeting Monday

A proposed bill to set up a special taxing area for the purpose of providing an adequate water supply for Cresaptown will be explained at a meeting of the Cresaptown Civic Improvement Association at 8 p. m. Monday at Cresaptown School.

Gordon O. Garis, seeretary of the civic group, said the meeting is the most important one to date concerning the water situation. It has been proposed that a taxing district be established for the purpose of paying for the cost and that water be purchased from the City of Cumberland.

Garis said the Board of Allegany County Commissioners and the Mayor and Council of Cumberland have been informed as to the property valuation of Cresaptown and the cost of the proposed project. He added that favorable responses have been received.

The secretary said the taxing area property is valued at $1,150,000 and that it is estimated the project will cost about $60,000. The tax for the project, if it is carried out, would not exceed 45 cents on $100, Garis stated.

Operating and maintenance costs would be paid from current revenue. The cost of water under the new plan, he stated, would be the same as now or lower. The average cost per residence runs between $30 and $35 yearly or double the cost in Cumberland. Garis explained the 45-cent tax rate is based on a 20-year plan.

It was emphasized by the official that the proposed legislation will set up a taxing area for water only. He said that in the past some confusion has resulted because of attempts to cover too much ground in a single piece of legislation.

Tonight at 7:30 the association is holding an amateur talent show at the school. Over 20 entries have been received.

Auto Trade Practices Not Confined To Washington

While the House committee investigating automobile trade practices is confining its probings to the Washington area, any American city could probably provide a duplicate of the picture already presented and for that reason many Cumberlanders are following the investigation with interest. It was the prevalence of these practices throughout the country which inspired a House investigating committee to start the present inquiry.

It is good to have the light of publicity directed on these practices because it is common knowledge that the customer who seeks a new automobile now-a-days can nearly always expect to be the victim of a hard bargain. In the first place, the prices of new cars, even without accessories, have shot sky high. Then, when you start adding unwanted extras and consider the low allowance offered for trade-ins by a great many dealers, the final figure becomes gigantic.

There are some dealers who do not insist on a trade-in or who give fairly liberal allowances. But there are many others who offer far below actual value for the trade-in and sell it, quite often, for almost twice the allowance. The customer can't be blamed for feeling cheated.

The automobile dealers defend this practice by pointing to the inflated value of new cars on used car lots. They argue that, by selling at list price they are losing money and that their customer can, himself, realize that additional value by selling his new car to a used car dealer. The dealers claim the only way they can cover that loss is on their trade-in policy.

The argument has some justification. But it offers small comfort to the buyer who needs a new car and intends to keep it. Because of the scarcity of new cars, he has to agree to almost anything to get one. The dealer who is making hay while the sun shines at the expense of his customer may be unpleasantly surprised at the turn of events when a buyers' market returns to the automobile business.

Further, it would surprise no one if, as a result of the revelations now being made, there is an attempt in Congress to put an end to the type of transactions which have given the automobile industry a black eye. The final result may be that dealers will be subjected to rules and regulations which will vastly increase the difficulties of doing business.

Nursing Progress Week Comes To A Close Tomorrow

The observance of Nursing Progress Week comes to a close tomorrow. It has been part of the Diamond Jubilee of Nursing being celebrated throughout the country, and which will continue for a year. During this week nurses in Maryland have paid tribute to the memory of Linda Richards, who held the distinction of having been the first professional nurse in the United States.

The week's activities also have afforded wearers of the white uniform and cap, through the medium of associations, an opportunity to bring to public attention their program for greater economic security. It calls for an 8-hour day with progress toward a 40-hour, five-day week, salary adjustments for evening, night and on-call duty, Federal social security, vacations with pay and sick leave, removal of restrictions on place of residence, and greater recognition of professional and personal status.

It is contended that the average wage of slightly more than $35 a week does not provide the economic status those in the profession deserve. In Cumberland, for instance, general duty nurses are paid around $160 per month, while private-duty nurses receive $70 for a 56-hour week. The nurses put emphasis on those facts to, as they point out, "get rid of one deadly superstitution which clings to nursing —the notion that they live on air."

The proposed program is based on the fact that nursing has come a long way since Linda Richards became the first "woman in white" in this country. The ever-expanding training courses during the last decade, it is pointed out, has enabled those who entered this worthy profession to become so skilled in helping physicians that many medical functions are now relegated to nurses.

All this places them in a decidedly favorable and preferred classification and provides many reasons for seeking the things set out in the program. And there is hardly a person who would raise a finger to deny them the economic security they ask if it were possible without running the risk of denying needed nursing care to those whose economic position is less than that of nurses.

The Blessed Event Which Has Come To Great Britain

When a boy was born to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Edinburg, they presented Great Britain with its future king—on three conditions beyond their control: that the child survives his mother; that the monarchy endures, and that Parliament does not decide to change the succession. Since all these conditions in Nature and in law are likely to be realized, the little "Heir Presumptive once removed" is destined for the throne.

Certainly the great crowd gathered outside Buckingham Palace were hailing their future king when they burst into song—the traditional "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"—after a leather-lunged announcer spread the happy tidings. The reaction of that crowd, or rather what it signified, is the most important feature of Britain's blessed event. Here is a socialistic state, with economic and social institutions that seem radical to most Americans, yet which remains solidly loyal to the monarchy.

These people know that the king is not really their ruler. They realize that the throne is a symbol that holds together what remains of the British Empire and the now independent dominions. But what they feel about the royal family is much more important than what they think, and what they feel is a sense of kinship—respectful, occasionally critical, sometimes amused, but always affectionate. And the royal family knows it perfectly well.

That unique relationship has done its large part to preserve a national character that has pulled the British through a pair of terrible wars and is now restoring them despite gigantic odds. Perhaps this sophisticated age needs to be reminded that national character is the chief ingredient of a great nation.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Goiter History

Simple goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck. The organ is neither over nor underactive—just swollen. The afflicted individual is healthy and many are not bothered except by the appearance of the abnormality. Most victims are girls and the disturbance usually begins in the teens, frequently disappearing or diminishing by the age of 30.

Van Dellen

The derangement is often called "endemic goiter" because large numbers of residents of certain areas were affected. In the United States such "goiter belts" were found in the Great Lakes area, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and the Pacific northwest. In these regions it was demonstrated that the water and food were deficient in iodine and we now realize that lack of this mineral is responsible for the enlargement.

Goiter was common centuries ago and it was the general belief at that time that water was the culprit. According to Greer "goiter springs" were popular in Europe where young men went to imbibe in order to develop the disorder and thus avoid military service. The use of snow water was also considered causative and the acute outbreak of goiter that occurred during Captain Cook's voyage was blamed on this source. No attention was paid to the fact that in Finland and Greenland, where melted snow is the sole drinking supply, the condition is rare. The origin has been attributed to many other factors, such as food, infection, and the breathing of unwholesome or damp air.

On the other hand, for over a century, iodine has been known to be curative. In 1851, Prevost suggested that goiter might be due to a shortage of iodine. During the same year Chatin started to publish the results of his analaysis of the amounts of iodine in salt, air, and water. This was the first concrete evidence of our modern theory. By 1855 the French, Italian, and Australian governments were adding potassium iodide to their table salt.

Then a curious thing happened. The plan was abandoned when iodine was blamed for all types of thyroid conditions including the toxic goiter, which leaves its victims skin and bones in no time. It was not until the turn of the century that the second iodine period came into vogue. More accurate research was possible and statistical reports from all over the world began to appear demonstrating the value of iodine. Nowadays, we know that a tiny dose of this chemical will prevent the disorder. Iodized salt is available and goiter belts are receiving food from all over the world.

During the last decade, some of the ancient beliefs have been studied more thoroughly. Scientists found that certain foods can cause the gland to enlarge. Cabbage, meats, fats, soybeans, and liver have been incriminated but it is believed that the small amount of cyanide which is present in some of these edibles is responsible. The effect of this chemical, however, is not so great as lack of iodine.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman And Hoover Plan Government Reorganization Together; China's Chances For Democratic Aid Slim; To Try For Steel Industry Expansion

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — Regardless of the GOP defeat, it looks as if the Hoover Commission on Reorganization of the Government was going to win out in the end.

Created by the "second worst Congress," and sponsored by Senator Taft's spokesman, Congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio, most Democrats figured the Hoover Commission's work would now be junked. But it won't, and there are two good reasons why.

One reason is Harry Truman. The other is Herbert Hoover.

These two gentlemen have become quite fond of each other. Despite the cracks he took at Hoover during the campaign (which came under the head of "campaign oratory"), Truman really likes Hoover. And the feeling is reciprocated.

Hoover had never set foot in the White House since the sad day he left it in 1933 until Truman invited him back after Roosevelt's death. The fact that Truman called the ex-President in for consultation automatically shielded him from the barbs and sting which the New Dealers had slung in his direction for twelve long years. No longer was Hoover their favoite punching-bag.

Not only that but Truman had brought him before the public eye once again. And Hoover was so grateful he even requested the Gridiron Club to let him speak, in order to pay special tribute to his newfound friend.

Truman, in turn, not only likes Hoover, but plans to use Hoover's name to wrest from Congress powers which they refused to give Franklin Roosevelt.

Congress Withheld Power

Truman not only wants to be a good President, but he is actually sensitive to Dewey's charges that Washington needs a housecleaning. He has one in mind. But he has learned, far better than Dewey, that you can't clean house unless Congress gives you the power to housecleaning.

Roosevelt asked for housecleaning power, and Harry Truman, then only a junior Senator, vividly recalls how the Republican press smeared it as the "Dictatorship Bill" and how a Democratic Congress barely passed a bill giving him severely restricted powers.

So Truman wants to use Hoover's name to put through a new reorganization bill, and he wants Hoover's support in lining up conservative Republicans to back him.

Furthermore, Truman believes that Hoover, like the Supreme Court, has read the election returns, and will not recommend anything which he, Truman, can't go along with. Since Hoover was also once a President, conditioned by the White House background, they think somewhat alike on what is needed in the executive branch of the Government.

There are only two living men who have any idea of the cares and wear and loneliness of the Presidency. This bond makes the two men closer than party labels. That, perhaps, was one reason why Hoover stayed out of the recent campaign, even refused to let the Republicans get campaign ammunition from his Commission files.

Furthermore, Hoover needs Truman even more than Truman needs him. This is Herbert Hoover's last public service. He has worked long, hard hours, and he wants this reorganization of government to be a final monument to his career. That is why he is leaning heavily on Truman to rescue his last efforts from defeat. Unless Truman does so, and gives them a Democratic label in the new Democratic Congress, they will have no chance of passage and Hoover's last effort for his country, his one chance to stage a comeback, will have vanished.

Not Much Aid For China

Chiang Kai-shek's chances of receiving vast new appropriations from the incoming Democratic Congress appear pretty slim, if energetic Congressman Sol Bloom, new Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has his way.

Quoth Sol privately to friends:

"I'm not going to vote to give Chiang another gun or another dollar for war purposes until he cleans his own house. That Chinese Government has corruption coming out its ears—and their so-called army is the worst offender.

"Furthermore," opined Bloom, "we ought to stop these phony American observers who go over to China for a month and then come back to tell us either what we already know about Chinese Army graft, or only what Chiang wants us to know."

Bloom was referring to William C. Bullitt, who can claim the unique distinction of having deserted three American Presidents and who, having jumped on the Dewey bandwagon, ducked off to China before the Truman Administration could stop him. He was appointed by the Republicans—before the elections—as an "observer."

Steel Production Must Increase

You can write it down as definite that the Interior Department will ask Congress to force the steel industry to increase production—if the industry doesn't take the necessary steps itself.

Steel production has now dropped from a wartime peak of 95.5 million tons to 91.2 million tons annually—the only major industry to fall down.

The reason: big steel companies have refused to expand. Two big steel spokesmen — Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel and Charlie White of Republic Steel —have buntly advised their stockholders to wait until costs come down before building new facilities. Meanwhile, the need for steel is increasing as production lags.

To meet the crisis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior Girard Davidson has appealed to Senator Joe O'Mahoney, who will head the joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, to introduce legislation forcing the steel industry to expand.

Merry-Go-Round

Democratic colleagues are trying to cook up a deal whereby venerable Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee would become Senate President pro tem, providing he agrees to step aside as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. If this happens, able Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona would become Appropriations Chairman. However, those close to McKellar doubt that the power-loving Tennessean will give up his seniority stranglehold on the Appropriations post—even to become Senate President pro tem. . . . Insiders who got prompt acknowledgements from President Truman when they wired their congratulations, are now treasuring telegrams from him which include the statement: "We now have an unmistakeable mandate from the American people." . . . Conscientious, controversial Robert N. Denham, General Counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, is due to be legislated out of his job. Few labor leaders will be sad. . . . To encourage a larger turnout at the polls, Congressman Arthur Klein of New York will ask Congress to grant a $40 income-tax exemption to everyone who votes.

Growing Populations Pressing Against Decreasing Resources

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Every year the world's population increases by 20,00,000. Every decade the increase would fill an empty United States up to its present 145,000,000 with fifty-five billions to spare.

There are more people in Europe than before the war, despite its red blight. But there is no empty New World to which they can go. Or, if there were empty, fertile space to which they could migrate, it would not long relieve Europe's population pressures, for Europe would continue to breed as it has done since the discovery of the New World.

There are about 2,500,000,000 people on the earth. Allowing two and one-half acres of tillable land per person as a minimum for food, clothing, etc., the world has 900,000,000 more people than it can well take care of. Yet, by the end of the century, it will have an additional 500,000,000 demanding to be "free from want"; demanding food, housing, fuel, oil, iron, coal, copper, and atom bombs!

Populations Grow; Resources Drop

What do the endless debates in the United Nations contribute to this problem? They talk about the conquest of disease, public health, cancer research, etc., but the present conquests of plagues, diseases of infancy, death by childbirth, poor sanitation, etc., have left increasing populations pressing against decreasing natural resources.

If, today, medical science reduced the death rate in India to the present death rate in the United States, but India's birth rate continued as it is, India could fill five worlds as big as this planet, and as overcrowded as it already is, in a single century.

When President Roosevelt said that the dream of "freedom from want" is not a distant goal, but something realizable in our generation, he was talking nonsense.

In the face of this tremendous population problem, the Berlin "airlife," the movement of a few D. P.'s from one place to another, the talk of One World, an International Bill of Rights, and angry shoutings of the peace-loving delegates pales into insignificance.

More peace treaties. More pieces of paper. Yet, as Colonel Cushing of the Army War College points out, history records 8,000 treaties already. On the average, they were faithfully observed for two years!

Purring Propaganda

As an example of the purring propaganda of peace, prosperity and plenty, I quote the Office of War Information (misinformation!): "Beyond any doubt, men now possess the technical ability to produce in great abundance . . . enough for everyone." Every serious student of the world's population problem knows that is as false as a $7 bill.

Dr. Thomas Parran, former Surgeon General of our Public Health Service, says: "The greatest possible increase in food production will not for decades be enough to meet the minimum adequate diet." The Department of Agriculture reports that, after making allowance for increase of population, food production in calories, per capita, is 12% less than pre-war.

The Pan-American Union says that Latin America is already a "vanishing continent." It is vanishing because its land is being washed into the sea, its fertility exhausted, its resources consumed far beyond the power of synthetic laboratories to replace. And so everywhere! Our Soil Conservation Service tells us that three billion tons of soil are wasted or blown away each year.

How do you get freedom from want and war out of these facts? As Walter B. Pitkin says, unless limitation of population growth can be brought about "this immense war just finished will have been fought in vain." An honest facing-up to the facts requires a reappraisal of America's foreign policy.

Immediate Repeal Of Labor Law Is Not Believed Likely

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Labor leaders who have been hoping to stampede the next Congress with the cry that the people voted to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act without any substitute except the old Wagner Act will have to revise their thinking.

Within the last few days the labor leaders—both CIO and AFL—have stated publicly that they want an immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and then an interval of time while Congress considers a proper substitute.

This plan, however, now has been publicly squelched by Maurice Tobin, secretary of labor in the Truman administration, who apparently is going to have a good deal to say about the kind of labor law that replaces the Taft-Hartley Act.

Maybe the labor leaders didn't read very carefully what the Secretary of Labor said in his speech last Monday to the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, but he minced no words when it came to outlining the procedure that would be followed by the Administration. He said:

"Simultaneous with repeal, there must be substituted a fair and just law which will encourage and protect lowly paid workers in unionizing attempts and which will aid labor and management to maintain industrial peace under the processes of free collective bargaining."

Indicates No Illusions

The use of the word "simultaneous" indicates that Mr. Tobin at least has no illusions about the success of any proposal to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and leave the country with only the old Wagner Act for even a brief period of time.

The strategy of the labor leaders, of course, has been to get the Taft-Hartley law repealed, and then to hold their veto power over Congress as to what kind of law should be substituted for the Taft-Hartley Act's provisions. Actually, the situation is going to work out in just the reverse way. It is the supporters of the Taft-Hartley law who will hold the veto over what kind of substitute law shall be passed. It is a safe assumption now that the Taft-Hartley law will never be repealed until an agreement has been reached on the kind of law that will take its place.

For one thing, there are many cases pending in the courts and the status of the present National Labor Relations Board would be imperiled if the Taft-Hartley law were repealed without any reference to a substitute. The labor board consisted of three members before the Taft-Hartley law was passed and now it has five members. Two of these would be without jobs upon restoration of the Wagner Act while a long debate might ensue as to how the act should be amended.

There are other cases in process of litigation which would be affected, and it would result in a chaotic condition if provisions in the present law were repealed without a substitute taking its place on the same day.

As a matter of fact, after Congress gets through working on a new law, it is doubtful whether the word "repeal" will have any meaning except for campaign purposes. The Democrats will be able to point to the fact that they have "repealed" the statute, but as a practical matter all that will have been done will be to modify some of the porvisions of the Taft-Hartley Act and the old Wagner Act and enact a new law which will probably bear the name of some Democratic members.

Legislation To Take Much Time

The battle over the Taft-Hartley Act may be as important in the next Congress as any attempt to introduce civil-rights legislation. The political life of many members of the Democratic Party in the south is inseparably bound up with the whole problem of the unionization of southern workers.

Just what kind of law will be passed it is too early to say, but it is a fact that 55 members of the United States Senate who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act are to be members of the next Congress. In the House of Representatives more than a majority who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act are also to take their seats. There are many Democrats who were elected from farm district who will not favor a one-sided labor law.

It is more realistic to say the Taft-Hartley Act will be repealed or modified only when the supporters of that law have agreed to a compromise substitute. This will take time and it may be next spring before any agreement can be reached on the subject.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Public Works Department

One of the problems faced by Hoover Committee, which has been appointed to plan for the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, is the complexity of organs of government engaged in public works, river control, water conservation, natural resources, survey organizations and related work. A comprehensive plan for an area is almost impossible because of the multitudes of bureaus and interests, the overlappings and conflicts.

The Hoover Committee asked Robert Moses, undoubtedly America's greatest authority on public works and a public official of outstanding ability, to devote himself to the task of preparing a study of the subject. As far back as 1922, a joint commission of Congress had recommended the establishment of a Public Works Department. Nothing come of it.

President Hoover made a similar proposal in 1932; President Roosevelt made a similar proposal. Both were ignorned because of the entrenched power of vested interests whose principal concern is to keep the jobs they have.

Always, every effort to creat an efficient organ of government to look after public works was defeated by an effective lobby of Army engineers who want to hold on to as much of that kind of work as they have for years had under their control.

Public works have developed beyond the authority and capacity of the engineer corps of the Army, but they fight to retain their peacetime work. They are now setting up an attack on the Hoover report, in spite of the fact that one of the members of Mr. Moses's task force is former Secretary of War Robert Patterson, who is undobutedly fully familiar with virtues of the Army engineers.

The facts are that about $50,000,000,000 of public works projects are pending or in a state of proposal. No overall authority exists to decide which of these projects needs to be done now, which are immediately unnecessary but are to be considered for future developments, which are fantastic, politically or even corruptly designed. "Pork-barrel" politics play a great part in all this—the combine of government officials, members of Congress, and keen contractors.

The Army engineers are about 200 in number, but they have a staff of 34,000 civilians of whom a few thousand are civil engineers. The articulated theory is that those who trained in the Army engineer corps —military or civilian — receive a training which could be useful in time of war. The fact, of course, is that in time of war, engineers and other experts out of private enterprises are put into uniform for service, to return to civilian usefulness when the war is over. We have done extraordinarily well by this method.

Certainly if the engineers worked in a Public Works Department, they could still be used in war. A very small part of our armed forces, from top to bottom, during the last war, came from the Regular Army.

The proposed Department of Public Works would include the bureaus of reclamation, of flood control, of public buildings, of highways, all the mineral resources agencies, the various bureaus in charge of water, and the survey branches of the government.

In other words everything would be put into one department of government that organically belonged there. There would be no overlapping of departmental authority, no conflict of policy over a single project, no duplication of effort, no multiplying of personnel and costs, no "empire building."

The Hoover report, as item by item appears, will be viciously attacked by vested interests. Fortunes have been made out of the inefficiency of governmental operators. Men have built powers in government by holding on to authority even if great damage is done because of their selfishness. The present confusions resulted in the loss of millions of dollars as the Hoover report will show when it is published.

There was a time when the American people were rich, when the national debt was trifling and taxes low. We could afford the luxury of inefficiency, confusion and waste. We are not in that condition any longer. A few hundred million dollars saved counts now in the Unit ! States of America. Savings here and there can mount to a few billions each year. It counts.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Just call me Twinkle Toes.

Yes, sir, on November 27th at the Olympic Auditorium here in L. A. they're holding a famous dance festival.

I asked one of the jitterbug entries where he learned to move so fast. He said, "When I first started learning the two-step, my partner was a riveting machine."

I always wanted to dance, so I went to one of those dance studios that says: "If you can walk, we can teach you to dance." I ended up taking the six-week course in how to walk.

But the Conga is one dance that always interested me because of the way you shake all over. Of course, the first time I was on a Conga line was when my brother and I lined up at the draft board.

The Waltz is very charming, too, but you have to hold your partner a foot away. Then they have other dances for us young men.

Auto Trade Practices Not Confined To Washington

While the House committee investigating automobile trade practices is confining its probings to the Washington area, any American city could probably provide a duplicate of the picture already presented and for that reason many Cumberlanders are following the investigation with interest. It was the prevalence of these practices throughout the country which inspired a House investigating committee to start the present inquiry.

It is good to have the light of publicity directed on these practices because it is common knowledge that the customer who seeks a new automobile now-a-days can nearly always expect to be the victim of a hard bargain. In the first place, the prices of new cars, even without accessories, have shot sky high. Then, when you start adding unwanted extras and consider the low allowance offered for trade-ins by a great many dealers, the final figure becomes gigantic.

There are some dealers who do not insist on a trade-in or who give fairly liberal allowances. But there are many others who offer far below actual value for the trade-in and sell it, quite often, for almost twice the allowance. The customer can't be blamed for feeling cheated.

The automobile dealers defend this practice by pointing to the inflated value of new cars on used car lots. They argue that, by selling at list price they are losing money and that their customer can, himself, realize that additional value by selling his new car to a used car dealer. The dealers claim the only way they can cover that loss is on their trade-in policy.

The argument has some justification. But it offers small comfort to the buyer who needs a new car and intends to keep it. Because of the scarcity of new cars, he has to agree to almost anything to get one. The dealer who is making hay while the sun shines at the expense of his customer may be unpleasantly surprised at the turn of events when a buyers' market returns to the automobile business.

Further, it would surprise no one if, as a result of the revelations now being made, there is an attempt in Congress to put an end to the type of transactions which have given the automobile industry a black eye. The final result may be that dealers will be subjected to rules and regulations which will vastly increase the difficulties of doing business.

Nursing Progress Week Comes To A Close Tomorrow

The observance of Nursing Progress Week comes to a close tomorrow. It has been part of the Diamond Jubilee of Nursing being celebrated throughout the country, and which will continue for a year. During this week nurses in Maryland have paid tribute to the memory of Linda Richards, who held the distinction of having been the first professional nurse in the United States.

The week's activities also have afforded wearers of the white uniform and cap, through the medium of associations, an opportunity to bring to public attention their program for greater economic security. It calls for an 8-hour day with progress toward a 40-hour, five-day week, salary adjustments for evening, night and on-call duty, Federal social security, vacations with pay and sick leave, removal of restrictions on place of residence, and greater recognition of professional and personal status.

It is contended that the average wage of slightly more than $35 a week does not provide the economic status those in the profession deserve. In Cumberland, for instance, general duty nurses are paid around $160 per month, while private-duty nurses receive $70 for a 56-hour week. The nurses put emphasis on those facts to, as they point out, "get rid of one deadly superstitution which clings to nursing —the notion that they live on air."

The proposed program is based on the fact that nursing has come a long way since Linda Richards became the first "woman in white" in this country. The ever-expanding training courses during the last decade, it is pointed out, has enabled those who entered this worthy profession to become so skilled in helping physicians that many medical functions are now relegated to nurses.

All this places them in a decidedly favorable and preferred classification and provides many reasons for seeking the things set out in the program. And there is hardly a person who would raise a finger to deny them the economic security they ask if it were possible without running the risk of denying needed nursing care to those whose economic position is less than that of nurses.

The Blessed Event Which Has Come To Great Britain

When a boy was born to Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Edinburg, they presented Great Britain with its future king—on three conditions beyond their control: that the child survives his mother; that the monarchy endures, and that Parliament does not decide to change the succession. Since all these conditions in Nature and in law are likely to be realized, the little "Heir Presumptive once removed" is destined for the throne.

Certainly the great crowd gathered outside Buckingham Palace were hailing their future king when they burst into song—the traditional "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow"—after a leather-lunged announcer spread the happy tidings. The reaction of that crowd, or rather what it signified, is the most important feature of Britain's blessed event. Here is a socialistic state, with economic and social institutions that seem radical to most Americans, yet which remains solidly loyal to the monarchy.

These people know that the king is not really their ruler. They realize that the throne is a symbol that holds together what remains of the British Empire and the now independent dominions. But what they feel about the royal family is much more important than what they think, and what they feel is a sense of kinship—respectful, occasionally critical, sometimes amused, but always affectionate. And the royal family knows it perfectly well.

That unique relationship has done its large part to preserve a national character that has pulled the British through a pair of terrible wars and is now restoring them despite gigantic odds. Perhaps this sophisticated age needs to be reminded that national character is the chief ingredient of a great nation.

Goiter History

Van Dellen

Simple goiter is an enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck. The organ is neither over nor underactive—just swollen. The afflicted individual is healthy and many are not bothered except by the appearance of the abnormality. Most victims are girls and the disturbance usually begins in the teens, frequently disappearing or diminishing by the age of 30.

The derangement is often called "endemic goiter" because large numbers of residents of certain areas were affected. In the United States such "goiter belts" were found in the Great Lakes area, Minnesota, the Dakotas, and the Pacific northwest. In these regions it was demonstrated that the water and food were deficient in iodine and we now realize that lack of this mineral is responsible for the enlargement.

Goiter was common centuries ago and it was the general belief at that time that water was the culprit. According to Greer "goiter springs" were popular in Europe where young men went to imbibe in order to develop the disorder and thus avoid military service. The use of snow water was also considered causative and the acute outbreak of goiter that occurred during Captain Cook's voyage was blamed on this source. No attention was paid to the fact that in Finland and Greenland, where melted snow is the sole drinking supply, the condition is rare. The origin has been attributed to many other factors, such as food, infection, and the breathing of unwholesome or damp air.

On the other hand, for over a century, iodine has been known to be curative. In 1851, Prevost suggested that goiter might be due to a shortage of iodine. During the same year Chatin started to publish the results of his analaysis of the amounts of iodine in salt, air, and water. This was the first concrete evidence of our modern theory. By 1855 the French, Italian, and Australian governments were adding potassium iodide to their table salt.

Then a curious thing happened. The plan was abandoned when iodine was blamed for all types of thyroid conditions including the toxic goiter, which leaves its victims skin and bones in no time. It was not until the turn of the century that the second iodine period came into vogue. More accurate research was possible and statistical reports from all over the world began to appear demonstrating the value of iodine. Nowadays, we know that a tiny dose of this chemical will prevent the disorder. Iodized salt is available and goiter belts are receiving food from all over the world.

During the last decade, some of the ancient beliefs have been studied more thoroughly. Scientists found that certain foods can cause the gland to enlarge. Cabbage, meats, fats, soybeans, and liver have been incriminated but it is believed that the small amount of cyanide which is present in some of these edibles is responsible. The effect of this chemical, however, is not so great as lack of iodine.

Truman And Hoover Plan Government Reorganization Together; China's Chances For Democratic Aid Slim; To Try For Steel Industry Expansion

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — Regardless of the GOP defeat, it looks as if the Hoover Commission on Reorganization of the Government was going to win out in the end.

Created by the "second worst Congress," and sponsored by Senator Taft's spokesman, Congressman Clarence Brown of Ohio, most Democrats figured the Hoover Commission's work would now be junked. But it won't, and there are two good reasons why.

One reason is Harry Truman. The other is Herbert Hoover.

These two gentlemen have become quite fond of each other. Despite the cracks he took at Hoover during the campaign (which came under the head of "campaign oratory"), Truman really likes Hoover. And the feeling is reciprocated.

Hoover had never set foot in the White House since the sad day he left it in 1933 until Truman invited him back after Roosevelt's death. The fact that Truman called the ex-President in for consultation automatically shielded him from the barbs and sting which the New Dealers had slung in his direction for twelve long years. No longer was Hoover their favoite punching-bag.

Not only that but Truman had brought him before the public eye once again. And Hoover was so grateful he even requested the Gridiron Club to let him speak, in order to pay special tribute to his newfound friend.

Truman, in turn, not only likes Hoover, but plans to use Hoover's name to wrest from Congress powers which they refused to give Franklin Roosevelt.

Congress Withheld Power

Truman not only wants to be a good President, but he is actually sensitive to Dewey's charges that Washington needs a housecleaning. He has one in mind. But he has learned, far better than Dewey, that you can't clean house unless Congress gives you the power to housecleaning.

Roosevelt asked for housecleaning power, and Harry Truman, then only a junior Senator, vividly recalls how the Republican press smeared it as the "Dictatorship Bill" and how a Democratic Congress barely passed a bill giving him severely restricted powers.

So Truman wants to use Hoover's name to put through a new reorganization bill, and he wants Hoover's support in lining up conservative Republicans to back him.

Furthermore, Truman believes that Hoover, like the Supreme Court, has read the election returns, and will not recommend anything which he, Truman, can't go along with. Since Hoover was also once a President, conditioned by the White House background, they think somewhat alike on what is needed in the executive branch of the Government.

There are only two living men who have any idea of the cares and wear and loneliness of the Presidency. This bond makes the two men closer than party labels. That, perhaps, was one reason why Hoover stayed out of the recent campaign, even refused to let the Republicans get campaign ammunition from his Commission files.

Furthermore, Hoover needs Truman even more than Truman needs him. This is Herbert Hoover's last public service. He has worked long, hard hours, and he wants this reorganization of government to be a final monument to his career. That is why he is leaning heavily on Truman to rescue his last efforts from defeat. Unless Truman does so, and gives them a Democratic label in the new Democratic Congress, they will have no chance of passage and Hoover's last effort for his country, his one chance to stage a comeback, will have vanished.

Not Much Aid For China

Chiang Kai-shek's chances of receiving vast new appropriations from the incoming Democratic Congress appear pretty slim, if energetic Congressman Sol Bloom, new Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, has his way.

Quoth Sol privately to friends:

"I'm not going to vote to give Chiang another gun or another dollar for war purposes until he cleans his own house. That Chinese Government has corruption coming out its ears—and their so-called army is the worst offender.

"Furthermore," opined Bloom, "we ought to stop these phony American observers who go over to China for a month and then come back to tell us either what we already know about Chinese Army graft, or only what Chiang wants us to know."

Bloom was referring to William C. Bullitt, who can claim the unique distinction of having deserted three American Presidents and who, having jumped on the Dewey bandwagon, ducked off to China before the Truman Administration could stop him. He was appointed by the Republicans—before the elections—as an "observer."

Steel Production Must Increase

You can write it down as definite that the Interior Department will ask Congress to force the steel industry to increase production—if the industry doesn't take the necessary steps itself.

Steel production has now dropped from a wartime peak of 95.5 million tons to 91.2 million tons annually—the only major industry to fall down.

The reason: big steel companies have refused to expand. Two big steel spokesmen — Eugene Grace of Bethlehem Steel and Charlie White of Republic Steel —have buntly advised their stockholders to wait until costs come down before building new facilities. Meanwhile, the need for steel is increasing as production lags.

To meet the crisis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior Girard Davidson has appealed to Senator Joe O'Mahoney, who will head the joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, to introduce legislation forcing the steel industry to expand.

Merry-Go-Round

Democratic colleagues are trying to cook up a deal whereby venerable Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee would become Senate President pro tem, providing he agrees to step aside as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee. If this happens, able Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona would become Appropriations Chairman. However, those close to McKellar doubt that the power-loving Tennessean will give up his seniority stranglehold on the Appropriations post—even to become Senate President pro tem. . . . Insiders who got prompt acknowledgements from President Truman when they wired their congratulations, are now treasuring telegrams from him which include the statement: "We now have an unmistakeable mandate from the American people." . . . Conscientious, controversial Robert N. Denham, General Counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, is due to be legislated out of his job. Few labor leaders will be sad. . . . To encourage a larger turnout at the polls, Congressman Arthur Klein of New York will ask Congress to grant a $40 income-tax exemption to everyone who votes.

Growing Populations Pressing Against Decreasing Resources

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Every year the world's population increases by 20,00,000. Every decade the increase would fill an empty United States up to its present 145,000,000 with fifty-five billions to spare.

There are more people in Europe than before the war, despite its red blight. But there is no empty New World to which they can go. Or, if there were empty, fertile space to which they could migrate, it would not long relieve Europe's population pressures, for Europe would continue to breed as it has done since the discovery of the New World.

There are about 2,500,000,000 people on the earth. Allowing two and one-half acres of tillable land per person as a minimum for food, clothing, etc., the world has 900,000,000 more people than it can well take care of. Yet, by the end of the century, it will have an additional 500,000,000 demanding to be "free from want"; demanding food, housing, fuel, oil, iron, coal, copper, and atom bombs!

Populations Grow; Resources Drop

What do the endless debates in the United Nations contribute to this problem? They talk about the conquest of disease, public health, cancer research, etc., but the present conquests of plagues, diseases of infancy, death by childbirth, poor sanitation, etc., have left increasing populations pressing against decreasing natural resources.

If, today, medical science reduced the death rate in India to the present death rate in the United States, but India's birth rate continued as it is, India could fill five worlds as big as this planet, and as overcrowded as it already is, in a single century.

When President Roosevelt said that the dream of "freedom from want" is not a distant goal, but something realizable in our generation, he was talking nonsense.

In the face of this tremendous population problem, the Berlin "airlife," the movement of a few D. P.'s from one place to another, the talk of One World, an International Bill of Rights, and angry shoutings of the peace-loving delegates pales into insignificance.

More peace treaties. More pieces of paper. Yet, as Colonel Cushing of the Army War College points out, history records 8,000 treaties already. On the average, they were faithfully observed for two years!

Purring Propaganda

As an example of the purring propaganda of peace, prosperity and plenty, I quote the Office of War Information (misinformation!): "Beyond any doubt, men now possess the technical ability to produce in great abundance . . . enough for everyone." Every serious student of the world's population problem knows that is as false as a $7 bill.

Dr. Thomas Parran, former Surgeon General of our Public Health Service, says: "The greatest possible increase in food production will not for decades be enough to meet the minimum adequate diet." The Department of Agriculture reports that, after making allowance for increase of population, food production in calories, per capita, is 12% less than pre-war.

The Pan-American Union says that Latin America is already a "vanishing continent." It is vanishing because its land is being washed into the sea, its fertility exhausted, its resources consumed far beyond the power of synthetic laboratories to replace. And so everywhere! Our Soil Conservation Service tells us that three billion tons of soil are wasted or blown away each year.

How do you get freedom from want and war out of these facts? As Walter B. Pitkin says, unless limitation of population growth can be brought about "this immense war just finished will have been fought in vain." An honest facing-up to the facts requires a reappraisal of America's foreign policy.

Immediate Repeal Of Labor Law Is Not Believed Likely

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Labor leaders who have been hoping to stampede the next Congress with the cry that the people voted to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act without any substitute except the old Wagner Act will have to revise their thinking.

Within the last few days the labor leaders—both CIO and AFL—have stated publicly that they want an immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act and then an interval of time while Congress considers a proper substitute.

This plan, however, now has been publicly squelched by Maurice Tobin, secretary of labor in the Truman administration, who apparently is going to have a good deal to say about the kind of labor law that replaces the Taft-Hartley Act.

Maybe the labor leaders didn't read very carefully what the Secretary of Labor said in his speech last Monday to the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati, but he minced no words when it came to outlining the procedure that would be followed by the Administration. He said:

"Simultaneous with repeal, there must be substituted a fair and just law which will encourage and protect lowly paid workers in unionizing attempts and which will aid labor and management to maintain industrial peace under the processes of free collective bargaining."

Indicates No Illusions

The use of the word "simultaneous" indicates that Mr. Tobin at least has no illusions about the success of any proposal to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act and leave the country with only the old Wagner Act for even a brief period of time.

The strategy of the labor leaders, of course, has been to get the Taft-Hartley law repealed, and then to hold their veto power over Congress as to what kind of law should be substituted for the Taft-Hartley Act's provisions. Actually, the situation is going to work out in just the reverse way. It is the supporters of the Taft-Hartley law who will hold the veto over what kind of substitute law shall be passed. It is a safe assumption now that the Taft-Hartley law will never be repealed until an agreement has been reached on the kind of law that will take its place.

For one thing, there are many cases pending in the courts and the status of the present National Labor Relations Board would be imperiled if the Taft-Hartley law were repealed without any reference to a substitute. The labor board consisted of three members before the Taft-Hartley law was passed and now it has five members. Two of these would be without jobs upon restoration of the Wagner Act while a long debate might ensue as to how the act should be amended.

There are other cases in process of litigation which would be affected, and it would result in a chaotic condition if provisions in the present law were repealed without a substitute taking its place on the same day.

As a matter of fact, after Congress gets through working on a new law, it is doubtful whether the word "repeal" will have any meaning except for campaign purposes. The Democrats will be able to point to the fact that they have "repealed" the statute, but as a practical matter all that will have been done will be to modify some of the porvisions of the Taft-Hartley Act and the old Wagner Act and enact a new law which will probably bear the name of some Democratic members.

Legislation To Take Much Time

The battle over the Taft-Hartley Act may be as important in the next Congress as any attempt to introduce civil-rights legislation. The political life of many members of the Democratic Party in the south is inseparably bound up with the whole problem of the unionization of southern workers.

Just what kind of law will be passed it is too early to say, but it is a fact that 55 members of the United States Senate who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act are to be members of the next Congress. In the House of Representatives more than a majority who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act are also to take their seats. There are many Democrats who were elected from farm district who will not favor a one-sided labor law.

It is more realistic to say the Taft-Hartley Act will be repealed or modified only when the supporters of that law have agreed to a compromise substitute. This will take time and it may be next spring before any agreement can be reached on the subject.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

A Public Works Department

One of the problems faced by Hoover Committee, which has been appointed to plan for the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, is the complexity of organs of government engaged in public works, river control, water conservation, natural resources, survey organizations and related work. A comprehensive plan for an area is almost impossible because of the multitudes of bureaus and interests, the overlappings and conflicts.

The Hoover Committee asked Robert Moses, undoubtedly America's greatest authority on public works and a public official of outstanding ability, to devote himself to the task of preparing a study of the subject. As far back as 1922, a joint commission of Congress had recommended the establishment of a Public Works Department. Nothing come of it.

President Hoover made a similar proposal in 1932; President Roosevelt made a similar proposal. Both were ignorned because of the entrenched power of vested interests whose principal concern is to keep the jobs they have.

Always, every effort to creat an efficient organ of government to look after public works was defeated by an effective lobby of Army engineers who want to hold on to as much of that kind of work as they have for years had under their control.

Public works have developed beyond the authority and capacity of the engineer corps of the Army, but they fight to retain their peacetime work. They are now setting up an attack on the Hoover report, in spite of the fact that one of the members of Mr. Moses's task force is former Secretary of War Robert Patterson, who is undobutedly fully familiar with virtues of the Army engineers.

The facts are that about $50,000,000,000 of public works projects are pending or in a state of proposal. No overall authority exists to decide which of these projects needs to be done now, which are immediately unnecessary but are to be considered for future developments, which are fantastic, politically or even corruptly designed. "Pork-barrel" politics play a great part in all this—the combine of government officials, members of Congress, and keen contractors.

The Army engineers are about 200 in number, but they have a staff of 34,000 civilians of whom a few thousand are civil engineers. The articulated theory is that those who trained in the Army engineer corps —military or civilian — receive a training which could be useful in time of war. The fact, of course, is that in time of war, engineers and other experts out of private enterprises are put into uniform for service, to return to civilian usefulness when the war is over. We have done extraordinarily well by this method.

Certainly if the engineers worked in a Public Works Department, they could still be used in war. A very small part of our armed forces, from top to bottom, during the last war, came from the Regular Army.

The proposed Department of Public Works would include the bureaus of reclamation, of flood control, of public buildings, of highways, all the mineral resources agencies, the various bureaus in charge of water, and the survey branches of the government.

In other words everything would be put into one department of government that organically belonged there. There would be no overlapping of departmental authority, no conflict of policy over a single project, no duplication of effort, no multiplying of personnel and costs, no "empire building."

The Hoover report, as item by item appears, will be viciously attacked by vested interests. Fortunes have been made out of the inefficiency of governmental operators. Men have built powers in government by holding on to authority even if great damage is done because of their selfishness. The present confusions resulted in the loss of millions of dollars as the Hoover report will show when it is published.

There was a time when the American people were rich, when the national debt was trifling and taxes low. We could afford the luxury of inefficiency, confusion and waste. We are not in that condition any longer. A few hundred million dollars saved counts now in the Unit ! States of America. Savings here and there can mount to a few billions each year. It counts.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Just call me Twinkle Toes.

Yes, sir, on November 27th at the Olympic Auditorium here in L. A. they're holding a famous dance festival.

I asked one of the jitterbug entries where he learned to move so fast. He said, "When I first started learning the two-step, my partner was a riveting machine."

I always wanted to dance, so I went to one of those dance studios that says: "If you can walk, we can teach you to dance." I ended up taking the six-week course in how to walk.

But the Conga is one dance that always interested me because of the way you shake all over. Of course, the first time I was on a Conga line was when my brother and I lined up at the draft board.

The Waltz is very charming, too, but you have to hold your partner a foot away. Then they have other dances for us young men.

Long Sees Many Reversing On T-H

CINCINNATI, Nov. 18 (AP)—Senator-elect Russell B. Long, son of the late Huey Long of Louisiana, told the AFL today a lot of Congressmen who supported the Taft-Hartley Act will vote for its repeal.

"It is my hope that by the time Congress is in session one month, we will have taken that law off the statute books," Long said. He was 30 years old on November 3 and will be the youngest member of the new Senate.

Long spoke after Daniel J. Tobin, head of the teamsters, handed AFL President William Green a check for $62,500 as his union's share in the Political League's program for the next 14 months.

The amount represented the union's 10-cents-a-head contribution, agreed upon by the convention yesterday.

Tobin's check was the first received for that purpose. He presented it after getting an opinion from Counsel Albert Woll that it was legal under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The law prohibits union contributions in a campaign, but Tobin made sure the money was going for political education and information.

$31,987,889 Requested In State School Budget

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP) — A budget bid for $31,987,889 was submitted today by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools.

This sum, requested for 1950 school system expenditures, was 12½ per cent higher than current appropriations.

The increase percentage takes no account of a surplus Dr. Pullen says will be available at the end of this fiscal year. The surplus must revert to the state treasury.

The budget request included $3,217,282 for the teachers retirement system, compared with $2,925,857 this year. The increase, Dr. Pullen explained, was due to salary hikes as well as a gain in the number of teachers.

GI Saves Trapped Japanese Miners

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (AP)—A shy young United States soldier—who knows about mine disasters—told today how he saved four Japanese coal miners trapped for 13 days by a cave-in.

Pvt. Salvatore Forte, 18, Hatboro, Pa., gave the details in a telephone interview from his commanding officer's home in Sendai, 200 miles to the north.

The mine caved in at the village of Yoshioka near Sendai, trapping the miners behind 60 feet of earth 300 feet from the mine entrance.

Two days later Japanese rescue squads had made no progress against the caving earth, working with crude hand tools. The American Military Government checked and called for modern drilling equipment.

"I just happened to volunteer to drive the equipment out," Forte said. "I found the Japs pretty dazed. You know how they get to sort of running around. Well, I'd done some mining in Allentown (Pa.). So I pitched in."

He saw the attempt to remove the cave-in was hopeless, and ordered a shaft drilled from atop the hill over the mine. It was 90 feet down to where the trapped miners were.

"I kept about 40 Japanese on two shifts. They just needed some one to tell them and they really went to work.

"I always had thought the chances were slim. Things looked bad. Then we heard a faint tapping and knew the four were alive. You should have seen those Japs on the drills. They sure jabbered."

Then the drillers struck the shaft, bored a hole large enough for a man to pass through, and the four were brought out, collapsed but conscious.

Public Financial Aid For Nursing Education Urged

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18—(AP)—Maryland nurses gathered here at a state convention were told today that public financial support of nursing education is essential in a modern society.

The statement was made by Miss Pearl McIvor, chief of the Office of Public Health Nursing. She was one of several speakers on the opening day program.

About 500 nurses of three Maryland professional organizations attended the sessions in the Hotel Emerson.

Mis McIvor declared that nursing students no longer can be expected to pay for their education in tuition fees or in work because nursing has become a "social necessity."

Sex Fiend Sought As Nurse's Slayer

OSSIPEE, N. H., Nov. 18 (AP)—Ruth Eisenberg, 22, missing Newark, N. J., nurse, was slain struggling with a sex fiend who jammed her silk panties down her throat and threw her body in a lonely foxhole grave, a medical examiner said tonight.

Medical Referee Francis Dube said the girl was suffocated by the wadded silk and her skull crushed in a wild battle in Summertime Woods "three to four months ago."

Ruth, daughter of Ephriam Eisenberg, a Newark school principal, vanished last July 20 after leaving a Newton, Conn., home where she was employed. Police said they hold no clues to her slayer.

Dr. Dube said Ruth's dental chart, sent here after the body was found Wednesday night, "matched tooth to tooth and filling to filling" the dead girl's mouth.

Ruth's uncle, Jerome C. Eisenberg, an attorney, said in Newark that the report was "a great blow to the family." Eisenberg said Ruth would be buried near her mother's grave in Woolrich, Me.

Dr. Dube said it was probably a sex crime. He said the condition of the body made it impossible to determine rape. But, he said, the girl's brassiere showed knife slits similar to those he said were found in other sex crime cases. Her teeth were "tightly clenched," he said.

Judge Gray Will Hear "Gag" Cases

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 18 (AP)—Judge John B. Gray, Prince Frederick, has been named to preside over the contempt of court trial of five radio stations and a news announcer.

Appointment of the Judge, who serves in the Seventh Circuit, was made by the Court of Appeals.

The stations and the announcer were cited for contempt after broadcasting accounts of the murder of 11-year-old Marsha Brill in Baltimore last July 6.

The Baltimore Supreme Bench accused the stations of violating its "Rule Nine"—a regulation restricting the broadcast and publication of crime news.

In reply statements filed by the radio stations, the validity of the rule was questioned.

A county judge was assigned to try the case at the request of the Supreme Bench. Chief Judge Ogle Marbury notified clerks of the Baltimore Criminal Court of the selection today.

Judge Gray will come to Baltimore to hear the cases in the city criminal court.

Cited were stations WITH and its news editor, James P. Connolly; WFBR, WCBM, WBAL, all in Baltimore, and WSID, which is located in Essex.

The Brill murder, from which the case arose, resulted in the conviction of Negro Janitor Eugene H. James. James has been sentenced to death. His appeal is still pending.

Jews Say They

When the Assembly opened here in September Marshall urged adoption of the Bernadotte report as "a generally fair basis for settlement of the Palestine question." However, the American delegation has not yet stated its position in detail.

Under the British resolution Bernadotte's plan would be put into force through a three-nation conciliation commission. The commission also would take over, at the request of the Security Council, any or all functions of Bunche and the present United Nations Truce Commission.

The conciliation group also would appoint a technical boundaries commission to aid in outlining frontiers in Palestine based on Bernadotte's specific conclusions and "subject to such adjustment as may promote agreement" between Arabs and Jews.

Bernadotte drafted his plan shortly before he was assassinated in Jerusalem last September. It would reverse the original United Nations partition decision of last November 29 by giving Western Galilee to Israel and assigning the Negev Desert in Southern Palestine to the Arabs.

Israel opposes giving up the Negev which it hopes by modern farming methods and irrigation to make habitable for thousands of Jewish immigrants.

The Jews estimate they will lose almost three-fifths of Israel if the Negev is traded for Western Galilee. The original partition plan gave the Jewish state an area of 5,579 square miles. Bernadotte's plan would reduce its size to 2,124 square miles.

In Tel Aviv, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told the provisional Israeli Parliament that all additional Israeli forces sent to the Negev after October 14 to help open roads blocked by Egyptians already have been returned to their previous positions.

Apparently Israel was taking the stand that she will withdraw from no positions, but that a reduction of troops to their strength before the truce was broken on October 14 would be her measure of compliance with the United Nations order.

Seven U.N. Delegates Say Franco Ban Still Stands

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Seven United Nations delegates said today the ban on Franco Spain does and should continue. And nobody contradicted them.

Representatives of Britain, Belgium, Cuba, Guatemala, Norway, Uruguay and Venezuela said a previous General Assembly decision barring Franco Spain from the United Nations and its agencies still stands.

The Assembly was discussing a report from its Legal Committee which had omitted a paragraph instructing the Secretary General not to invite Spain to take part in a statistical commission transferred from the League of Nations.

Sex Movie Almost Leads To Riot

ANGIER, N. C., Nov. 18—(AP)—They brought a sex movie into this town last night and it took the combined efforts of the police and fire departments to bring order.

The thing was entitled "Mom And Dad," and the billing contained such descriptives as "Bold! Shocking! The secrets of sensible sex!"

Mayor Glenn Wilson said it was the "biggest crowd I've ever seen here," that gathered outside the local theater.

The theater entrance was blocked and Police Chief Wade Adams, who also is fire chief, ordered the fire hose to be turned into the crowd. Fists flew as some of the crowd rushed firemen, but no one was injured.

Today, Mayor Wilson said he wanted to forget the matter. He said that he planned a city ordinance outlawing sex films. "Anything that can't be seen by a mixed audience, can't be shown in this town," Wilson asserted.

Separate showings for women and men were in order and at the time of the disturbance, the men were awaiting admittance outside the building.

Oyster shells, mixed with sand and gravel, were used to pace the streets of Morgan City, La.

No Nobel Peace Prize To Be Given This Year

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 18 (AP) —The Nobel Peace Prize Committee said today it would make no award this year.

As is usual when there is no award, the five-man committee appointed by the Norwegian Parliament gave no reasons for its negative decision.

But the announcement was interpreted to mean no worthy candidate had been found in this period of cold war.

There were no awards during World War II, from 1939 to 1944 inclusive. The American diplomat, Cordell Hull, won the award in 1945.

$31,987,889 Requested In State School Budget

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18 (AP) — A budget bid for $31,987,889 was submitted today by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools.

This sum, requested for 1950 school system expenditures, was 12½ per cent higher than current appropriations.

The increase percentage takes no account of a surplus Dr. Pullen says will be available at the end of this fiscal year. The surplus must revert to the state treasury.

The budget request included $3,217,282 for the teachers retirement system, compared with $2,925,857 this year. The increase, Dr. Pullen explained, was due to salary hikes as well as a gain in the number of teachers.

GI Saves Trapped Japanese Miners

TOKYO, Nov. 18 (AP)—A shy young United States soldier—who knows about mine disasters—told today how he saved four Japanese coal miners trapped for 13 days by a cave-in.

Pvt. Salvatore Forte, 18, Hatboro, Pa., gave the details in a telephone interview from his commanding officer's home in Sendai, 200 miles to the north.

The mine caved in at the village of Yoshioka near Sendai, trapping the miners behind 60 feet of earth 300 feet from the mine entrance.

Two days later Japanese rescue squads had made no progress against the caving earth, working with crude hand tools. The American Military Government checked and called for modern drilling equipment.

"I just happened to volunteer to drive the equipment out," Forte said. "I found the Japs pretty dazed. You know how they get to sort of running around. Well, I'd done some mining in Allentown (Pa.). So I pitched in."

He saw the attempt to remove the cave-in was hopeless, and ordered a shaft drilled from atop the hill over the mine. It was 90 feet down to where the trapped miners were.

"I kept about 40 Japanese on two shifts. They just needed some one to tell them and they really went to work.

"I always had thought the chances were slim. Things looked bad. Then we heard a faint tapping and knew the four were alive. You should have seen those Japs on the drills. They sure jabbered."

Then the drillers struck the shaft, bored a hole large enough for a man to pass through, and the four were brought out, collapsed but conscious.

Public Financial Aid For Nursing Education Urged

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18—(AP)—Maryland nurses gathered here at a state convention were told today that public financial support of nursing education is essential in a modern society.

The statement was made by Miss Pearl McIvor, chief of the Office of Public Health Nursing. She was one of several speakers on the opening day program.

About 500 nurses of three Maryland professional organizations attended the sessions in the Hotel Emerson.

Mis McIvor declared that nursing students no longer can be expected to pay for their education in tuition fees or in work because nursing has become a "social necessity."

Sex Fiend Sought As Nurse's Slayer

OSSIPEE, N. H., Nov. 18 (AP)—Ruth Eisenberg, 22, missing Newark, N. J., nurse, was slain struggling with a sex fiend who jammed her silk panties down her throat and threw her body in a lonely foxhole grave, a medical examiner said tonight.

Medical Referee Francis Dube said the girl was suffocated by the wadded silk and her skull crushed in a wild battle in Summertime Woods "three to four months ago."

Ruth, daughter of Ephriam Eisenberg, a Newark school principal, vanished last July 20 after leaving a Newton, Conn., home where she was employed. Police said they hold no clues to her slayer.

Dr. Dube said Ruth's dental chart, sent here after the body was found Wednesday night, "matched tooth to tooth and filling to filling" the dead girl's mouth.

Ruth's uncle, Jerome C. Eisenberg, an attorney, said in Newark that the rpport was "a great blow to the family." Eisenberg said Ruth would be buried near her mother's grave in Woolrich, Me.

Dr. Dube said it was probably a sex crime. He said the condition of the body made it impossible to determine rape. But, he said, the girl's brassiere showed knife slits similar to those he said were found in other sex crime cases. Her teeth were "tightly clenched," he said.

The group of 25 men and 15 women, with all their expenses underwritten by the Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach Junior Chambers of Commerce, arrived at Bluethenthal airport at 3 p. m. (EST).

Their chartered four-engined DC-4 was christened "Good Wilmington Mission."

They were greeted by several hundred spectators, a band, official welcomers, newsmen and photographers.

Judge Gray Will Hear "Gag" Cases

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 18 (AP)—Judge John B. Gray, Prince Frederick, has been named to preside over the contempt of court trial of five radio stations and a news announcer.

Appointment of the Judge, who serves in the Seventh Circuit, was made by the Court of Appeals.

The stations and the announcer were cited for contempt after broadcasting accounts of the murder of 11-year-old Marsha Brill in Baltimore last July 6.

The Baltimore Supreme Bench accused the stations of violating its "Rule Nine"—a regulation restricting the broadcast and publication of crime news.

In reply statements filed by the radio stations, the validity of the rule was questioned.

A county judge was assigned to try the case at the request of the Supreme Bench. Chief Judge Ogle Marbury notified clerks of the Baltimore Criminal Court of the selection today.

Judge Gray will come to Baltimore to hear the cases in the city criminal court.

Cited were stations WITH and its news editor, James P. Connolly; WFBR, WCBM, WBAL, all in Baltimore, and WSID, which is located in Essex.

The Brill murder, from which the case arose, resulted in the conviction of Negro Janitor Eugene H. James. James has been sentenced to death. His appeal is still pending.

Jews Say They

When the Assembly opened here in September Marshall urged adoption of the Bernadotte report as "a generally fair basis for settlement of the Palestine question." However, the American delegation has not yet stated its position in detail.

Under the British resolution Bernadotte's plan would be put into force through a three-nation conciliation commission. The commission also would take over, at the request of the Security Council, any or all functions of Bunche and the present United Nations Truce Commission.

The conciliation group also would appoint a technical boundaries commission to aid in outlining frontiers in Palestine based on Bernadotte's specific conclusions and "subject to such adjustment as may promote agreement" between Arabs and Jews.

Bernadotte drafted his plan shortly before he was assassinated in Jerusalem last September. It would reverse the original United Nations partition decision of last November 29 by giving Western Galilee to Israel and assigning the Negev Desert in Southern Palestine to the Arabs.

Israel opposes giving up the Negev which it hopes by modern farming methods and irrigation to make habitable for thousands of Jewish immigrants.

The Jews estimate they will lose almost three-fifths of Israel if the Negev is traded for Western Galilee. The original partition plan gave the Jewish state an area of 5,579 square miles. Bernadotte's plan would reduce its size to 2,124 square miles.

In Tel Aviv, Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told the provisional Israeli Parliament that all additional Israeli forces sent to the Negev after October 14 to help open roads blocked by Egyptians already have been returned to their previous positions.

Apparently Israel was taking the stand that she will withdraw from no positions, but that a reduction of troops to their strength before the truce was broken on October 14 would be her measure of compliance with the United Nations order.

Seven U.N. Delegates Say Franco Ban Still Stands

PARIS, Nov. 18 (AP)—Seven United Nations delegates said today the ban on Franco Spain does and should continue. And nobody contradicted them.

Representatives of Britain, Belgium, Cuba, Guatemala, Norway, Uruguay and Venezuela said a previous General Assembly decision barring Franco Spain from the United Nations and its agencies still stands.

The Assembly was discussing a report from its Legal Committee which had omitted a paragraph instructing the Secretary General not to invite Spain to take part in a statistical commission transferred from the League of Nations.

Sex Movie Almost Leads To Riot

ANGIER, N. C., Nov. 18—(AP)—They brought a sex movie into this town last night and it took the combined efforts of the police and fire departments to bring order.

The thing was entitled "Mom And Dad," and the billing contained such descriptives as "Bold! Shocking! The secrets of sensible sex!"

Mayor Glenn Wilson said it was the "biggest crowd I've ever seen here," that gathered outside the local theater.

The theater entrance was blocked and Police Chief Wade Adams, who also is fire chief, ordered the fire hose to be turned into the crowd. Fists flew as some of the crowd rushed firemen, but no one was injured.

Today, Mayor Wilson said he wanted to forget the matter. He said that he planned a city ordinance outlawing sex films. "Anything that can't be seen by a mixed audience, can't be shown in this town," Wilson asserted.

Separate showings for women and men were in order and at the time of the disturbance, the men were awaiting admittance outside the building.

No Nobel Peace Prize To Be Given This Year

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 18 (AP) —The Nobel Peace Prize Committee said today it would make no award this year.

As is usual when there is no award, the five-man committee appointed by the Norwegian Parliament gave no reasons for its negative decision.

But the announcement was interpreted to mean no worthy candidate had been found in this period of cold war.

There were no awards during World War II, from 1939 to 1944 inclusive. The American diplomat, Cordell Hull, won the award in 1945.

Friendship Circle To Aid Choctaw

The Friendship Missionary Circle of the LaVale Baptist Chapel, meeting at the home of Mrs. John Coleman Tuesday, decided that the December meeting would be a Christmas party. It is to be held early in the month at the home of Mrs. Fred Gates and Mrs. Waldo Harshberger.

Mrs. McGill reported on the community mission work done in the past month and routine reports were given by Mrs. George Beal and Mrs. Moore.

A playlett, given in the costume of 60 years ago, graphically depicted the attitude of men towards the missionary organization of women in that era. Mrs. J. C. Ledbetter gave details of the Choctaw work she observed in a recent visit among the Choctaw Indians of Mississippi, and members voted to financially sponsor junior missionary organizations in one of the Indian churches that she visited. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. John Lewis.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

BATHROOM SOLILOQUY

As I was shaving this morning, the man in the mirror spoke up.

"Rose," he said, "you're slipping. You write a column because you want to be a mighty mote, or a motey mite, in the public eye, but let a Matter of Common Concern come along and you play it safe. Why don't you come out from behind those spangles and make like a citizen again?"

Billy Rose

"What subject are you referring to?" I asked politely. "Flagpole sitting? The zoo-looloo bird? Sex among the aborigines? The public knows where I stand on these weighty issues."

"Very funny," said my spare ego," but I was thinking about bans—thought control — the lengthening shadows of the blue pencil and the blue nose."

"Don't get yourself in a lather," I bum-joked. "You know perfectly well that I've never climbed on the Ban-Wagon."

"An attitude drenched with nobility," said the Rose by no other name, "but unfortunately it's as limp as it is laudable. Would you mind being a little more specific? For instance, what do you think of the British movie industry's ban on films written by Ben Hecht? And of the unofficial American ban on J. Arthur Rank's movie, 'Oliver Twist'?"

"I'm agin' em," I said. "The British are down on Ben for reasons which have nothing to do with the pictures he writes—they're getting even for his pro-Israel activities. On the other hand, a lot of Americans are sore about 'Oliver Twist' because Fagin has been made to look like the original Cruikshank caricature of a Jew.

"Now, don't get me wrong. I'm not sticking up for 'Oilver Twist'—as a matter of fact, I haven't seen it and it looks as if I won't be permitted to. But I think Rank's picture ought to be shown in this country even if it is unfair to the Jews, and by the same token, I think that the Jews who may be offended should have the full right to stay away from the movie, denounce it to their neighbors, and, if they feel like it, picket the theatres where it's playing. In other words, I think all these differences of opinion should be slugged out in the open instead of being decided on an administrative level. That way, egos may get bruised, and maybe bankrolls too—but not, to use a big phrase, the Democratic idea.

"A lot of my friends probably approve the 'Oliver Twist' ban and disapprove the hamstringing of Hecht, but I wonder if they realize that in both cases the censorship techniques are identical and equally unhealthy—as unhealthy as it would be if a few paper mill owners refused to sell paper to a mazagine because they didn't like what the editor was printing."

"Hold on a minute, Junior," said my pal in the pane. "Do you mean to say nothing should be done about movies, radio programs, books and plays that ridicule race or religion for a cheap laugh?"

"Plenty can be done," I said, "but it should be done without interfering with the free creation and distribution of art forms. As long as there's a demand for garbage, let's sell it out in the open where we can appraise it, instead of driving it into those little mental cellars where it can really do a lot of damage.

"As I see it,, instead of high-pi[illegible]publishers, radio executives and movie moguls into censorship by stealth, it would be a lot smarter to let the average Joe and his missus make up their own minds. After all, Mr. Joe has three freedoms that F.D.R. never mentioned—the freedom not to buy a book, the freedom not to see a movie, and th..t most precious freedom of all—the freed-m to turn off the radio.

"Organized groups should remember that censorship, once established, has an important freed n of its own—the freedom to spread. If movie distributors can be cajoled into banning a film for a good reason, they can also be needled into banning one for a bad reason. Rule out 'Abie's Irish Rose' and you're liable to wind up banning 'The Merchant of Venice'. Put the whammy on Amos 'n' Andy, and it's only a step to 'Othello' and 'The Emperor Jones'."

"Very lofty sentiments," said the man in the mirror, "but for my taste, a bit too lofty. Tolerance can't afford to let up its pressure on the radio, movies and press because people believe everything they hear, see and read."

"Is that so," I said, reaching for the witch hazel. "Are you forgetting November 2nd?"

Billy Rose

"What subject are you referring to?" I asked politely. "Flagpole sitting? The zoo-looloo bird? Sex among the aborigines? The public knows where I stand on these weighty issues."

"Very funny," said my spare ego," but I was thinking about bans—thought control — the lengthening shadows of the blue pencil and the blue nose."

"Don't get yourself in a lather," I bum-joked. "You know perfectly well that I've never climbed on the Ban-Wagon."

"An attitude drenched with nobility," said the Rose by no other name, "but unfortunately it's as limp as it is laudable. Would you mind being a little more specific? For instance, what do you think of the British movie industry's ban on films written by Ben Hecht? And of the unofficial American ban on J. Arthur Rank's movie, 'Oliver Twist'?"

"I'm agin' em," I said. "The British are down on Ben for reasons which have nothing to do with the pictures he writes—they're getting even for his pro-Israel activities. On the other hand, a lot of Americans are sore about 'Oliver Twist' because Fagin has been made to look like the original Cruikshank caricature of a Jew.

"Now, don't get me wrong. I'm not sticking up for 'Oliver Twist'—as a matter of fact, I haven't seen it and it looks as if I won't be permitted to. But I think Rank's picture ought to be shown in this country even if it is unfair to the Jews, and by the same token, I think that the Jews who may be offended should have the full right to stay away from the movie, denounce it to their neighbors, and, if they feel like it, picket the theatres where it's playing. In other words, I think all these differences of opinion should be slugged out in the open instead of being decided on an administrative level. That way, egos may get bruised, and maybe bankrolls too—but not, to use a big phrase, the Democratic idea.

"A lot of my friends probably approve the 'Oliver Twist' ban and disapprove the hamstringing of Hecht, but I wonder if they realize that in both cases the censorship techniques are identical and equally unhealthy—as unhealthy as it would be if a few paper mill owners refused to sell paper to a magazine because they didn't like what the editor was printing."

"Hold on a minute, Junior," said my pal in the pane. "Do you mean to say nothing should be done about movies, radio programs, books and plays that ridicule race or religion for a cheap laugh?"

"Plenty can be done," I said, "but it should be done without interfering with the free creation and distribution of art forms. As long as there's a demand for garbage, let's sell it out in the open where we can appraise it, instead of driving it into those little mental cellars where it can really do a lot of damage.

"As I see it,, instead of high-pi[illegible]publishers, radio executives and movie moguls into censorship by stealth, it would be a lot smarter to let the average Joe and his missus make up their own minds. After all, Mr. Joe has three freedoms that F.D.R. never mentioned—the freedom not to buy a book, the freedom not to see a movie, and that most precious freedom of all—the freedom to turn off the radio.

"Organized groups should remember that censorship, once established, has an important freedom of its own—the freedom to spread. If movie distributors can be cajoled into banning a film for a good reason, they can also be needled into banning one for a bad reason. Rule out 'Abie's Irish Rose' and you're liable to wind up banning 'The Merchant of Venice'. Put the whammy on Amos 'n' Andy, and it's only a step to 'Othello' and 'The Emperor Jones'."

"Very lofty sentiments," said the man in the mirror, "but for my taste, a bit too lofty. Tolerance can't afford to let up its pressure on the radio, movies and press because people believe everything they hear, see and read."

"Is that so," I said, reaching for the witch hazel. "Are you forgetting November 2nd?"

Area Heads Visit Ft. Ashby Lions

Deputy District Governor W. Roy Smith, a member of the Romney Lions Club, and Zone Chairman C. J. Cunningham paid official visits to the Fort Ashby Lions Club at a meeting held Wednesday night in Fort Ashby Methodist Church.

Melvin H. Martin, president, introduced the speakers at the meeting attended by 16 members and three guests.

Book covers will be distributed to all Fort Ashby school students next week, the club said. The covers, which include safety rules for students, were prepared by a committee composed of Gerald Adams, William Marker and Harry Wasson.

Lions road markers will be installed on Route 28 within a few days, the club reported.

Martin said the club's eyesight committee will begin a survey of the needs of Fort Ashby students soon. The club provides glasses and treatment for needy children.

The Fort Ashby Lions Club will sponsor a Turkey Shoot at Saville's Service Station, one mile north of Fort Ashby Saturday, beginning at 1 p. m.

Charles Leatherman, chairman for the event, last night urged all members to assist the committee. Turkeys, chickens, ducks and hams will be awarded at the match, he said.

Two Local Delegates Attend Convention

Two local delegates attended the three-day 1948 convention of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, which closed Wednesday in Chicago.

They were Miss Henrietta Schwarzenbach, president of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, and Mrs. Hume O. Annan, executive secretary.

Nearly every state and Hawaii were represented among the 2,000 delegates and visitors attending the convention, where conferences on all phases of care and rehabilitation of crippled children were held.

Convention theme was "A Broader World for the Handicapped."

Rent Board Setup Approved

The setup of the Rent Advisory Board for the Cumberland area has been approved by Federal Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods, it was announced from Gov. Lane's office yesterday.

A spokesman said Woods wrote Lane that the five boards in Maryland have been "balanced" to protect "affected interests."

A board must represent tenants, landlords and the public. It can propose higher ceilings or complete decontrol.

David Kauffman, Cumberland attorney, is chairman of the local board which is comprised of Charles E. Bramble, city, president of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL; William Morgan, United Mine Workers official here; W. J. Jones, city, AFL Shop crafts union official, and Ralfh C. Beard, this city, representative of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union, and Ralph Race, Frostburg banker.

Other Maryland boards are in Baltimore, Hagerstown, Patuxent-Indian Head area and Montgomery-Prince George's area.

The board met this week in the rent control office, basement of the Postoffice building, to consider an adjustment appeal made by the owner of a 14-unit apartment.

Walter R. Heath, area rent director, and Thomas E. Barrett, Jr., area rent attorney, both of Baltimore, were present.

Chairman Kauffman indicated a decision will be reached within a month.

Corn roots have been known to grow more than eight feet deep.

Rubber Workers Will Meet Here Saturday

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will hold a regular membership meeting Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock at the union hall.

Special business scheduled is an interpretation and discussion concerning the gaining of experience on temporary assignments, according to A. E. Johnson, president.

All American To Have Local Agent

Mountain Air Service or one of the persons connected with the firm will probably be local agent for All American Airways when the airline company begins service to Cumberland about the middle of February, it was indicated yesterday.

Mountain Air Service, headed by John M. DelaGrange, is operating the Cumberland Airport under lease from the Mayor and Council.

It is expected that before too long a definite arrangement will be worked out between All American and the city for landing rights at the field. David L. Miller, traffic manager and secretary of All American, has indicated he will make a proposal soon. It is also anticipated that the administration building at the field will be remodeled slightly to provide space for the airline which will connect Cumberland with Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Washington and other points.

In planning terminal facilities along its routes, All American proposes to set up one man stations with a maximum of efficiency.

To enable one man to perform all functions, it has been necessary to plan his working equipment so that from a fixed position he can work his reservations desk, and turn around to use the VMF radio or teletype. By moving only a step or two from a sitting position he can perform the duties of answering information inquiries, accepting baggage and ticketing passengers.

The proposed room is laid out so the attendant can load baggage directly on to the baggage cart from the scales with a minimum of effort, and accept mail and other cargo within easy range of his work area.

In addition to seeking permits from the Civil Aeronautics Board for the Pittsburgh and Baltimore-Washington route, All-American plans a route to Atlantic City and another to New York from Washington. Pittsburgh-Buffalo and Pittsburgh-Cincinnati routes are also sought.

The line likewise seeks a Pittsburgh-Charleston, W. Va., route which would include stops at Morgantown, Clarksbrug, and Elkins.

Celanese Official Charged With Assault

A Celanese official at Rome, Ga., was charged with assault with intent to murder in a warrant served yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Rome.

The complaint against the official, W. E. Crooks, plant manager, was made by W. T. Alexander, a striking Celanese worker who charged that Crooks struck him with his car yesterday morning as he was picketing the plant.

The warrant was served on Crooks in Floyd County Court House where contempt of court hearings for 77 Celanese workers and officials are being held.

Seven Students In Talk Contest

All but seven Allegany High School students entered in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest were eliminated in the preliminary contests Wednesday.

There were between 25 and 30 students who spoke during the day over the school's public address system. Three judges selected the following winners:

Robert Keefe, William Lester, Madaline Cooper, Marcille Mullen, Catherine Morton, William Doub and Doris Platt. These seven will participate in the semi-finals tomorrow. Two will be chosen to compete in the finals Monday afternoon.

All students entered were from the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades. The amplifying system was used so that judges could select a contestant with a good "radio voice."

Fort Hill High School's contest was won by Miss Ann Linn, senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Linn, 477 Goethe Street. She and all school winners will participate in the semi-finals November 27. The finals will be held the following day.

Robert L. Ebert, chairman of the Junior Association of Commerce Americanism Committee, the sponsoring group, said 11 of the 14 schools in the county that have been invited to participate have accepted. The remaining three are expected to signify their acceptance in the next few days.

Suit Over Repairs Settled Out Of Court

The suit of George O. Thrush, contractor, against Raymond L. Zimerla, 252 Columbia Street, was settled out of court Wednesday after a half day of testimony before Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Circuit Court.

The suit arose from a dispute over payment for repair work done by Thrush at the Zimerla home. Zimerla claimed he built a bathroom on a rear porch and enclosed the porch at a cost of $1,553 and that Zimerla had not payed him.

Zimerla countered with the statement that the work had not been done properly and that specifications were not followed.

Thomas Lohr Richards represented the plaintiff and W. Earle Cobey was attorney for the defendant.

In a decision Tuesday Judge Bruce dismissed an appeal by Arthur L. Siple from a decision by the State Industrial Accident Commission and affirmed the state agency's findings.

Walter C. Capper, attorney for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, moved the dismissal on the grounds the appeal had not been made in time. Siple, an employe of the Kelly plant, was denied compensation in an accident case.

Those enlisting in the Air Force are James Charles Robinson, 18, and Eschel Dean Hemphill, 18, both of Hickory, N. C. Donald Henry Fratz, 18, Accident, signed for one year with the Air Force and James Leslie Duncan, 19, Midlothian, joined the U. S. Constabulary.

Driver Is Freed In Cyclist's Death

A Fayette County (Pa.) coroner's jury Wednesday exonerated an Accident turck driver from any responsibility in the death of a 14-year-old girl cyclist at Hopwood, Pa.

The victim, Twila Nellie Miner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miner, of Hopwood, was killed last week when struck by a truck operated by John Lewis Beitzel, 18, on Route 40, near Uniontown.

Dr. W. Ralston McGee, Fayette county coroner, said the jury decreed after all evidence had been presented that the accident was unavoidable on the part of Beitzel.

Dr. Gee said that jury reported concern about the number of accidents that have occurred where the girl was killed on Route 40 between Uniontown and Summitt.

They recommended that the Department of Highways put into effect measures that will reduce highway mishaps there.

A great-uncle of the Miner girl, William Miner, also of Hopwood, was killed last May when he walked in front of an automobile a short distance from the spot where last week's fatal accident occurred.

Suit Filed In Cassen Estate

An equity suit was filed in Circuit Court Wednesday by Loretta Miller Cassen, widow of Reid Christopher Cassen and administratrix of his estate, against Elizabeth Cassen McIntosh and Harry W. McIntosh, her husband.

The bill of complaint asks a sale of property held jointly by Cassen and Mrs. McIntosh, his sister, at the time of his death.

Charles Z. Heskett represents the plaintiff.

Celanese Official Charged With Assault

A Celanese official at Rome, Ga., was charged with assault with intent to murder in a warrant served yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Rome.

The complaint against the official, W. E. Crooks, plant manager, was made by W. T. Alexander, a striking Celanese worker who charged that Crooks struck him with his car yesterday morning as he was picketing the plant.

The warrant was served on Crooks in Floyd County Court House where contempt of court hearings for 77 Celanese workers and officials are being held.

Seven Students In Talk Contest

All but seven Allegany High School students entered in the "I Speak for Democracy" contest were eliminated in the preliminary contests Wednesday.

There were between 25 and 30 students who spoke during the day over the school's public address system. Three judges selected the following winners:

Robert Keefe, William Lester, Madaline Cooper, Marcille Mullen, Catherine Morton, William Doub and Doris Platt. These seven will participate in the semi-finals tomorrow. Two will be chosen to compete in the finals Monday afternoon.

All students entered were from the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades. The amplifying system was used so that judges could select a contestant with a good "radio voice."

Fort Hill High School's contest was won by Miss Ann Linn, senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Linn, 477 Goethe Street. She and all school winners will participate in the semi-finals November 27. The finals will be held the following day.

Robert L. Ebert, chairman of the Junior Association of Commerce Americanism Committee, the sponsoring group, said 11 of the 14 schools in the county that have been invited to participate have accepted. The remaining three are expected to signify their acceptance in the next few days.

Suit Over Repairs Settled Out Of Court

The suit of George O. Thrush, contractor, against Raymond L. Zimerla, 252 Columbia Street, was settled out of court Wednesday after a half day of testimony before Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Circuit Court.

The suit arose from a dispute over payment for repair work done by Thrush at the Zimerla home. Zimerla claimed he built a bathroom on a rear porch and enclosed the porch at a cost of $1,553 and that Zimerla had not payed him.

Zimerla countered with the statement that the work had not been done properly and that specifications were not followed.

Thomas Lohr Richards represented the plaintiff and W. Earle Cobey was attorney for the defendant.

In a decision Tuesday Judge Bruce dismissed an appeal by Arthur L. Siple from a decision by the State Industrial Accident Commission and affirmed the state agency's findings.

Walter C. Capper, attorney for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, moved the dismissal on the grounds the appeal had not been made in time. Siple, an employe of the Kelly plant, was denied compensation in an accident case.

Those enlisting in the Air Force are James Charles Robinson, 18, and Eschel Dean Hemphill, 18, both of Hickory, N. C. Donald Henry Fratz, 18, Accident, signed for one year with the Air Force and James Leslie Duncan, 19, Midlothian, joined the U. S. Constabulary.

Driver Is Freed In Cyclist's Death

A Fayette County (Pa.) coroner's jury Wednesday exonerated an Accident turck driver from any responsibility in the death of a 14-year-old girl cyclist at Hopwood, Pa.

The victim, Twila Nellie Miner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miner, of Hopwood, was killed last week when struck by a truck operated by John Lewis Beitzel, 18, on Route 40, near Uniontown.

Dr. W. Ralston McGee, Fayette county coroner, said the jury decreed after all evidence had been presented that the accident was unavoidable on the part of Beitzel.

Dr. Gee said that jury reported concern about the number of accidents that have occurred where the girl was killed on Route 40 between Uniontown and Summitt.

They recommended that the Department of Highways put into effect measures that will reduce highway mishaps there.

A great-uncle of the Miner girl, William Miner, also of Hopwood, was killed last May when he walked in front of an automobile a short distance from the spot where last week's fatal accident occurred.

Suit Filed In Cassen Estate

An equity suit was filed in Circuit Court Wednesday by Loretta Miller Cassen, widow of Reid Christopher Cassen and administratrix of his estate, against Elizabeth Cassen McIntosh and Harry W. McIntosh, her husband.

The bill of complaint asks a sale of property held jointly by Cassen and Mrs. McIntosh, his sister, at the time of his death.

Charles Z. Heskett represents the plaintiff.

Christmas Fruitcake

GIFT GOODIES . . . Fruitcake for a merry Yule

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If you are planning to make fruitcake this year, get it out of the way early. Then it will be all ready for family and friends and you'll save yourself a lot of wear nd tear.

My mother had a way of spoiling her friends when it came to giving them presents of food—she always catered to their particular tastes. That's why she baked both light and dark fruitcake, and made sure you got the kind you liked best. We kept a supply of both kinds on hand ourselves and around holiday time, when lots of people dropped in, there would be both light and dark slices on the big serving tray. It's odd how little marks of hospitality like this one make such a vivid impression! If you would like to try both kinds of fruitcake this year, here are two tested recipes.

The first one comes from the recently published "Culinary Arts Institute Encyclopedic Cookbook," distributed by Grosset and Dunlap, New York ($4.95). I've been saving news of this cookbook until this time because with its 10,000 recipes and more than 1,000 photographs, it recommends itself as a gift. A sample of this White Fruitcake, from a recipe in the cookbook, might go along with the book itself for an added premium—and as an inducement to try more of its rules!

WHITE FRUITCAKE

Ingredients: 1 cup shredded coconut, 1 cup sliced citron, 1 cup sultana raisins, 1 cup chopped candied pineapple, 1 cup candied cherries(sliced), 2 cups blanched almonds (chopped), 3 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup shortening, 2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon vanilla, ½ cup fruit sirup, 8 egg whites.

Method: Combine first 6 ingredients with 1 cup of the flour. Sift remaining flour with baking powder. Cream shortening with sugar and flavoring until fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and fruit sirup alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Add fruit mixture. Beat egg whites and fold into batter. Pour into greased pans lined with heavy greased paper and bake in very slow oven (275 F.) about 4 hours. Makes 5 pounds fruitcake.

The dark fruitcake pictured can be baked in heat-resistant glass dishes all ready to give away—it will stay moist and keep for months in these containers.

DARK FRUITCAKE

Ingredients: 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup shortening, 1½ cups applesauce, ⅓ cup molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 eggs, 2 cups sifted flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1 cup walnut meats, 1 cup dates, 1 cup dried prunes, 1 cup dried apricots, ½ cup candied orange peel, ½ ounce candied citron, ¾ cup seedless raisins, ½ cup sifted flour. For garnish: 12 almonds (halved), 8 candied cherries.

Method: Add sugar and shortening to applesauce. Heat only until sugar is dissolved and shortening is melted, then cool. Stir in molasses, vinegar and slightly beaten eggs. Add two cups flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and spices sifted together. Stir well. Cut walnut meats, dates, prunes, apricots, orange peel and citron into small pieces, but not too small. Add raisins, then flour fruit and walnuts well with the ½ cup flour. Stir into the cake batter. Pour batter into four well-greased heat-resistant glass refrigerator dishes. Garnish top of each cake with almond halves and candied cherries. Cover dishes with glass covers and bake in slow (275 F.) oven. Bake cakes in smallest dishes for 1½ hours, cake in medium-sizen dishes for 2 hours, cake in largest dish for 3 hours. Makes 2 one-half pound cakes, 1 one-pound cake, 1 two-pound cake.

The word "plant" originally meant twig, shoot or sapling.

Rolled Veal Roasts Recommended For "Easy On Budget" Meals

If roasts have become strictly Sunday dinner or special meal fare at your house, well worth investigating are the fine-favored, easy-on-the-budget rolled veal roasts at your meat dealer. A special mid-week treat for the family, the roasts will mean happy harmony between your food budget and menu plans.

In purchasing a roast, plan on enough for several meals. The delightful fine flavor of the cooked veal is the basis for any number of time and money saving sandwich and casserole combinations.

Boned, frozen, and rolled, the veal shoulder roasts are coated with a covering of creamy fat. Special feature of the roast is this fat covering which melts as the roast cooks, basting the veal for added flavor and juiciness. The fat also is the basis for a generous amount of fine-flavored gravy to accompany the first hot roast service and for ladling over family favorite veal sandwiches for later service.

Fruits are particularly delightful flavor accompaniment for the veal. When serving the veal hot, accompany it with browned peach or apricot halves, glazed orange segments or syrup-poached apple slices.

Tinted pear halves, or orange cups filled with applesauce or fruit sherbet are tempting service with the uniform chilled slices of roast veal. Fruit dressings contribute to a particularly interesting menue with either hot or cold veal.

Roast the veal roll on a rack in an open pan in a slow oven (325 F.). Each roast bears a cellophane wrapper giving charts of roasting times as an easy gauge to proper cookery.

For greater accuracy in determining the doneness of the roast, insert a meat thermoter in the roast before cooking. When the thermometer indicates the internal temperature of the roast has reached 180 F., the meat it at its well-done best.

FRUIT BREAD DRESSING SQUARES

Yield: 9 squares

6 cups bread cubes
½ cup dried prunes
½ cup dried apricots
1 cup hot water
⅓ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Toast bread cubes in moderate oven (350 F.) until golden brown. Soak dried fruit in hot water until soft. Drain and save liquid. Cut fruit in small pieces. Combine with cubes. Stir in brown sugar and cinnamon. Toss together lightly with melted butre. Add enough water to liquid from dried fruit to measure 1 cup. Pour over bread cubes. Put into 8 x 8 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 45 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with veal roll.

VEAL AND NOODLE SUPPER

Yield: 4 servings

2 cups cubed cooked veal
1 cup gravy or meat stock
2 cups cooked tomatoes
1-½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon sage
1 bay leaf
¼ cup diced onion
1 cup shredded cheese (2 ounces)

Combine gravy and tomatoes in saucepan. Add salt, sage, bay leaf, and onion. Simmer 30 minutes. Add meat, noodles, and cheese. Cook 15 minutes or until noodles are tender. Thicken if desired (Rice or spaghetti may be used in place of noodles.)

Eggs And Green Beans Au Gratin

6 hard-cooked eggs
2 cups cooked or canned green beans
Salt and pepper to taste
6 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon minced onion
6 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup grated cheese

Melt butter in a saucepan, add onion, and cook until yellow. Add flour and blend. Add milk and cook and stir over moderate heat until smooth and thickened. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Butter a shallow baking dish and arrange alternate layers of sliced egg, beans, and sauce, using sauce for the top layer. Sprinkle with a mixture of the crumbs and cheese and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for about 25 to 30 minutes, or until the mixture bubbles and crumbs are lightly browned. Serves 6.

Method: Combine first 6 ingredients with 1 cup of the flour. Sift remaining flour with baking powder. Cream shortening with sugar and flavoring until fluffy. Add sifted dry ingredients and fruit sirup alternately in small amounts, beating well after each addition. Add fruit mixture. Beat egg whites and fold into batter. Pour into greased pans lined with heavy greased paper and bake in very slow oven (275 F.) about 4 hours. Makes 5 pounds fruitcake.

The dark fruitcake pictured can be baked in heat-resistant glass dishes all ready to give away—it will stay moist and keep for months in these containers.

DARK FRUITCAKE

Ingredients: 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup shortening, 1½ cups applesauce, ⅓ cup molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 eggs, 2 cups sifted flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon allspice, 1 cup walnut meats, 1 cup dates, 1 cup dried prunes, 1 cup dried apricots, ½ cup candied orange peel, ½ ounce candied citron, ¾ cup seedless raisins, ½ cup sifted flour. For garnish: 12 almonds (halved), 8 candied cherries.

Method: Add sugar and shortening to applesauce. Heat only until sugar is dissolved and shortening is melted, then cool. Stir in molasses, vinegar and slightly beaten eggs. Add two cups flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and spices sifted together. Stir well. Cut walnut meats, dates, prunes, apricots, orange peel and citron into small pieces, but not too small. Add raisins, then flour fruit and walnuts well with the ½ cup flour. Stir into the cake batter. Pour batter into four well-greased heat-resistant glass refrigerator dishes. Garnish top of each cake with almond halves and candied cherries. Cover dishes with glass covers and bake in slow (275 F.) oven. Bake cakes in smallest dishes for 1½ hours, cake in medium-sizen dishes for 2 hours, cake in largest dish for 3 hours. Makes 2 one-half pound cakes, 1 one-pound cake, 1 two-pound cake.

The word "plant" originally meant twig, shoot or sapling.

Rolled Veal Roasts Recommended For "Easy On Budget" Meals

If roasts have become strictly Sunday dinner or special meal fare at your house, well worth investigating are the fine-favored, easy-on-the-budget rolled veal roasts at your meat dealer. A special mid-week treat for the family, the roasts will mean happy harmony between your food budget and menu plans.

In purchasing a roast, plan on enough for several meals. The delightful fine flavor of the cooked veal is the basis for any number of time and money saving sandwich and casserole combinations.

Boned, frozen, and rolled, the veal shoulder roasts are coated with a covering of creamy fat. Special feature of the roast is this fat covering which melts as the roast cooks, basting the veal for added flavor and juiciness. The fat also is the basis for a generous amount of fine-flavored gravy to accompany the first hot roast service and for ladling over family favorite veal sandwiches for later service.

Fruits are particularly delightful flavor accompaniment for the veal. When serving the veal hot, accompany it with browned peach or apricot halves, glazed orange segments or syrup-poached apple slices.

Tinted pear halves, or orange cups filled with applesauce or fruit sherbet are tempting service with the uniform chilled slices of roast veal. Fruit dressings contribute to a particularly interesting menue with either hot or cold veal.

Roast the veal roll on a rack in an open pan in a slow oven (325 F.). Each roast bears a cellophane wrapper giving charts of roasting times as an easy gauge to proper cookery.

For greater accuracy in determining the doneness of the roast, insert a meat thermoter in the roast before cooking. When the thermometer indicates the internal temperature of the roast has reached 180 F., the meat it at its well-done best.

FRUIT BREAD DRESSING SQUARES

Yield: 9 squares
6 cups bread cubes
½ cup dried prunes
½ cup dried apricots
1 cup hot water
⅓ cup butter or margarine
2 tablespoons brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Toast bread cubes in moderate oven (350 F.) until golden brown. Soak dried fruit in hot water until soft. Drain and save liquid. Cut fruit in small pieces. Combine with cubes. Stir in brown sugar and cinnamon. Toss together lightly with melted butre. Add enough water to liquid from dried fruit to measure 1 cup. Pour over bread cubes. Put into 8 x 8 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 45 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with veal roll.

VEAL AND NOODLE SUPPER

Yield: 4 servings
2 cups cubed cooked veal
1 cup gravy or meat stock
2 cups cooked tomatoes
1-½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon sage
1 bay leaf
¼ cup diced onion
1 cup shredded cheese (2 ounces)

Combine gravy and tomatoes in saucepan. Add salt, sage, bay leaf, and onion. Simmer 30 minutes. Add meat, noodles, and cheese. Cook 15 minutes or until noodles are tender. Thicken if desired (Rice or spaghetti may be used in place of noodles.)

Eggs And Green Beans Au Gratin

6 hard-cooked eggs
2 cups cooked or canned green beans
Salt and pepper to taste
6 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon minced onion
6 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
½ cup grated cheese

Melt butter in a saucepan, add onion, and cook until yellow. Add flour and blend. Add milk and cook and stir over moderate heat until smooth and thickened. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Butter a shallow baking dish and arrange alternate layers of sliced egg, beans, and sauce, using sauce for the top layer. Sprinkle with a mixture of the crumbs and cheese and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for about 25 to 30 minutes, or until the mixture bubbles and crumbs are lightly browned. Serves 6.

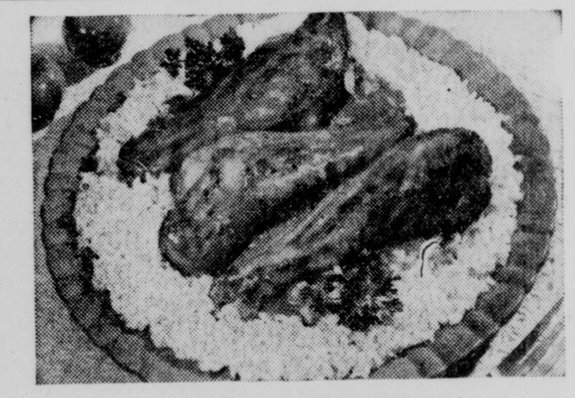
Can you identify this meat? By its shape? Size? Bone? Test your score by checking the above picture with the finished platter below.... That's it! The all-time favorite—Curried Lamb Shanks on a bed of fluffy white rice!

HOW WOULD YOU COOK IT? Braising tells the "how to cook it" story. This means slow browning until a crusty brown coat covers the meat. Add liquid, seasonings and simmer until tender. Its flavor is sure to win new friends ... its low cost will influence many a budget!



CURRIED LAMB SHANKS

4 Armour Star Lamb Shanks • 2 tablespoons flour • 2 tablespoons Cloverbloom Butter • 1 onion • 2 teaspoons salt • ⅛ teaspoon pepper • ½ teaspoon curry powder • ½ cup rice (uncooked)

Roll lamb shanks in flour and brown slowly in butter with onion for 10-15 minutes. Add 3 cups water, salt and pepper and simmer slowly for one and a half hours. When tender, add curry powder and thicken gravy with 1½ tablespoons flour mixed with ⅓ cup cold water. Serve on a bed of fluffy boiled rice with curry sauce for gravy. 4 servings.

Cheese And Bacon Double-Deckers

12 slices white bread
⅓ cup butter
12 slices American cheese
6 tomato slices
Salt
12 bacon slices

Trim crusts from white bread slices and toast on one side. Spread untoasted side generously with butter. Cover six slices each with a slice of cheese and remaining six slices of bread-double-decker fashion. Put slices of peeled tomato on top of bread, salt, and then top with a slice of cheese. Place in moderate oven untill cheese begins to soften. Place two strips of partially broiled bacon on top. Place under low broiler heat until cheese is thoroughly melted and bacon is crisp. Makes 6 double-decker sandwiches.

Onion Rings

Milk.
Salt to season.
Pepper to season.
Flour.
Lard for deep-fat drying.

Soak sliced onions in milk for 30 minutes. Drain and roll in seasoned flour. Drop in deep lard (350 degrees F.) and cook until nicely browned. 6 servings.

Emerald And Gold Salad

1 package lemon gelatin
1½ cups boiling water
2 cups cottage cheese, sieved

1 package lime gelatin
1½ cups boiling water
1 cup fresh or canned grapefruit and juice

Add boiling water to lime gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Cool mixture until it begins to set. Add grapefruit and juice, and pour lime gelatin mixture on top of cottage cheese-lemon gelatin mixture. Chill until set. Unmold on crisp lettuce, garnish with fresh fruit and serve with mayonnaise. Serves 6.

12 small onions, 8 small carrots, ¾ pound ground beef, seasonings, 3 tablespoons fat, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 cups seasoned mashed potatoes.

Cook onions and carrots. Season beef and form into 8 balls; brown in fat; place in casserole.

To make gravy add flour to drippings; brown, add 1½ cups liquid, using any left from cooking vegetables. Stir until thickened.

To meat balls, add gravy, onion, and carrots. Cover with the mashed potatoes. Brush with milk; bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) until brown (about 20 minutes). Serves 4.

Men Make Good Cooks When They Have Food Mixes To Work With

For quite some time now, we've been talking about how Mrs. America loves to cook with handy packaged baking mixes. The other night at a party one of the husbands asked, "Why don't you ever say anything about what the man of the house thinks of mixes?" To our amazement, not one but many of the boys were quick to sing the praises of this easy-does-it method of baking.

Pete's famous for his waffle parties—knows all sorts of exotic ways to serve 'em. And he gives credit for much of his fame to his favorite waffle mix.

Bill said that when he's in the mood to spoil Betty he cooks Sunday breakfast and takes it up to her on a tray. "I turn out a mighty tasty muffin with the help of my trusty muffin mix," he boasted.

Another of the boys chimed in to say that he always takes along sevral members of a famous family of just-add-water mixes on his camping trips.

So you see, ladies, we're not the only ones who appreciate the speed and convenience of fully-prepared baking mixes.

Chicken Pickleaise

Quick Snacks For Company

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Every once in a while it's fun to spend hours concocting some elaborate dish for a company affair. But most of the time the hostess enjoys herself more if she's been able to arrange good food with a minimum of fuss. Here are quick-to-make combinations that look attractive and taste good enough for guest fare.

Consider the Buffet Fruit Platter pictured here. You can vary the fruit with the season and your burget and arrange it in a minute. Combine fresh and canned fruit, if you like, and be sure both are well chilled. Melons, still in season, are a delectable addition. Since cantaloupes drop off sharply this month your choice of melon may be the honey dew pictured here. In selecting honey dew remember that the firm smooth rind of whitish green color changes to a creamy yellow when the melon is fully ripe.

Next on the platter come canned cling peach halves and pineapple chunks. Quick-frozen berries are a fine garnish but bottled maraschino cherries do well, too. Surround the fruit with attractive salad greens, pass a tangy French Dressing, hot rolls or melba toast, and you have a company snack you can serve any hour.

Delicious with a drink, for a company treat, are the following two spreads for sandwiches or crackers. Be sure to let the guests spread their own.

CREAM CHEESE AND ANCHOVY SPREAD—Leave a small package of cream cheese at room temperature to soften. Mash well and add the anchovies from a small can (either rolled or fillets) and mix together so that they are well combined with the cheese. Flavor with a little onion juice, if desired. (The onion juice may be extracted by scraping with a knife or by finely grating.) This filling is delicious in thin rye bread or whole wheat sandwiches, or spread on crackers with a slice of pimento-stuffed olive centering each.

HAM SPREAD—Put the contents of a small can of deviled ham in a mixing bowl; add a small package of cream cheese and a little sweet pickle relish. Mix together well. Put the mixture in a small attractive bowl with a few butter spreaders and place in center of small tray or flat plate; surround with melba toast and crackers and encourage guests to spread their own snacks.

Guests love dunking trays as well as spread-your-own bowls. Here is a recipe, developed recently by a friend of mine, that can go on the dunking tray.

DUNKING TRAY CHEESE

Ingredients: ½ cup cream-type cottage cheese, 1 three-ounce package cream cheese, ½ cup (about) sour cream, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon finely cut chives (if available), ⅛ teaspoon tabasco, ½ cup chopped Brazil nuts.

Method: Mix cottage cheese and cream cheese together thoroughly. Add sour cream, salt, onion juice, chives (if used), tabasco, and chopped Brazil nuts. If mixture isn't right consistency for dunking add a tablespoon or so of sour cream. Turn into serving bowl and place in center of a large platter or tray surrounded with large crisp potato chips. Dust with paprika. Each guest dips the potato chips in the dunking mixture and makes his own appetizers. Butter spreaders may be put on the tray for spreading, if desired.

Davis Is Fired From Post As Tax Assistant

Reason For Release Is Not Disclosed

County Tax Collector William A. Strother yesterday announced he had discharged George E. Davis from his post as assistant tax collector for District No. 1. He said he had informed Davis of his decision.

Strother also issued the following statement concerning the controversy:

"There seems to be some mistake as to my making a request to the county commissioners.

"I did not ask the county commissioners to discharge Mr. Davis and I had no intention of going before the county board.

"Mr. Davis, against my request, came to my office to talk to me. I stated to him that I had made my decision and it was final. When the county commissioners completed their regular board meeting Tuesday, Mr. Davis brought two of the commissioners into the tax office. I asked him if that meant he was taking it up with the commissioners. He said yes.

"I remarked that this is not the commissioners' office but the tax office. The chairman of the board then stated: 'Then we will go to the commissioners chambers and he asked me to go along'.

"I demanded that if statements were going to be made to the board it would have to be a three-member session. Mr. James Holmes was called in with the other two commissioners. (Charles N. Wilkinson, board chairman and William H. Lemmert).

"I asked to be heard first and stated that I felt that I had been appointed tax collector for four years and was expected to do a good job and should have, and did have, authority to decide myself when an employe was not satisfactory.

"I also stated that if a resignation was not tendered that day I would discharge Davis.

"I said that I did not care to describe in detail all that had taken place to cause my action, but if a majority of the board wanted me to give details I would do so. A majority of the board said this was not necessary.

"I told them that was all I had to say and returned to my duties in the tax office.

"A copy of a letter to Mr. Davis suggesting his resignation was mailed to the chairman of the board on Friday, November 12.

"The letter follows:

"'After investigating and finding out what has taken place lately and remembering your solemn promise to me in the spring of this year and the fact that this is the fourth time I have been embarrassed by your actions during the 18 months I have been in office, I naturally am taking for granted that your resignation will be tendered at once.

"'Owing to the extraordinary expense you have had recently, I am enclosing check for $743.94, two months more salary, making a total of four months you have been paid since you have been off, or $1,666.68 less withholding tax of $178.80 for a net of $1,487.88. This makes a total salary you have received of $10,000.

"'I do not care to talk this over again and would ask that you would not come to my office for this purpose. This is hard for me to say as I certainly tried to be generous at all times and hoped we would show the public a high-quality four-year term of office'.

"The following is a letter of November 17 to Mr. Davis:

"'For reasons well known to yourself you are today discharged from all duties connected with the tax office of District No. 1.

"'I am refunding $200 for bond with the U. S. Casualty Company of New York which you paid for 1947-48 and have voided bond with the above company as of this date z

"'My reasons for taking this action will not be given to the public through the press unless you request publication to me. Your request for publication of the reasons must be made by you through the press'."

Strother said that no additional help is anticipated at this time and that as work demands in certain times of the year additional help will be employed.

Commissioner Lemmert also issued a statement today on his position in the matter.

"There will be no investigation because the commissioners are aware of the facts and they do not need to be made public. Mr. Strothers did not ask the commissioners to discharge Mr. Davis. He stated that unless the resignation was made that day that he would make the discharge.

"Mr. Strothers asked if we wanted the details in the matter but a majority of the board said it wasn't necessary. Mr. Strothers alone is responsible to the county commissioners and I personally believe he has full authority in the tax office.

"As far as I am concerned the matter is settled."

Davis Is Fired From Post As Tax Assistant

Reason For Release Is Not Disclosed

County Tax Collector William A. Strother yesterday announced he had discharged George E. Davis from his post as assistant tax collector for District No. 1. He said he had informed Davis of his decision.

Strother also issued the following statement concerning the controversy:

"There seems to be some mistake as to my making a request to the county commissioners.

"I did not ask the county commissioners to discharge Mr. Davis and I had no intention of going before the county board.

"Mr. Davis, against my request, came to my office to talk to me. I stated to him that I had made my decision and it was final. When the county commissioners completed their regular board meeting Tuesday, Mr. Davis brought two of the commissioners into the tax office. I asked him if that meant he was taking it up with the commissioners. He said yes.

"I remarked that this is not the commissioners' office but the tax office. The chairman of the board then stated: 'Then we will go to the commissioners chambers and he asked me to go along'.

"I demanded that if statements were going to be made to the board it would have to be a three-member session. Mr. James Holmes was called in with the other two commissioners. (Charles N. Wilkinson, board chairman and William H. Lemmert).

"I asked to be heard first and stated that I felt that I had been appointed tax collector for four years and was expected to do a good job and should have, and did have, authority to decide myself when an employe was not satisfactory.

"I also stated that if a resignation was not tendered that day I would discharge Davis.

"I said that I did not care to describe in detail all that had taken place to cause my action, but if a majority of the board wanted me to give details I would do so. A majority of the board said this was not necessary.

"I told them that was all I had to say and returned to my duties in the tax office.

Don't Overdo Talking About Boy Friend: It Bores Others

By NANCY MOTTRAM

(Q) "Dear Nancy: We all like to talk about the special boy in our lives, but there's one girl in our crowd who really overdoes it, and it's driving us crazy. She can't talk for three minutes without bring him into the conversation and every other sentence starts with 'Bill says' . . ." or 'Bill does . . .' We don't know how to break it to her that she's getting to be a bore. She's a swell girl otherwise and we want to know how to habit. What would you suggest?"

Nancy Mottram

(A) After she's done her share of normal talking about him, keep changing the subject every time she comes up with something new. Even though you all like him, too much chatter in the same line can be wearing. If the hint doesn't seem to do any good, tell her that you like to hear about her date life, but constantly is too often. And ask her if she'd mind if you all talked about something else occasionally.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: Every single time I come in from a date I get the third degree from my mother. She wants to know where we went, whom we went with, what we did, and expects me to account for every minute of the evening. I don't mind telling her about my dates, in fact, I like to talk things over with her, but I don't like the idea of having to sit down and go over each second. It makes me feel as though she's prying, and I'd like to ask her to stop without hurting her feelings. Could you tell me what to do?"

(A) She probably doesn't realize that her questions give you that impression. But don't start being casual or nonchalant about your dates—that might make her more insistent than ever. You can talk to your mother frankly, so tell her exactly how you feel about it. She'll understand your point of view, and see how her natural interests in your doings strikes you. From that point on, you ought to have clear sailing.

(Q) "Dear Nancy: The crowd of girls I go around with have begun to edge me out. I know that it's not just my imagination because they often leave me out of their plans now, and several times when I've called them to go somewhere, their excuses have been mighty weak. I can't understand why this should be happening. I'm unhappy about it and I hope you can give me some advice."

(A) Get to the bottom of it right now. The longer you let it go by without trying to find out just what's in the wind, the harder it will be. See one of the girls who used to be a close friend of yours. Tell her you don't know why you should be pushed out of all the things you used to do together, and ask her to set you straight for old friendship's sake. Then you'll know what you're up against and how to go about getting back into the circle.

If you have a problem at school or at home, write Miss Mottram for her help.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are our boys brought up to be bad husbands?

Answer: Unintentionally, yes, in many cases. For what makes a husband "bad" is generally that he is not happy, and too many boys cannot find happiness in marriage. They are dominated so long by their mothers and by women teachers that it never occurs to them that a woman—least of all, a wife—can be a person with whom to relax and "have fun." A boy who enjoys the company of girls except for purposes of conquest is likely to be thought a "sissy", yet a man who cannot enjoy his wife's company will neither be, nor make her happy.

Can you take too good care of yourself?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. O. Spurgeon English, noted Philadelphia psychiatrist. When a person with no organic disease and a history of personality conflict develops an illness, this is likely to have come from the effect of his emotions on his body. In order to cure him, you must help him understand how this could happen, and then get him to devote the energy he has been spending in "taking such wonderful care of himself" to a more worth-while occupation. For as long as his attention remains centered on himself, he will not get well.

Answer: No. It is as truly a neurotic symptom as its opposite—complete indifference to what others think about you. And both attitudes grow out of an exaggerated sense of your own guilt or weakness. The sensitive person's self-doubt is revived by the least slight or rebuff, while the person who "just doesn't care" has built a wall around himself to keep from being hurt in the same way. If you have a healthy self-esteem, you'll enjoy being liked and assume that most people are friendly, but won't take it too hard if one person isn't.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Good Talk

What a stroke of genius on the part of James Boswell, to have jotted down the good talk of Dr. Samuel Johnson, over the most fertile period of the latter's life. And so it is that the world has been bequeathed a masterpiece of biographic and philosophic literature.

Good, happy talk will never go out of style. We will always want someone near us with whom to talk. We always feel better after a talk with some friend. Stevenson once wrote that "speech of two or more is by far the most accessible of pleasures. It costs nothing in money; it is all profit; it completes our education, founds and fosters our friendships, and can be enjoyed at any age and in almost any state of health."

One of the joys of traveling is to talk with the people that you meet at different places. On trains, in hotels, at various gatherings, at lunch counters, and at filling stations—here are to be contacted people of all types, and all interesting, regardless of origin, education, or avocation.

Some of the most interesting people whom I have ever met have been those contacted on boats and trains. People are most natural when met thus, for they move in a restricted area and have the talk urge, which is a blessing all round!

Being a booklover, I can say that I have met some of the most thrilling of friends—all book lovers are friends at sight—in book shops. Here I have often contacted authors, collectors, and ordinary "book worms." But there is a friendliness among lovers of books that is unlike any other friendliness. Invisible hands, in a book shop, are forever pulling at me when I know that I ought to leave!

The talk of country folks is always inspiring, for it is so sincere and honest. People in the country take time to think—and they usually think very much to the point. They attend Nature's classes every day, and get their information first hand. And their hospitality always matches their intelligence. Talk with any tiller of the soil and you will learn something to your advantage.

(Copyright, 1948, By The George Matthew Adams Service)

Many kinds of insects hibernate during the cold weather in barns and old stumps and tree trunks. Others deposit their eggs in the fall and then die. The eggs or pupae hatch and emerge in the spring.

Today's Talk

Good Talk

What a stroke of genius on the part of James Boswell, to have jotted down the good talk of Dr. Samuel Johnson, over the most fertile period of the latter's life. And so it is that the world has been bequeathed a masterpiece of biographic and philosophic literature.

Good, happy talk will never go out of style. We will always want someone near us with whom to talk. We always feel better after a talk with some friend. Stevenson once wrote that "speech of two or more is by far the most accessible of pleasures. It costs nothing in money; it is all profit; it completes our education, founds and fosters our friendships, and can be enjoyed at any age and in almost any state of health."

One of the joys of traveling is to talk with the people that you meet at different places. On trains, in hotels, at various gatherings, at lunch counters, and at filling stations—here are to be contacted people of all types, and all interesting, regardless of origin, education, or avocation.

Some of the most interesting people whom I have ever met have been those contacted on boats and trains. People are most natural when met thus, for they move in a restricted area and have the talk urge, which is a blessing all round!

Being a booklover, I can say that I have met some of the most thrilling of friends—all book lovers are friends at sight—in book shops. Here I have often contacted authors, collectors, and ordinary "book worms." But there is a friendliness among lovers of books that is unlike any other friendliness. Invisible hands, in a book shop, are forever pulling at me when I know that I ought to leave!

The talk of country folks is always inspiring, for it is so sincere and honest. People in the country take time to think—and they usually think very much to the point. They attend Nature's classes every day, and get their information first hand. And their hospitality always matches their intelligence. Talk with any tiller of the soil and you will learn something to your advantage.

Many kinds of insects hibernate during the cold weather in barns and old stumps and tree trunks. Others deposit their eggs in the fall and then die. The eggs or pupae hatch and emerge in the spring.

Traffic Safety To Be Outlined Here

A chart showing the location, number and types of motor vehicle accidents in the county for the December-January period last year has been released by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission to enable a program to be planned to decrease the number of mishaps this year.

The information and statistics of the accidents contained in the report will be studied in advance and plans developed to avoid their recurrence.

Route 40 had the most accidents with 19 listed. Eight occurred during the daytime and 11 at night. There were no deaths in the daytime crashes but one person was killed in mishaps taking place at night. Four persons were injured during the day and two at night. Six of the mishaps caused property damage in the daytime accidents while two were injured at night and eight property damage accidents took place at night.

Route 220 had the next highest accident rate with 11 listed. All of these mishaps took place at night with one killed, nine injured and six cases of property damage.

There were only five accidents on Route 36 with one person injured during the day and one at night. There were three property damage accidents.

In Garrett county there were only three accidents during the same period with one property damage accident during the day and one person injured. One property damage case was reported at night.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 18—(INS)—There is a nice touch of sentiment in John Wayne's purchase of "The Alamo," authored by Pat Ford, son of producer-director John Ford. Our western hero, Mr. Wayne, swears by Ford Sr. and is in most of his pictures. Apparently Pat is following in his dad's footsteps by breaking into the movie game by the writing routine. Ford Sr., was a writer before he became a top director.

Louella Parsons

"The Alamo," of course, deals with the famous 12-day siege when William B. Travis headed the garrison of 187 men who were completely wiped out. Wayne plays Travis and is trying to get Gail Russell, who already has appeared in several pictures with him, as his co-star.

He hopes to make his picture location in Mexico. That is where Mrs. Wayne comes from, and he spends much of his time there. He will start his movie at Republic as soon as he finishes "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon."

Linda Christian will not have Robert Alda as her co-star in "Pirates of Capri." After being set to have Alda play the male lead, and having agreed to furnish passage for Bob and his family, the Italian company backed out.

With the Italian deal off, Bob is setting up an independent company to film "The Student Body." He already has interested Bill Williams in playing a role with him.

The horoscopers have been busy ever since the birth of Princess Elizabeth's son, mapping his future.

Carroll Righter, who is head man in the horoscope department with Turhan Bey, Marlene Dietrich and Maria Montez, made the following chart on the royal baby:

"The prince will be practical minded— of almost a legal turn of mind, very analytical. On the surface he will have a gracious and sweet personality which might deceive some into thinking he can be led around. But such is not the case. He will have his mother's force of character even though it is not as obvious as Elizabeth's.

"The new prince will be interested in real estate. Also, there is a strong note of formality and of adhering to tradition, and he is definitely always for 'king and country'."

Chatter in Hollywood: Jane Russell has put her foot down on doing any more leg art at Republic. Did she say "leg" art?

Jane says she has had seven years of revealing art, and that is enough.

I hear tell that Howard Hughes will not lend Jane out after she finishes 'Montant Belle." He is going to make a few pictures with her, himself. I hear, but I must say I cannot verify this, that he rejected a $150,000 offer from MGM for Jane to do her famous singing number in "On the Town" with Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelly.

Since the photogs ball, Jane's stock has gone sky high.

Our command performance travellers sent me a telegram from Halifax signed by Alan Ladd, Joan Caulfield, Virginia Mayo, Billy De Wolfe, Pat Neal, Michael O'Shea and Norman Siegel.

They said: "As the result of your announcement that we were sailing from Halifax, 50,000 people, headed by Mayor J. E. Ahern, met us and gave each of us a cigaret lighter bearing the seal of Halifax. We are sailing on the Mauretania."

Okay, but where's my lighter?

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

The surprise of the Kay Thompson opening at the new Mayfair room was Merle Oberon's arrival with Greg Bautzer. She explained that both she and Bautzer were the guests of the Jennings Langs.

Gary Cooper and Myrna Loy will be interested to hear that Helena, Montana, is trying to acquire their homes to turn them into museums. That reminds me, Myrna and Gene Markey will return home in January.

George Sanders has given Zsa Zsa Gabor a $35,000 engagement ring—a square cut diamond and a big emerald set together in gold. It's an eye knocker-outer.

Jimmy Stewart is bringing his Ma and Pa here to spend Christmas. How well I remember when I talked long distance to Jimmy's mother about his return home from the war. She was busy getting ready to welcome her popular son.

Rebekahs Elect District Officers At Convention

Mrs. Hazel Kight Names Committees

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mrs. Hazel Kight, New Creek Drive, Keyser, district deputy president of the Mineral, Grant and Tucker County Rebekah Lodges, conducted the election of officers for the district at its 36th biennial convention held in Parsons. Mrs. Kight also appointed the following district officers: Miss Pearl Scott, Thomas, color bearer; Mrs. Howard Loughry, Parsons, warden; Mrs. Estella Simons, Elk Garden, conductor; Mrs. Viola Phelps, Davis, chaplain; Mrs. Nellie Huffman, Thomas, inside guardian, and Mrs. Carbaugh, Thomas, pianist.

Freeman, both of Parsons, ways and means committee; Mrs. Olie Thompson, Blaine; Mrs. John Luzier, Davis; Mrs. H. C. Loughry, Parsons; Mrs. Mae Arnold, Thomas, and Mrs. Audra Morris, Elk Garden, as necrology committee. Mrs. Howard Loughry, Parsons, was appointed chairman of publicity.

The members also voted to donate $10 to the IOOF Home in Elkins, $5 to the cancer fund and $5 to the Theta Rho Scholarship fund.

Mrs. Mabel Alley Leager, Huntington, president of the Rebekah Assembly, spoke on youth organizations in communities and stressed the need of vocational guidance and training. Mrs. Esther McKee, Huntington, vice president of the assembly, also gave a short talk.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. H. U. Freeman, of Liberty Lodge No. 95, Parsons, host lodge, and the response by Mrs. Viola Phelps, Davis.

Degree work after a banquet in the IOOF hall was demonstrated by Liberty Lodge when Miss Madge Harsh was given the initiation ceremonies. Gifts were presented to the state and district officers by the district members.

Representatives were present from Thomas, Davis, Keyser, Parsons, Elk Garden and Blaine.

The dipper birds frequent clear, pebbly streams and lakes, feeding chiefly on mollusks and aquatic insects and their larvae. They seek their food under water, diving with great ease and moving about at the bottom of the water for a short time.

Donald Trenton Wed In Bluefield

PETERSBURG, W. Va. — Miss Nancy Jean Omar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evans E. Omar, Bluefield, Va., and Donald Paul Trenton, son of Mrs. Edna Trenton and the late W. D. Trenton, Petersburg, were married recently in First Methodist Church, Bluefield, W. Va., with the pastor, Rev. A. N. Williams, officiating.

Charles Cassel played the organ and Dr. J. G. W. Gillespie, Bluefield, W. Va., sang "Because" and "O Promise Me."

The church was decorated with bronze, yellow and maroon chrysanthemums with fall leaves in matching shades. Pew candelabra were used throughout the church.

The bride wore the traditional wedding gown of shell pink satin with fitted bodice, long pointed sleeves and a bertha of imported lace. The full skirt ended in a long cathedral train. Her full-length veil of imported pink illusion was caught by a Victoria bonnet trimmed in orange blossoms.

She was given in marriage by her father and carried a bouquet of stephanotis, lily of the valley and centered with a white orchid showered with ribbons.

Mrs. Amand ViPond, Norfolk, Va., was matron of honor and Mrs. Harold Hoback, Bluefield, and Mrs. John Lowry, Kingsport, Tenn., were bridesmaids. Dr. John Trenton, Philadelphia, Pa., served as his brother's best man and ushers were David Trenton, Arthur Trenton, Petersburg, William Shea, Cleveland, Ohio, and James Pyle, Bluefield.

Mrs. Trenton is a graduate of Graham High School and Duke University and is a member of Alpha Phi social sorority and Beta Sigma Phi, national service sorority. She is a teacher at Graham High School.

Mr. Trenton is a graduate of Petersburg High School and was graduated from the school of pharmacy at West Virginia University. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity and is co-owner of the Fisher-Trenton Pharmacy, Bluefield.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., they will reside at Bluefield.

Jane says she has had seven years of revealing art, and that is enough.

I hear tell that Howard Hughes will not lend Jane out after she finishes 'Montant Belle." He is going to make a few pictures with her, himself, I hear, but I must say I cannot verify this, that he rejected a $150,000 offer from MGM for Jane to do her famous singing number in "On the Town" with Frank Sinatra and Gene Kelly.

Since the photogs ball, Jane's stock has gone sky high.

Our command performance travellers sent me a telegram from Halifax signed by Alan Ladd, Joan Caulfield, Virginia Mayo, Billy De Wolfe, Pat Neal, Michael O'Shea and Norman Siegel.

They said: "As the result of your announcement that we were sailing from Halifax, 50,000 people, headed by Mayor J. E. Ahern, met us and gave each of us a cigaret lighter bearing the seal of Halifax. We are sailing on the Mauretania."

Okay, but where's my lighter?

Don't scour sinks and bath tubs with a coarse powder. A good cleaner which will not scratch can be made by mixing whiting, a powdered chalk obtainable at drug stores, with water to form a paste.

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Area May Have Satellite Air Reserve Group

Unit Would Receive Planes, Equipment

The Cumberland area may have a "satellite" Air Force Reserve squadron under which planes and other training equipment would be available to reserve personnel here, Col. William O. Eareckson, commanding officer of the Air Force Reserve Training Center at Andrews Field, Washington, said last night.

Col. Eareckson voiced his optimism concerning the possibility of such a measure at a City Hall meeting of Air Force Reserve personnel interested in forming a composite squadron for this area.

Col Eareckson said the first step toward formation of a satellite group would be the formation of the composite squadron of both officers and enlisted men. If enough interest is evident, he said, a "TO and E" (Table of Organization and Equipment) squadron could be formed.

The TO and E squadron, he said, would have a definite number of officers and enlisted specialists. At that stage, he said, reserve personnel could start drawing pay for training periods.

The next step, he said, would be the actual forming of the satellite, in keeping with present reserve trends. The satellite squadron at first would be under the Andrews Field training center, he explained.

Col. Eareckson said under this plan, planes and equipment would be assigned here permanently, a local office would be set up and personnel would be stationed here.

He explained that the procedure would entail compilation of a roster of personnel interested in the local group and forwarding it to him.

Col. Eareckson in turn would forward the roster to the commanding general of the Air Force Defense Command at Slocum, N. Y.

If the group is formed, he said, interested persons in Mineral and Hampshire counties of West Virginia would become eligible to join.

If the present plan for satellite units in Maryland is approved, he explained, the training center at Andrews Field would be moved either to Dover, Del., or Richmond, Va. Andrews would itself become a satellite.

Satellite units would be formed here and in Hagerstown and the unit already in operation at Baltimore would remain as a satellite, he said.

Full information concerning the formation of the composite group can be obtained at the local Army and Air Force recruiting office, according to First Lt. George J. Gocke, officer in charge.

Col. Eareckson came here with Major Dietrich, a member of the executive board of the Reserve Officers' Association for Maryland, and Capt. Gyer, reserve training instructor.

The officers flew here for the meeting and returned to Andrews Field last night, Gocke said.

Radio Polskie To Come On The Air

WARSAW (AP)—The government-controlled "Radio Polskie" plans to build a powerful short-wave transmitting center in Warsaw. It has ordered a 100-kilowatt transmitter from Czechoslovakia.

"Radio Polskie" said its broadcasting power would be further increased by another 100-kilowatt transmitter, two 50-kilowatt stations and three 10-kilowatt stations. It intends to make its voice heard not only in the Soviet Union and all of Europe, but also in the United States.

Mine Engineer

purports to be a state-wide measure but Garrett county is specifically exempt from its provisions. He said that Garrett county has more strip mining opeartions than does Allegany county, the only other coal producing county in Maryland.

The act's constitutionality is also attacked on the basis that it violates the 14th Amendment to the Constitution which grants equal protection under the law.

Capper stated that it is possible to drive along a road in Garrett county which parallels the dividing line between the two counties and see strip mining on one side of the road free of any regulations while on the other side in Allegany county the operators must obey certain rules.

He cited this as being one of the discriminatory features of the act.

Capper brought out that in other counties of Maryland there have been for years operations similar to strip mining in which the overburden is taken from sand, gravel, limestone and other minerals without any regulations.

To single out the coal and fire clay industries for regulation under the act is termed by Capper to be discriminatory.

The first witness for the plaintiffs was Harold C. Carl, commercial photographer of Frostburg, who made a trip throughout the state taking pictures of quarry operations and other "mining" work. Carl told the court he spent 12 days in this work and among the exhibits to be offered by the plaintiffs will be more than 300 photographs, and 30 small containers with samples of the various type quarry and "mining" operations in Maryland counties.

Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general of Maryland, is representing the State Bureau of Mines which is named as one of the defendants in the case. Paul M. Fletcher, assistant Allegany county state's attorney, is assisting Buscher as a representative of the county. The state's attorney's office in this county is charged with the enforcement of the act.

membership meeting in December and added several speakers are being considered for that meeting.

Ross O. Decker, James A. Avirett and E. G. Lytle were approved as members of the Committee on Education.

The directors approved a report on the Fund Appeals Review Board and voted to ask local organizations to designate representatives to meet and organize the board.

The Industrial Promotion Committee, headed by Howard M. Smith, reported an illustrated pamphlet describing Cumberland's facilities and advantages will be ready for the printer in the near future.

The directors of the Chamber passed a resolution of sympathy in the death of Frank E. Smith, who had been active in the Chamber for many years.

Area May Have Satellite Air Reserve Group

Unit Would Receive Planes, Equipment

The Cumberland area may have a "satellite" Air Force Reserve squadron under which planes and other training equipment would be available to reserve personnel here, Col. William O. Eareckson, commanding officer of the Air Force Reserve Training Center at Andrews Field, Washington, said last night.

Col. Eareckson voiced his optimism concerning the possibility of such a measure at a City Hall meeting of Air Force Reserve personnel interested in forming a composite squadron for this area.

Col Eareckson said the first step toward formation of a satellite group would be the formation of the composite squadron of both officers and enlisted men. If enough interest is evident, he said, a "TO and E" (Table of Organization and Equipment) squadron could be formed.

The TO and E squadron, he said, would have a definite number of officers and enlisted specialists. At that stage, he said, reserve personnel could start drawing pay for training periods.

The next step, he said, would be the actual forming of the satellite, in keeping with present reserve trends. The satellite squadron at first would be under the Andrews Field training center, he explained.

Col. Eareckson said under this plan, planes and equipment would be assigned here permanently, a local office would be set up and personnel would be stationed here.

He explained that the procedure would entail compilation of a roster of personnel interested in the local group and forwarding it to him.

Col. Eareckson in turn would forward the roster to the commanding general of the Air Force Defense Command at Slocum, N. Y.

If the group is formed, he said, interested persons in Mineral and Hampshire counties of West Virginia would become eligible to join.

If the present plan for satellite units in Maryland is approved, he explained, the training center at Andrews Field would be moved either to Dover, Del., or Richmond, Va. Andrews would itself become a satellite.

Satellite units would be formed here and in Hagerstown and the unit already in operation at Baltimore would remain as a satellite, he said.

Full information concerning the formation of the composite group can be obtained at the local Army and Air Force recruiting office, according to First Lt. George J. Gocke, officer in charge.

Col. Eareckson came here with Major Dietrich, a member of the executive board of the Reserve Officers' Association for Maryland, and Capt. Gyer, reserve training instructor.

The officers flew here for the meeting and returned to Andrews Field last night, Gocke said.

Radio Polskie To Come On The Air

WARSAW (AP)—The government-controlled "Radio Polskie" plans to build a powerful short-wave transmitting center in Warsaw. It has ordered a 100-kilowatt transmitter from Czechoslovakia.

"Radio Polskie" said its broadcasting power would be further increased by another 100-kilowatt transmitter, two 50-kilowatt stations and three 10-kilowatt stations. It intends to make its voice heard not only in the Soviet Union and all of Europe, but also in the United States.

purports to be a state-wide measure but Garrett county is specifically exempt from its provisions. He said that Garrett county has more strip mining opeartions than does Allegany county, the only other coal producing county in Maryland.

The act's constitutionality is also attacked on the basis that it violates the 14th Amendment to the Constitution which grants equal protection under the law.

Capper stated that it is possible to drive along a road in Garrett county which parallels the dividing line between the two counties and see strip mining on on.. side of the road free of any regulations while on the other side in Allegany county the operators must obey certain rules.

He cited this as being one of the discriminatory features of the act.

Capper brought out that in other counties of Maryland there have been for years operations similar to strip mining in which the overburden is taken from sand, gravel, limestone and other minerals without any regulations.

To single out the coal and fire clay industries for regulation under the act is termed by Capper to be discriminatory.

The first witness for the plaintiffs was Harold C. Carl, commercial photographer of Frostburg, who made a trip throughout the state taking pictures of quarry operations and other "mining" work. Carl told the court he spent 12 days in this work and among the exhibits to be offered by the plaintiffs will be more than 300 photographs, and 30 small containers with samples of the various type quarry and "mining" operations in Maryland counties.

Joseph D. Buscher, assistant attorney general of Maryland, is representing the State Bureau of Mines which is named as one of the defendants in the case. Paul M. Fletcher, assistant Allegany county state's attorney, is assisting Buscher as a representative of the county. The state's attorney's office in this county is charged with the enforcement of the act.

Romeny High School's Pioneers and LaSalle High School's Explorers will play the final nocturnal football game of the season in Cumberland tonight when they meet in their third annual game at 8 o'clock at the stadium.

It will be the 17th night game this year and LaSalle will be making its seventh appearance at home. Romney has engaged in eight games thus far, all being Friday afternoon contests.

Both teams are badly crippled for tonight's game. Romney players on the hospital list are Bob Maphis, Bob Sirk and Dan Wagoner, all first stringers. LaSalle's regular center, Francis Kitzmiller, is out of action with a cracked cheekbone, and Jim Stewart and Bob Herstine, other regular linemen, are doubtful starters.

LaSalle hasn't tasted victory since October 22 when the Explorers defeated St. Justin's of Pittsburgh. The Carolan-Gaffney coached eleven has suffered defeats at the hands of Allegany and Ridgeley in its last two starts and has a season's record of two wins, five losses and one tie.

Romney Has Won Seven

Romney, coached by Richard "Dick" McElwee, one-time West Virginia University star, is enjoying one of its best seasons with a record of seven wins and one defeat. The Pioneers won their first six games from Berkeley Springs, Charles Town, Franklin, Moorefield, Thomas and Beall, lost to Ridgeley and downed Petersburg.

LaSalle defeated Romney in 1946 by the score of 26-6 but the Hampshire Countians won last year's contest, 14-13.

Both schools will conclude their season on Thanksgiving Day when LaSalle plays Beall at Frostburg and Romney plays host to Keyser High in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt.

Cats Seek Even Break

Coach Dana Lough's Potomac State Catamounts will end their nine-game schedule by meeting West Virginia Tech at Montgomery, W. Va. A victory would give the Keyser eleven an even break for the season in the West Virginia Conference. Potomac holds a 22-6 decision over Shepherd College and lost to Concord 26-13 and Davis-Elkins 7-0. In eight games to date the Cats have won three, lost four and tied one.

West Virginia Deaf School will lower the curtain on its seven-game schedule tomorrow by playing the Pennsylvania Deaf School on the latter's field. The Romney eleven has won four games and lost two.

Michigan Rides 22-Game Winning Streak To Ohio

Wolverines Familiar With Pitfalls There

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 18 (AP)—Michigan's smashing Wolverines ride a 22-game winning streak into Columbus Saturday for a Big Nine title showdown against Ohio State but they're trying to forget the matter of reputation.

In other words, Michigan is determined to ignore the record, just as the Wolverines know Ohio State will.

For of all the Wolverines' keen Big Nine football rivalries, this traditional season windup with the Buckeyes more than any other has a reputation of utter disregard for any advance script.

Judging from the intense seriousness surrounding Michigan's practice camp this week, the Wolverines will pitch into Ohio State Saturday as if everything depends on it. Maybe that's because it does.

For each Benjamin Gaylord Oosterbaan it means his hopes for an undisputed Big Nine championship in his first season as head man here.

Familiar With Pitfalls

A licking would ruin all that, collapsing a Michigan victory bubble that has steadily grown since October, 1946, to the largest proportions of any in major college football today.

The Wolverines are thoroughly familiar with the pitfalls surrounding any grid visit to Columbus.

In 1942, when Michigan could have tied for the Conference championship, they fell to the Bucks 21 to 7. The same situation existed in 1944 when Ohio State won 18 to 14. Both times the Buckeyes took the title outright by beating Michigan.

Now the Wolverines are determined to turn the tables. Michigan has won seven of its last 10 meetings with the Buckeyes but this one looks more important than any of those, with the long winning streak in the balance.

Ready and r'arin to go are sophomore halfback Chuck Ortmann, who already has gained more than 1,000 yards passing and running; his rookie running mate Leo Koceski who has averaged four yards a carry on the ground and has gathered in 17 passes; Dick Rifenburg, who has scored eight times in eight games; Tom Peterson, the team's ground gaining leader who also has counted eight touchdowns, and all the rest.

Boots 28 Points

Allis has booted 28 points after touchdown with only five misses. All he wants Saturday is a chance to work.

Rose Bowl Vote For Coast Team Set For Monday

Race Hinges On Two Contests Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18 (AP)—There may be many anxious hours of waiting next Monday before the Rose Bowl vote of the Pacific Coast Conference is announced.

"Anytime after 9 o'clock Monday morning (Pacific Daylight Time)," said the conference commissioner's office today.

Conference faculty representatives of the 10 universities have been instructed to telegraph their vote to the commissioner's office by noon Monday.

H. D. Thoreau, executive assistant to commissioner Victor O. Schmidt, said the vote will not be announced before 9 a. m., and if some of the members are late wiring, or their messages are delayed, the result might not be released until mid or late afternoon.

As previously explained, if the two teams wind up in a tie, and the conference vote results in a five-five deadlock which cannot be altered after successive balloting (another time consumer, incidentally), then the team longest away from the Rose Bowl would draw the honor.

Oregon would be the team, in this event. The Webfoots last played in the Pasadena classic in 1920, but California appeared in 1938.

The University of Maryland freshman football team switched from the single wing to the split-T in the second half after spotting the West Virginia University frosh eleven a two-touchdown lead in the first two quarters and came from behind to score a well-earned 26-12 decision over the Little Mountaineers last night at Fort Hill stadium.

The game, first college grid contest to be seen in the local Greenway Avenue bowl, was sponsored by the local Knights of Columbus and was witnessed by approximately 4,500 fans.

The powerful forward wall of the Little Terps kept West Virginia's running attack well bottled up during the game but the Mountaineer freshmen capitalized on two long passes to score both their touchdowns and had a 12-0 lead at halftime.

Bob Litten returned a Maryland punt to the Terrapins 41 late in the opening quarter and then picked up 15 yards around end after a five-yard penalty had been paced off against the West Virginians. Ken Bartges, substitute quarterback from Masontown, Pa., then hit Tom Harden with a 34-yard aerial and the first six-pointer.

Hott Scores Touchdown

Late in the second period another Bartges overhead was caught by George Hott of Moorefield on the Maryland five and the lanky ex-Moorefield High star raced into the end zone for the counter. Both of West Virginia's tries for the extra point failed.

With their running attack stalled against the hard-charging West Virginia line in the first two periods Maryland switched to the lightning-like split-T on the second half kick-off and left little doubt from that moment on which was the better team.

Earley Runs 58 Yards

After an exchange of punts gave Maryland the ball on their own 38 Harold "Buck" Earley, former Hagerstown High fullback, broke loose for 58 yards to the West Virginia four. He was hauled down from behind by Hott.

Lynn Davis then circled end for the remaining four yards and the tying touchdown.

West Virginia threatened again but a fourth down pass was caught by Hott out-of-bounds beyond the end zone and Maryland took the ball over on downs, early in the fourth quarter.

The Terps then marched 80 yards in just six plays with Modzelewski's 41-yard aerial to Henry Fox the payoff pitch. Clarence Fry then made good the first of two extra points to put the Marylanders ahead to stay.

After the following kickoff West Virginia was held for downs on its own ten and a high pass from center went over Bartges head into the end zone while he was back attempting to kick and big Bill Treiber ,Maryland tackle and ex-Fort Hill star, pounced on the pigskin for the final score. Fry's placement again was good.

Bartges Makes Record Punt

A highlight of the game was the excellent punting of Bartges for the Mountaineers. The 170-pound back got off what is believed to be the longest kick ever seen in the local stadim. Standing behind his own end zone in the second period the lanky six-footer booted the ball 70 yards through the air with Buck Earley of Maryland finally picking the oval up on the Terrapin two-yard line. Altogether the kick traveled 94 yards from the line of scrimmage. Bartges averaged 52.6 yards per kick for six punts during the game.

Outstanding players for the winners were Earley, Modzelewski, Treiber and Joe Moss of Ridgeley. Bartges and Hott starred for West Virginia. The lineups:

W. S. To Send Hockey Team To Stockholm

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (INS)—The United States will send a squad of 15 to play in the world's amateur hockey tournament at Stockholm, Feb. 6-13.

It was announced today that the squad, under the direction of Jack Riley, will leave for Stockholm Dec. 28.

Tom Lockhart, general manager of the New York Rangers, said an effort will be made to land next year's tournament for either Boston or Chicago.

REFEREE CAVANAUGH CLARIFIES PENALTY IN FRESHMEN GAME

In college football when two fouls are called on a team the first takes precedence while in scholastic football the major or most severe foul is given priority.

This explanation was made by John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, following a ruling on a play which occurred in last night's game between the freshmen teams of West Virginia University and the University of Maryland.

"There were quite a number of fans who wondered why the officials did not give the team the choice of penalties in the second period when an offside penalty and then pass interference was called on Maryland but this game was being played according to collegiate rules and the first foul took precedence," Referee Cavanaugh declared.

Local fans are accustomed to seeing high school games and therefore they were under the impression that the officials had erred in slapping the offside penalty on the Little Terrapins, Cavanaugh added.

If the interference penalty had been called it would have meant a gain of approximately 25 yards for the Little Mountaineers. Maryland, however, was set back five yards on the offside play.

It will be the 17th night game this year and LaSalle will be making its seventh appearance at home. Romney has engaged in eight games thus far, all being Friday afternoon contests.

Both teams are badly crippled for tonight's game. Romney players on the hospital list are Bob Maphis, Bob Sirk and Dan Wagoner, all first stringers. Romney, coached by Richard "Dick" McElwee, one-time West Virginia University star, is enjoying one of its best seasons with a record of seven wins and one defeat. The Pioneers won their first six games from Berkeley Springs, Charles Town, Franklin, Moorefield, Thomas and Beall, lost to Ridgeley and downed Petersburg.

LaSalle defeated Romney in 1946 by the score of 26-6 but the Hampshire Countians won last year's contest, 14-13.

Both schools will conclude their season on Thanksgiving Day when LaSalle plays Beall at Frostburg and Romney plays host to Keyser High in a Potomac Valley Conference tilt.

Two tri-state district teams will figure in Saturday games away from home.

Coach Dana Lough's Potomac State Catamounts will end their nine-game schedule by meeting West Virginia Tech at Montgomery, W. Va. Potomac holds a 22-6 decision over Shepherd College and lost to Concord 26-13 and Davis-Elkins 7-0. In eight games to date the Cats have won three, lost four and tied one.

West Virginia Deaf School will lower the curtain on its seven-game schedule tomorrow by playing the Pennsylvania Deaf School on the latter's field. The Romney eleven has won four games and lost two.

Michigan Rides 22-Game Winning Streak To Ohio

Wolverines Familiar With Pitfalls There

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 18 (AP)—Michigan's smashing Wolverines ride a 22-game winning streak into Columbus Saturday for a Big Nine title showdown against Ohio State but they're trying to forget the matter of reputation.

In other words, Michigan is determined to ignore the record, just as the Wolverines know Ohio State will.

For of all the Wolverines' keen Big Nine football rivalries, this traditional season windup with the Buckeyes more than any other has a reputation of utter disregard for any advance script.

Judging from the intense seriousness surrounding Michigan's practice camp this week, the Wolverines will pitch into Ohio State Saturday as if everything depends on it. Maybe that's because it does.

For each Benjamin Gaylord Oosterbaan it means his hopes for an undisputed Big Nine championship in his first season as head man here.

Familiar With Pitfalls

A licking would ruin all that, collapsing a Michigan victory bubble that has steadily grown since October, 1946, to the largest proportions of any in major college football today.

The Wolverines are thoroughly familiar with the pitfalls surrounding any grid visit to Columbus.

In 1942, when Michigan could have tied for the Conference championship, they fell to the Bucks 21 to 7. The same situation existed in 1944 when Ohio State won 18 to 14. Both times the Buckeyes took the title outright by beating Michigan.

Now the Wolverines are determined to turn the tables. Michigan has won seven of its last 10 meetings with the Buckeyes but this one looks more important than any of those, with the long winning streak in the balance.

Ready and r'arin to go are sophomore halfback Chuck Ortmann, who already has gained more than 1,000 yards passing and running; his rookie running mate Leo Koceski who has averaged four yards a carry on the ground and has gathered in 17 passes; Dick Rifenburg, who has scored eight times in eight games; Tom Peterson, the team's ground gaining leader who also has counted eight touchdowns, and all the rest.

Boots 28 Points

Allis has booted 28 points after touchdown with only five misses. All he wants Saturday is a chance to work.

"Anytime after 9 o'clock Monday morning (Pacific Daylight Time)," said the conference commissioner's office today.

Conference faculty representatives of the 10 universities have been instructed to telegraph their vote to the commissioner's office by noon Monday.

H. D. Thoreau, executive assistant to commissioner Victor O. Schmidt, said the vote will not be announced before 9 a. m., and if some of the members are late wiring, or their messages are delayed, the result might not be released until mid or late afternoon.

As previously explained, if the two teams wind up in a tie, and the conference vote results in a five-five deadlock which cannot be altered after successive balloting (another time consumer, incidentally), then the team longest away from the Rose Bowl would draw the honor.

Century A. C. Takes Over League Lead

Viaduct Inn Cops Three From Amvets

The Century Athletic Club of Frostburg took over first place in the National Shuffleboard League of Allegany County by sweeping three games from the Cumberland American Legion while the Cumberland Amvets toppled from the lead by losing three in a row to Viaduct Inn.

By winning three the CAC made its season's record 13 victories and two defeats. The Amvets headed the loop prior to last night's match with an 11-1 record.

Plummer paced the CCC players with 36 points while Lauchlie was high for the Legion with 14.

The Cumberland V. F. W. tightened their grip on second place by scoring a 2-1 win over the Owls Club. The Vets' record now is 12 wins and three losses. J. Roby and Bujac turned in scores of 18 for V. F. W. and Dovalli topped the Owls with 19.

Ingram's 31 led the Viaduct Inn to a 3-0 decision over the Amvets. T. Geatz led the Amvets with 18 points.

College Grid Mentor Gets Five-Year Contract

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 18—(AP)—Head Coach J. Quinn Decker of The Citadel announced today that he had decided to accept a five-year contract to remain at the military college.

He turned in his resignation last month and asked that consideration be given to relieving him of his duties in March, 1949, end of his fiscal year.

The athletic council two weeks ago went into special session and applauded his efforts at building football at The Citadel and offered a five-year extension of his contract.

REFEREE CAVANAUGH CLARIFIES PENALTY IN FRESHMEN GAME

In college football when two fouls are called on a team the first takes precedence while in scholastic football the major or most severe foul is given priority.

This explanation was made by John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, following a ruling on a play which occurred in last night's game between the freshmen teams of West Virginia University and the University of Maryland.

"There were quite a number of fans who wondered why the officials did not give the team the choice of penalties in the second period when an offside penalty and then pass interference was called on Maryland but this game was being played according to collegiate rules and the first foul took precedence," Referee Cavanaugh declared.

Local fans are accustomed to seeing high school games and therefore they were under the impression that the officials had erred in slapping the offside penalty on the Little Terrapins, Cavanaugh added.

If the interference penalty had been called it would have meant a gain of approximately 25 yards for the Little Mountaineers. Maryland, however, was set back five yards on the offside play.

The University of Maryland freshman football team switched from the single wing to the split-T in the second half after spotting the West Virginia University frosh eleven a two-touchdown lead in the first two quarters and came from behind to score a well-earned 26-12 decision over the Little Mountaineers last night at Fort Hill stadium.

The game, first college grid contest to be seen in the local Greenway Avenue bowl, was sponsored by the local Knights of Columbus and was witnessed by approximately 4,500 fans.

The powerful forward wall of the Little Terps kept West Virginia's running attack well bottled up during the game but the Mountaineer freshmen capitalized on two long passes to score both their touchdowns and had a 12-0 lead at halftime.

Bob Litten returned a Maryland punt to the Terrapins 41 late in the opening quarter and then picked up 15 yards around end after a five-yard penalty had been paced off against the West Virginians. Ken Bartges, substitute quarterback from Masontown, Pa., then hit Tom Harden with a 34-yard aerial and the first six-pointer.

Hott Scores Touchdown

Late in the second period another Bartges overhead was caught by George Hott of Moorefield on the Maryland five and the lanky ex-Moorefield High star raced into the end zone for the counter. Both of West Virginia's tries for the extra point failed.

With their running attack stalled against the hard-charging West Virginia line in the first two periods Maryland switched to the lightning-like split-T on the second half kickoff and left little doubt from that moment on which was the better team.

Earley Runs 58 Yards

After an exchange of punts gave Maryland the ball on their own 38 Harold "Buck" Earley, former Hagerstown High fullback, broke loose for 58 yards to the West Virginia four. He was hauled down from behind by Hott.

Lynn Davis then circled end for the remaining four yards and the tying touchdown.

West Virginia threatened again but a fourth down pass was caught by Hott out-of-bounds beyond the end zone and Maryland took the ball over on downs, early in the fourth quarter.

The Terps then marched 80 yards in just six plays with Modzelewski's 41-yard aerial to Henry Fox the payoff pitch. Clarence Fry then made good the first of two extra points to put the Marylanders ahead to stay.

After the following kickoff West Virginia was held for downs on its own ten and a high pass from center went over Bartges head into the end zone while he was back attempting to kick and big Bill Treiber ,Maryland tackle and ex-Fort Hill star, pounced on the pigskin for the final score. Fry's placement again was good.

Bartges Makes Record Punt

A highlight of the game was the excellent punting of Bartges for the Mountaineers. The 170-pound back got off what is believed to be the longest kick ever seen in the local stadim. Standing behind his own end zone in the second period the lanky six-footer booted the ball 70 yards through the air with Buck Earley of Maryland finally picking the oval up on the Terrapin two-yard line. Altogether the kick traveled 94 yards from the line of scrimmage. Bartges averaged 52.6 yards per kick for six punts during the game.

Outstanding players for the winners were Earley, Modzelewski, Treiber and Joe Moss of Ridgeley. Bartges and Hott starred for West Virginia. The lineups:

$8,000 Solicited At Federalsburg For League Club

Rehoboth Also Hopes To Stay In Circuit

SALISBURY, Md., Nov. 18 (AP) — With two teams struggling to operate independently of major league tie-ins, two towns trying to get in and the Salisbury Cardinals making eyes at other circuits, Sunday's fall meeting of the Eastern Shore League is expected to provide plenty of excitement.

The first problem to be tackled Sunday will be the cases of Federalsburg and Rehoboth. At the end of the regular season, the Pittsburgh Pirates cancelled their working agreement with Rehoboth and the Philadelphia Athletics dropped Federalsburg as a farm team.

At meetings of supporters held this week, both clubs decided to try to make a go of it independently if they can't obtain major league affiliations.

According to a financial statement released by the Rehoboth Club, enough stock was sold during the past month to wipe out the $6,500 deficit of the 1948 season. Col. C. B. Shaffer, head of a stockholders' group, said he was dickering with three major league clubs for hookups.

The Caroline Baseball Association was organized last night in Federalsburg to try to keep the town's berth in the Shore League. Dr. W. K. Knotts, team business manager, reported that nearly $8,000 had been solicited.

It was reported that representatives from Frederick, Md., and Chambersburg, Pa., would be at Sunday's meeting to seek admission into the league should Federalsburg and Rehoboth be dropped.

Meanwhile, business manager Lawrence Walmsley of the Salisbury Cardinals announced that he has contacted officials of two other Class D Leagues to find possible spots for Salisbury as "a safety valve" in case the shore loop folds.

Walmsley said he has been in touch with officials of the North Atlantic League in Pennsylvania and the Virginia Class D League. He said Duke Langraf of Allentown, Pa., president of the North Atlantic circuit, would attend Sunday's meeting in Salisbury.

$60,000 SMILE — First bonus player ever signed by the Yankees, Paul Edwin Hinrichs, Concordia seminary student, reportedly signed for $60,000 bonus. Hinrichs, a pitcher, has been assigned to the Yanks' Kansas City farm. He is 23 years old and won 18 for Lubbock, Tex., in 1947 and nine games for Dallas this year. Most of the major league clubs were seeking his services.

Terp Varsity To Fly To Vanderbilt Game

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 18—The University of Maryland will take off from National Airport, Washington on Friday at noon for their grid-tilt at Dudley Field, Nashville, Tenn. on Saturday, the home of the strong Vanderbilt University eleven.

The Terps will carry a squad of 38 players for the fracas, picked to be one of the top games of the day. This will be the sixth meeting between the two clubs. The Terps have only one win to their credit in the series that began in 1927.

Maryland will only practice 3 days this week in preparation for the game. On Monday head coach Jim Tatum gave the squad a day off from the field and went to the classroom for skull practice.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(INS)—Hot off the grill today we have . . . . Jack Dempsey . . . . who is writing a book . . . "Everybody else is doing it," says the old heavyweight champ, "so why not me?" . . .

Jack is going "to tell all" . . . including a few notes on Luis Firpo . . . Wild Bull of the Pampas . . . who once knocked Jack over the ropes into the lap of a sports writer . . .

"Firpo had only a celluloid collar, a marvelous appetite and a heavy right hand in those days," Jack recalls . . . "Now they tell me he's a millionaire down in the Argentine . . ." So is Jack up here . . .

Saw a laundry truck rolling down Broadway . . . sign informs one and all the laundry is owned and operated by two former Wimbledon tennis champs . . . Don Budge and Sidney Wood . . .

Army and Navy again will play to 100,000 or more . . . although all the experts agree Navy is no match for Army this year . . . however, Navy has a terrific, unbeaten freshman team which will be heard from next year . . .

So will several other teams . . . Buff Donelli at Boston University thought he had something extra special in the line of frosh football material . . . and he has . . . but Holy Cross has even more as Donelli found out to his sorrow when the two teams met . . .

Football grapevine tells us the H. C. freshman team could run the varsity right out of the ball park tomorrow . . . and one scout who saw them in action tells us they are the finest frosh squad in the east . . .

Alf Vanderbilt already has 25 nifty nags en route to California for a winter campaign . . . other big stables will follow . . .

Reminds us owners of high class broodmares already are beseeching Warren Wright for bookings anent the day when mighty Citation enters the stud . . .

Some horsemen say Citation can command a record stud fee . . . probably as much as $5,000 . . . which reminds us that some stallions start out with a modest $200 or $300 fee and, after their get shows something, quickly climb into four figure brackets . . . like Alsab and Requested . . .

Some talk of Armed, Assault and Stymie attempting comebacks . . . but horses . . . like retired heavyweight champions . . . rarely succeed when they hit the comeback trail . . .

Luckiest jockey in our book is short-legged Conn McCreary who falls off more horses than any other six jockeys . . . without injury . . . punters who have bet on the nags he tumbles from are hurt far more than McCreary . . . selah . . .

$8,000 Solicited At Federalsburg For League Club

Rehoboth Also Hopes To Stay In Circuit

SALISBURY, Md., Nov. 18 (AP) — With two teams struggling to operate independently of major league tie-ins, two towns trying to get in and the Salisbury Cardinals making eyes at other circuits, Sunday's fall meeting of the Eastern Shore League is expected to provide plenty of excitement.

The first problem to be tackled Sunday will be the cases of Federalsburg and Rehoboth. At the end of the regular season, the Pittsburgh Pirates cancelled their working agreement with Rehoboth and the Philadelphia Athletics dropped Federalsburg as a farm team.

At meetings of supporters held this week, both clubs decided to try to make a go of it independently if they can't obtain major league affiliations.

According to a financial statement released by the Rehoboth Club, enough stock was sold during the past month to wipe out the $6,500 deficit of the 1948 season. Col. C. B. Shaffer, head of a stockholders' group, said he was dickering with three major league clubs for hook-ups.

The Caroline Baseball Association was organized last night in Federalsburg to try to keep the town's berth in the Shore League. Dr. W. K. Knotts, team business manager, reported that nearly $8,000 had been solicited.

It was reported that representatives from Frederick, Md., and Chambersburg, Pa., would be at Sunday's meeting to seek admission into the league should Federalsburg and Rehoboth be dropped.

Meanwhile, business manager Lawrence Walmsley of the Salisbury Cardinals announced that he has contacted officials of two other Class D Leagues to find possible spots for Salisbury as "a safety valve" in case the shore loop folds.

Walmsley said he has been in touch with officials of the North Atlantic League in Pennsylvania and the Virginia Class D League. He said Duke Langraf of Allentown, Pa., president of the North Atlantic circuit, would attend Sunday's meeting in Salisbury.

Terp Varsity To Fly To Vanderbilt Game

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 18—The University of Maryland will take off from National Airport, Washington on Friday at noon for their grid-tilt at Dudley Field, Nashville, Tenn. on Saturday, the home of the strong Vanderbilt University eleven.

The Terps will carry a squad of 38 players for the fracas, picked to be one of the top games of the day. This will be the sixth meeting between the two clubs. The Terps have only one win to their credit in the series that began in 1927.

Maryland will only practice 3 days this week in preparation for the game. On Monday head coach Jim Tatum gave the squad a day off from the field and went to the classroom for skull practice.

$60,000 SMILE — First bonus player ever signed by the Yankees, Paul Edwin Hinrichs, Concordia seminary student, reportedly signed for $60,000 bonus. Hinrichs, a pitcher, has been assigned to the Yanks' Kansas City farm. He is 23 years old and won 18 for Lubbock, Tex., in 1947 and nine games for Dallas this year. Most of the major league clubs were seeking his services.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(INS)—Hot off the grill today we have . . . . Jack Dempsey . . . . who is writing a book . . . "Everybody else is doing it," says the old heavyweight champ, "so why not me?" . . .

Jack is going "to tell all" . . . including a few notes on Luis Firpo . . . Wild Bull of the Pampas . . . who once knocked Jack over the ropes into the lap of a sports writer . . .

"Firpo had only a celluloid collar, a marvelous appetite and a heavy right hand in those days," Jack recalls . . . "Now they tell me he's a millionaire down in the Argentine . . ." So is Jack up here . . .

Army and Navy again will play to 100,000 or more . . . although all the experts agree Navy is no match for Army this year . . . however, Navy has a terrific, unbeaten freshman team which will be heard from next year . . .

So will several other teams . . . Buff Donelli at Boston University thought he had something extra special in the line of frosh football material . . . and he has . . . but Holy Cross has even more as Donelli found out to his sorrow when the two teams met . . .

Football grapevine tells us the H. C. freshman team could run the varsity right out of the ball park tomorrow . . . and one scout who saw them in action tells us they are the finest frosh squad in the east . . .

Alf Vanderbilt already has 25 fifty nags en route to California for a winter campaign . . . other big stables will follow . . .

Some horsemen say Citation can command a record stud fee . . . probably as much as $5,000 . . . which reminds us that some stallions start out with a modest $200 or $300 fee and, after their get shows something, quickly climb into four figure brackets . . . like Alsab and Requested . . .

Some talk of Armed, Assault and Stymie attempting comebacks . . . but horses . . . like retired heavyweight champions . . . rarely succeed when they hit the comeback trail . . .

Luckiest jockey in our book is short-legged Conn McCreary who falls off more horses than any other six jockeys . . . without injury . . . punters who have bet on the nags he tumbles from are hurt far more than McCreary . . . selah . . . .

Frostburg Church Plans To Mark 90th Anniversary

Event Is Scheduled December 12, 13

FROSTBURG—Arrangements have been completed for the 90th anniversary celebration of First Presbyterian Church on December 12 and 13, according to Rev John Cameron Taylor, pastor.

Two special services and an anniversary dinner have been planned, with former pastors and an elder of the church as speakers.

Rev. Ecker was pastor of the church from 1897 to 1908 and is now pastor of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church in Adams County, Pa. He is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Diana T. Colborn and Mrs. James A. Taylor, of Frostburg.

Special Music Planned

Special music will be presented by the senior choir, under the direction of Franklin H. Chermock, and the Chapel Choir led by Mrs. John C. Taylor.

At the 7:30 p. m. service December 12 historical service will be held with Elder Enoch B. Prichard as the speaker.

Mr. Prichard, a member of the church since 1894 and an elder since 1919, will speak on the subject "Ninety Years of Service." Special music will be presented by choir soloists.

The anniversary dinner will be held Monday, December 13, at 6 p. m. in the church annex. The dinner will be prepared and served by the Deborah and Sunergoi Societies, two of the women's organizations of the church.

The speaker will be Rev. James C. Clark, a former pastor. Rev. Clark was pastor of the church from 1925 to 1927 and is now pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Sharps, Va.

First Presbyterian Church now has 223 communicant members. Rev. Taylor has been pastor of the church since May, 1947, when he succeeded Dr. Henry Little, who retired from the ministry after serving here since April, 1930.

In June the church undertook an extensive renovation program which included the erection of a modern kitchen and the building of two rest rooms and additional storage space. Most of the work has been done by the men of the church on a volunteer basis and is expected to be completed within a few weeks.

In addition, the church is now being completely redecorated by the Thomas M. Wilson Painting and Decorating Company, Lonaconing.

History Outlined

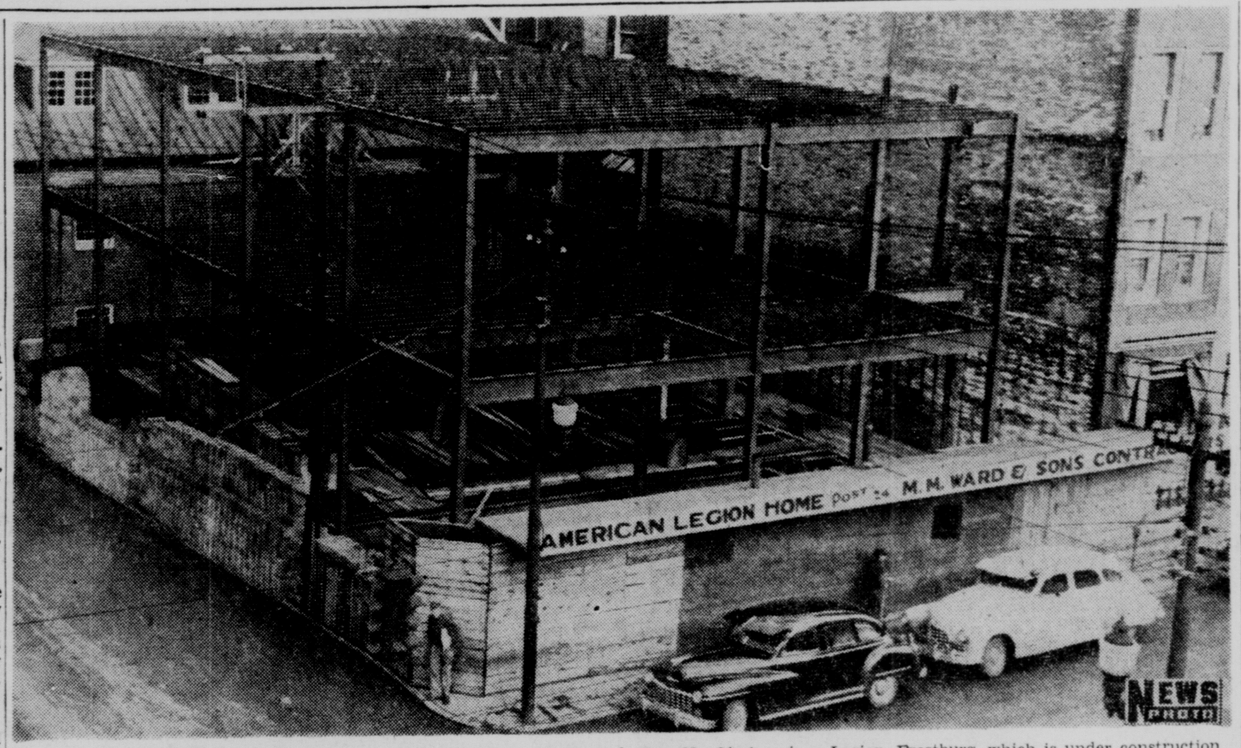
The 20 charter members met for the first time as an organized church on Sunday, December 12, 1858. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated and the first meeting of the Session was held.

Rev Taylor is the 18th regularly installed minister of the church. A native of Philadelphia, he was graduated from Maryville College in 1944 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts and by Princeton Theological Seminary with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1947.

Prior to accepting the call to this church, Rev. Taylor served as assistant minister at First Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, and as student pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Shrewsbury, N. J.



WORK PROGRESSING—Shown above is the new home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg, which is under construction at the corner of West Main and Water Streets. Virtually all of the steel frame work has been completed, and bricklayers began work this week laying concrete blocks and bricks for the walls. Excavation for the foundation of the structure began last June. Indications are that the two-story building, the only fireproof structure in Frostburg, will be completed and furnished early next year. A modern office room, public lounge and private cocktail lounge will be located on the first floor, while a banquet hall will be on the second floor. Two bronze plaques listing the names of Frostburg area war dead of World Wars I and II will be placed at the main entrance.

Frostburg Church Plans To Mark 90th Anniversary

Event Is Scheduled December 12, 13

FROSTBURG—Arrangements have been completed for the 90th anniversary celebration of First Presbyterian Church on December 12 and 13, according to Rev John Cameron Taylor, pastor.

Two special services and an anniversary dinner have been planned, with former pastors and an elder of the church as speakers.

Sunday, December 12, at the 11 o'clock service Rev. Harry S. Ecker, a former pastor, will deliver the anniversary sermon.

Rev. Ecker was pastor of the church from 1897 to 1908 and is now pastor of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian Church in Adams County, Pa. He is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Diana T. Colborn and Mrs. James A. Taylor, of Frostburg.

Special Music Planned

Special music will be presented by the senior choir, under the direction of Franklin H. Chermock, and the Chapel Choir led by Mrs. John C. Taylor.

At the 7:30 p. m. service December 12 historical service will be held with Elder Enoch B. Prichard as the speaker.

Mr. Prichard, a member of the church since 1894 and an elder since 1919, will speak on the subject "Ninety Years of Service." Special music will be presented by choir soloists.

The anniversary dinner will be held Monday, December 13, at 6 p. m. in the church annex. The dinner will be prepared and served by the Deborah and Sunergoi Societies, two of the women's organizations of the church.

The speaker will be Rev. James C. Clark, a former pastor. Rev. Clark was pastor of the church from 1925 to 1927 and is now pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Sharps, Va.

First Presbyterian Church now has 223 communicant members. Rev. Taylor has been pastor of the church since May, 1947, when he succeeded Dr. Henry Little, who retired from the ministry after serving here since April, 1930.

In June the church undertook an extensive renovation program which included the erection of a modern kitchen and the building of two rest rooms and additional storage space. Most of the work has been done by the men of the church on a volunteer basis and is expected to be completed within a few weeks.

In addition, the church is now being completely redecorated by the Thomas M. Wilson Painting and Decorating Company, Lonaconing.

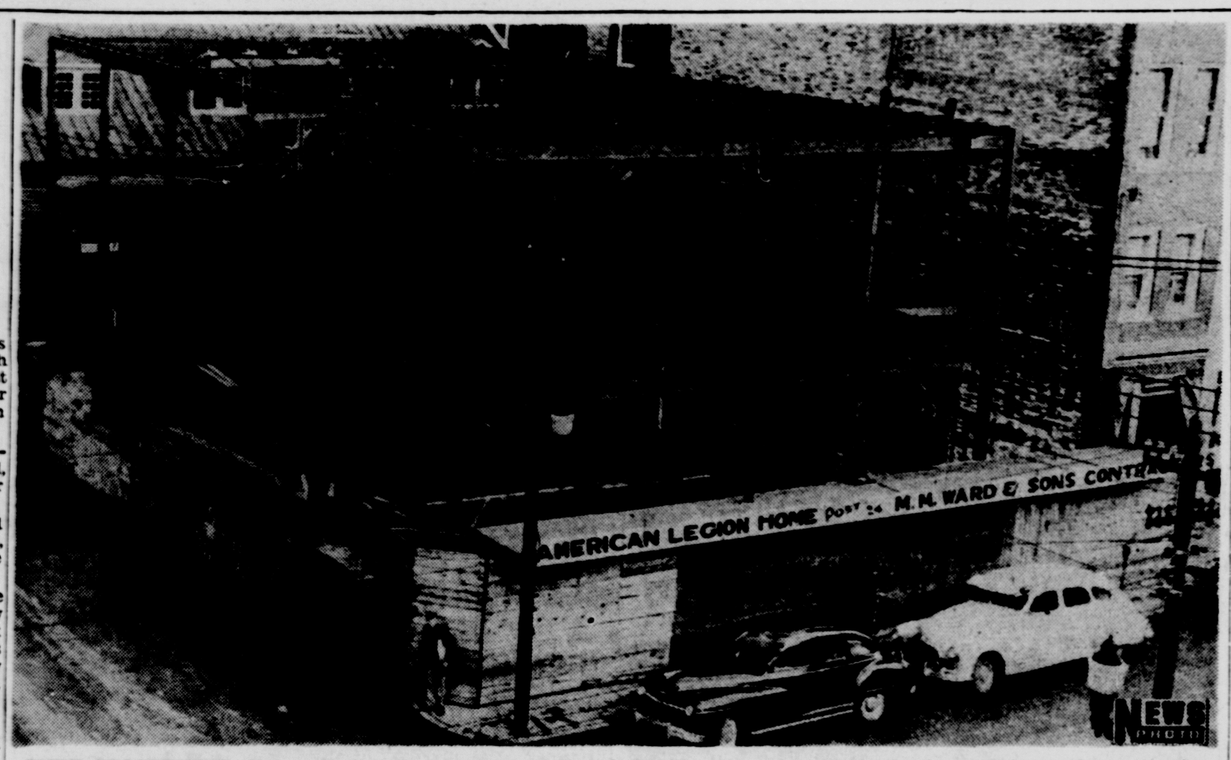
History Outlined

The history of the church dates back to 1858 when Rev. John Phillips and a commission of the Winchester Presbytery formed the organization.

The 20 charter members met for the first time as an organized church on Sunday, December 12, 1858. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated and the first meeting of the Session was held.

Rev Taylor is the 18th regularly installed minister of the church. A native of Philadelphia, he was graduated from Maryville College in 1944 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts and by Princeton Theological Seminary with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity in 1947.

Prior to accepting the call to this church, Rev. Taylor served as assistant minister at First Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, and as student pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Shrewsbury, N. J.



WORK PROGRESSING—Shown above is the new home of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg, which is under construction at the corner of West Main and Water Streets. Virtually all of the steel frame work has been completed, and bricklayers began work this week laying concrete blocks and bricks for the walls. Excavation for the foundation of the structure began last June. Indications are that the two-story building, the only fireproof structure in Frostburg, will be completed and furnished early next year. A modern office room, public lounge and private cocktail lounge will be located on the first floor, while a banquet hall will be on the second floor. Two bronze plaques listing the names of Frostburg area war dead of World Wars I and II will be placed at the main entrance.

Inspector Visits Mutt Mine North Of Mt. Savage

Safety Features Are Endorsed

MT. SAVAGE—Following an inspection of the Mutt Mine two miles north of here, a federal mine inspector endorsed the adoption of some safety features and recommended further blasting safeguards and other precautionary measures in a report released recently by the Bureau of Mines of the Department of the Interior.

Opened in 1946, the mine has been operated by the Mutt Mining Company since last August. When Inspector W. D. Baldwin inspected the mine for the first time in October, 14 men were employed in producing 55 tons of coal daily.

Permissible explosives were used for all on-shift blasting, Baldwin reported. However, he advocated firing the explosives with electric detonators of proper strength and permissible single-shot blasting units instead of blasting with caps and fuses, and using only incombustible stemming and wooden tamping bars. He also urged that an approved-type explosives storage magazine be provided.

Satisfactory individual explosives containers were in use at the time of the inspection, he reported. Baldwin also suggested the exclusive use of permissible electric cap lamps underground and a ban on smoking in the mine.

Baldwin reported that a systematic timbering method was in use at the time of his inspection, except in one instance. The roof, he said, was tested frequently, ventilation was good, most power wires were well-installed and open-type electrical face equipment was well-maintained.

As a further ventilation precaution, Baldwin recommended offset installation and other safeguards for the fan. He suggested that crosscuts always be driven between entrances at approved intervals, that air lock doors be installed at the bottom of the haulage slope, and that warning signs be installed at abandoned workings.

Baldwin also suggested the use of at least two permissible flame safety lamps for gas testing, and preshift and weekly examination for gas and other hazards.

The inspector advocated unobstructed clearance and shelter holes along haulage roads, well-installed insulators for power wires to conveyor drive motors, underground firefighting and first aid equipment, and an effective check-in-check-out system.

It was also suggested that protective hats, footwear and goggles be worn as needed.

Churches Asked To Help Displaced Persons

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Five religious organizations with headquarters in Geneva have sent an appeal to action" to church congregations around the world asking for assistance in resettling refugees from Europe and elsewhere.

"In the final analysis, the only way to enable these people to start a new life is to find homes and jobs for them," the appeal says. "This can be done if every local congregation and Christian agency will take responsibility for securing work and housing for at least one family. Many of these uprooted people are fellow Christians from protestant and orthodox churches."

The appeal is being sent particularly to Church organizations in North and South America, the British commonwealth and western Europe. The appeal is concerned not only with the 800,000 displaced persons under the mandate of the International Refugee Organization, but also with an estimated 9,000,000 to 10,000,000 other persons not eligible for IRO care.

Joined in the appeal are The World Council of Churches, Church World Service, Inc., Lutheran World Federation and the World Alliances of the YMCA and YWCA.

Inspector Visits Mutt Mine North Of Mt. Savage

Safety Features Are Endorsed

MT. SAVAGE—Following an inspection of the Mutt Mine two miles north of here, a federal mine inspector endorsed the adoption of some safety features and recommended further blasting safeguards and other precautionary measures in a report released recently by the Bureau of Mines of the Department of the Interior.

Opened in 1946, the mine has been operated by the Mutt Mining Company since last August. When Inspector W. D. Baldwin inspected the mine for the first time in October, 14 men were employed in producing 55 tons of coal daily.

Permissible explosives were used for all on-shift blasting, Baldwin reported. However, he advocated firing the explosives with electric detonators of proper strength and permissible single-shot blasting units instead of blasting with caps and fuses, and using only incombustible stemming and wooden tamping bars. He also urged that an approved-type explosives storage magazine be provided.

Satisfactory individual explosives containers were in use at the time of the inspection, he reported. Baldwin also suggested the exclusive use of permissible electric cap lamps underground and a ban on smoking in the mine.

Baldwin reported that a systematic timbering method was in use at the time of his inspection, except in one instance. The roof, he said, was tested frequently, ventilation was good, most power wires were well-installed and open-type electrical face equipment was well-maintained.

As a further ventilation precaution, Baldwin recommended offset installation and other safeguards for the fan. He suggested that crosscuts always be driven between entrances at approved intervals, that air lock doors be installed at the bottom of the haulage slope, and that warning signs be installed at abandoned workings.

Baldwin also suggested the use of at least two permissible flame safety lamps for gas testing, and preshift and weekly examination for gas and other hazards.

The inspector advocated unobstructed clearance and shelter holes along haulage roads, well-installed insulators for power wires to conveyor drive motors, underground firefighting and first aid equipment, and an effective check-in-check-out system.

It was also suggested that protective hats, footwear and goggles be worn as needed.

Card of Thanks

We are taking this means to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness extended to us during the illness and following the death of Mrs. Isabella N. Worgan, Luke. Also to those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their automobiles for the funeral.

The Worgan Family.

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Frances Spano.

We especially wish to thank Father Strasgisher, assistant pastor of the Church of the Assumption, who conducted the requim mass, and all those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars for the funeral.

Domenick Spano and Children.

Supply And Demand Almost Balance In Slowest Market In Three Months

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Supply and demand were almost evenly balanced today in the slowest stock market in three months.

Turnover dropped to 780,000 shares, a low since only 510,000 changed hands on August 16. Yesterday's business amounted to 970,000 shares.

Only 1,004 issues changed hands, one more than Wednesday. Of these 420 advanced and 308 declined.

National Lead jumped three points, other issues closing higher, many by a very narrow margin. These included United States Steel 72⅜, Youngstown Sheet and Tube 72½, General Motors 59½, Chrysler 53¾, Goodrich Tire 58¾, Caterpillar Tractor 54½, Douglas Aircraft 50, Electric Power and Light 18⅞, Phelps Dodge 54⅝, Dow Chemical 47⅜, du Pont 171½, Allied Chemical 181½, Radio Corporation 11⅞, Illinois Central 30⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) 73⅝, Plymouth Oil 39½, Borg Warner 56, American Cyanamid 38, and Abbott Laboratories 67¼.

Most United States Treasuries were softer for the second day in a row. The 2½s of September 1976-72 were off 3-32nds at 101 19-32nds bid. Market circles said the downtrend was a reflection of profit-taking and belief that the federal reserve system had started marketing some of its holdings.

Supply And Demand Almost Balance In Slowest Market In Three Months

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP)—Supply and demand were almost evenly balanced today in the slowest stock market in three months.

Turnover dropped to 780,000 shares, a low since only 510,000 changed hands on August 16. Yesterday's business amounted to 970,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .1 of one point to 64.7. A gain in industrials outweighed a small loss in rails.

Only 1,004 issues changed hands, one more than Wednesday. Of these 420 advanced and 308 declined.

National Lead jumped three points, other issues closing higher, many by a very narrow margin. These included United States Steel 72⅜, Youngstown Sheet and Tube 72½, General Motors 59½, Chrysler 53¾, Goodrich Tire 58¾, Caterpillar Tractor 54½, Douglas Aircraft 50, Electric Power and Light 18¾, Phelps Dodge 54⅝, Dow Chemical 47⅜, du Pont 171½, Allied Chemical 181½, Radio Corporation 11⅞, Illinois Central 30⅜, Standard Oil (NJ) 73⅝, Plymouth Oil 39½, Borg Warner 56, American Cyanamid 38, and Abbott Laboratories 67¼.

Sales totaled $3,204,000 as compared with Wednesday's $2,960,000.

Most United States Treasuries were softer for the second day in a row. The 2½s of September 1976-72 were off 3-32nds at 101 19-32nds bid. Market circles said the downtrend was a reflection of profit-taking and belief that the federal reserve system had started marketing some of its holdings.

S. $8.25 local businessmen can obtain information as to the nature and quantity of goods which their competitors have shipped to other parts of the world.

Second Flood Contract May Be Let Next July

Survey Cost Is Set At $35,000

Army Engineers plan to let a second contract in July, 1949, for construction of a number of additional pressure conduits in Cumberland and Ridgeley as the second phase of the flood control project, provided Congress appropriates the necessary funds.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he received that information in a letter from Lt. Col. Harold E. Bisbort, operations officer of the Corps of Engineers.

He estimated the cost of the government survey service to cover property requirements at $35,000.

If the city wishes to continue the previous arrangement for the Corps of Engineers to undertake property surveys, such a request should be made promptly, Col. Bisbort said.

Field Check Begins

Work on that conduit will open the second phase of the project, according to D. V. C. Birrell, senior engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Birrell attended a conference with city officials yesterday morning in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post for a preliminary discussion of the next step in the overall project.

Albert S. Paye, liaison agent, said the Valley Street conduit, largest contemplated to date, will have an interior measurement of eight by nine feet.

The conduit will extend from Wills Creek to the present storm sewer located near the entrance to the County Home property on Valley Road.

Construction of the conduit will involve widening of Valley Street and the Valley Street bridge, in accordance with an agreement made with the city in 1947.

Col. Bisbort informed Mayor Post that charges up to November 1 against the initial advance of funds from the city to the Corps of Engineers total $20,992.07.

Charges Listed

1. Property surveys for non-federal acquisition, $3,089.61.
2. Mapping non-federal property survey data, $5,821.64.
3. Property and topographic surveys of the C. and O. Canal property, $8,665.04.
4. Mapping C. and O. Canal property survey data, $3,415.78.

Col. Bisbort expressed his appreciation for the city's co-operation in acquiring real estate necessary for the first phase of the work, which involves construction of pressure conduits at Franklin, Knox, Pear and Wineow Streets.

Contract for that work has been let to the Union Foundation Corporation of Union, N. J., which bid $273,914.50.

No overall estimate has been made as yet regarding the second phase of the flood project, according to Mayor Post.

Besides Birrell, Mayor Post and Paye, others attending yesterday's conference were City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Birrell was a guest at the luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday.

Bridge And Road Work Slated Soon, C. Of C. Learns

Meetings Planned On Parking Lot

Construction of the Keyser-McCoole Bridge and improvement projects on Route 40 at Green Ridge and Sideling Hill are slated to begin next spring, Miles G. Thompson, chairman of the Highway and Transportation Committee, reported last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Construction work on the bridge project, he said he was advised, is in the hands of the West Virginia State Road Commission. That group is expected to advertise for bids within the next two weeks, he added.

The information was given by the SRC Tuesday when Thompson, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer conferred with SRC officials in Baltimore on means of conducting a traffic survey in Cumberland. It was suggested at that meeting that the survey be undertaken in the spring when weather and traffic conditions are favorable.

SRC officials also commented on improvements planned on Route 40 and advised that the work on Green Ridge and Sideling Hill is to begin in the spring.

Discuss Parking Lot

Thompson also reported that R. A. J. Morrison, superintendent of the Cumberland Division agreed at a recent conference to take up the subject of the North George Street Parking Lot with construction engineers of the B. and O. in Cumberland and Baltimore within the next few weeks. Commissioner William V. Keegan and Rizer were present at the conference.

The directors, at a meeting in Chamber headquarters last night, approved the membership of 27 Cumberland firms and business and professional men and congratulated the membership committee on the success of its drive.

The Publicity Committee headed by Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker, reported it was studying a series of radio programs to develop interest in this city and its work and that the 1949 Blue Book of the Chamber is being revised.

A documentary film, "American and Sons, Unlimited" will be secured by the Chamber and will be available soon.

Arbitration Hearings Are Planned Today

Hearings on two cases submitted to arbitration by Local 1874, Textile Union of American, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America will be heard today at 10 a.m. in the Court House by I. Robert Feinberg, of the American Arbitration Society.

The first case involves a dispute on the position known as the pulverizing coal job and the other involves five suspensions in the filtration department at the Amcelle plant.

James A. Dundon, national representative, will represent the TWUA National office.

Weather

The weatherman predicts cloudy weather for today with possible showers. Yesterday weather was spring-like in most of this area with temperatures reaching a maximum of 64 in the afternoon, and a bright sun shining. The low reading, however, which was recorded in the early morning hours, was 28 above zero, four degrees below freezing. At 11 p. m. mercury was still well above freezing, standing at 48. There was no rainfall.

Swift Employes Get Wage Boost

Employes of the Swift and Company branch here will receive a four cent an hour wage increase under an agreement reached yesterday afternoon between the firm and Local 322, Meat Cutters Union, AFL, Mike Roth, international representative of the union announced.

He said the increase for some 25 employes of the plant became effective as of yesterday. The present contract does not expire until May 15, 1949.

The wage boost, which follows an industry wage pattern, was agreed upon by L. H. Henderson, Pittsburgh, and Joseph Neubiser, plant superintendent, for the company, and Roth and Wayne K. Dayton, treasurer, for the union.

The minimum wage rate for common laborers at the plant will now be $1.15 and the maximum rate for skilled employes $1.42½ an hour, Roth said.

Local 886 Names Nominating Group

Officers of Local 886, Retail Food Clerks Union, AFL, will be nominated and elected at a meeting planned early in December, Robert Edenhart, president, announced last night.

A nominating committee composed of George Taylor, Raymond Canfield, Macklin Peterson, Katherine Forster and William Conley was appointed at a meeting of the local last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Edenhart said the nominations planned yesterday were delayed so that American Store employes may be eligible for offices.

Until recently, Local 886 included only employes of the A. and P. Super Market. American Store employes were included in the unit as a result of an NLRB election held in October.

Local 886 announced it is planning a party early in 1949 to formally welcome American Store employes of this area into the local.

J. N. Mayberry, Baltimore, international representative, said he will go to Baltimore today to confer with the National Labor Relations Board concerning a union shop election for the American Stores workers.

Care Of Maternity Patients Discussed

Care of maternity patients was discussed by two faculty members of the Georgetown University School of Medicine at a dinner meeting last night of the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Association at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The speakers were Dr. Andrew A. Marchetti, professor of obstetrics and gynecology, and Dr. John W. Walsh.

They were introduced by Dr. Leland B. Ransom, local obstetrician. Dr. Clay Durrett, vice president of the association, presided. Forty members attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Haines, 65 Lincoln Street, a daughter. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. McFarland, Jr., Baltimore, in a hospital there. The father, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. FABRIC PREMIERE-- Mrs. William C. Hammer, director of consumer relations for the Celanese Corporation of America, is shown here (right) displaying beautiful new fall Celanese fabrics to some of the members of the Civic Club, where she appeared yesterday afternoon. Left to right are Mrs. Fred T. Small, wife of the local plant manager; Mrs. William A. Douglas, club president; and Mrs. Charles L. Kopp, who introduced Mrs. Hammer at the meeting. Dozens of fabrics, all made by Celanese, were exhibited by the guest speaker who also explained how each was made, styled, designed and named. She gave the audience pertinent information as to quality, characteristics of the material and how to launder them.

Civic Club Hears Talk By Head Of Celanese Consumer Relations

Women Want Fabrics Made Available Here

Members of the Women's Civic Club, after hearing a highly interesting and informative talk yesterday on Celanese fabrics by Mrs. Kathryn Hammer, New York, director of consumer relations for the Celanese Corporation of America, voiced their opinion that the Amecelle plant here should have a show room where fabrics could be seen, and also that local stores should make them available.

The criticism of the failure of the local industry to make their product available to local people was voiced by several club members during a question and discussion period, after Mrs. Hammer completed her talk and demonstration. She displayed numerous pieces of gaily colored fabrics, prints and materials.

She agreed with her audience that "it is a very serious thing to know that beautiful things are made in your own community and yet they are not available to people here."

Mrs. Hammer suggested that women in Cumberland begin asking local merchants for Celanese. "Keep insisting and keep asking," she said. "I know from experience that if enough women keep asking for something, they get it."

Mrs. Hammer explained how Celanese is made, how it is styled, how colors are created, and how stylists bring out new designs and new names. Celanese is constantly developing, studying and engaging in research to improve its products and bring out new fabrics and other materials.

She exhibited fabrics for practically every conceivable type of attire from men's sport shirts to women's suit linings. The dress and blouse fabrics were among the most colorful, except perhaps material developed for curtains and draperies. She emphasized the acostic qualities of Celanese along with the gay variety of patterns that pastel shades, designed to fit any color scheme or combination.

Among new products exhibited was a section of a rug. As she held it up, it looked just like any other good grade rug or carpet. But she explained the rug is being made entirely of Celanese and is "moth proof, mold proof, and mildew proof."

Mrs. Hammer went into detail about the cleaning and laundering of Celanese. She offered several "tips" on easier ways of caring for Celanese.

She reminded her audience that Celanese recently won two important awards, the national award for plant safety and the American Legion award for providing jobs for

Mine Engineer Testifies In Case On Coal Strip Act

Testimony Continues On Constitutionality

Following lengthy testimony by officials of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, the hearing on the constitutionality of the Maryland Strip Mining Act which began in Circuit Court yesterday morning, was continued to resume today at 9:15 a. m. Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish and Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., are presiding.

Dr. John J. Rutledge, chief of Maryland's Bureau of Mines, told the Court the total tonnage of coal mined in Allegany County from strip mines in the past five years is more than a million tons. He explained that most strip mines are over or adjacent to deep mines, since the strip method is used to get coal not reached by deep mines.

Explaining that the strip mine law is intended to require strip mine operators to backfill the deep cuts they make to reach the coal seams, Dr. Rutledge said failure to replace the soil leaves deep gashes in the earth, causes erosion, prevents trees and other growth from flourishing for years, and causes great pools of water to form.

Dr. Rutledge said the cuts made in strip mining should be backfilled and made as level as possible to prevent accumulation of surface water and erosion.

He told the Court that $350 per acre bond was requested in the case at hand, and explained that he arrived at this figure by considering amounts fixed in Indiana and Pennsylvania. He noted that West Virginia requires $500 per acre.

Frank Powers, Frostburg, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, district mine inspectors, described the spoil banks and cuts made in the earth as a result of strip mining. Powers said there are 12 strip mines in his territory in Allegany County and Rowe said there are mine in his section of the county, for a county total of 21.

Walter C. Capper, one of the attorneys for the Maryland Coal and Realty Company and the Tri-State Construction Company which are contesting the law, made the opening statement for the plaintiffs yesterday.

Capper brought out that the act

Liberty Street Parking Areas To Be Discussed

Merchants To Meet With Police Chief

Liberty Street merchants will meet with Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn and officials of the City's Traffic Division this morning to map a "loading and unloading" schedule similar to one worked out recently for North Mechanic Street.

Traffic officials said they hope to halt parking on one side of Liberty Street to permit a freer flow of traffic. This will necessitate making arrangements with merchants for loading and unloading trucks.

Similar action was taken on North Mechanic Street several weeks ago and parking on the west side of the street was prohibited after the majority of merchants showed a preference for establishing a loading zone on the east side of the street.

Invited By Chief

Chief Flynn has invited Liberty Street merchants to meet in his office today so the traffic conditions and planned corrections can be discussed. Maps of the street indicating the various business houses will be used and present traffic problems will be explained.

Police said they hope to be able to restrict parking on one side of the street and establish a loading zone on the other. The zone will be established on the advice of the merchants.

With the loading zone in effect, merchants will be assured of a place to park their trucks when they are receiving or shipping merchandise, police declared. Parking of vehicles in the zone will be prohibited except to the merchants.

Police explained that by eliminating parking the loading zone will be open for the merchants when they need the area. Time limits will be initiated.

The restricted areas on North Mechanic Street are opened for parking at the end of the business day, police said and provide space for movie goers and pleasure seekers. A two hour parking limit is enforced during the night hours.

"Quick Business" Only

Authorities said parking restrictions on Pershing Street in front of the Postoffice Building are being misinterpreted by many motorists who mistake the yellow curb marking to indicate a parking area.

The area is restricted to all parking except for persons who are conducting "quick business" in the Postoffice. Police explained that the quick business does not mean that persons going in for conferences with heads of many of the offices can park there for long periods.

If a motorist is going in to mail a letter or purchase stamps the area can be used but overtime parkers will receive parking tickets which must be presented at police headquarters within 48 hours, traffic officials declared.

Purple Heart Chapter Host To Two Conventions

State And National Conclaves Here In '49

Mountain Chapter No. 66, Military Order of the Purple Heart, will be host next summer to both the state department and national Purple Heart conventions, it was disclosed here yesterday by George M. Leib, past commander and adjutant of the local chapter.

Leib, who is also chairman of the national department legislative committee, said the local chapter made bids for both conventions and was awarded both. Plans are already underway for entertaining the state conclave in June and the national meeting in August.

The Department of Maryland convention next year will be a larger affair than heretofore, because by that time plans to merge the District of Columbia Department with the Department of Maryland Purple Heart will have been completed, Leib said. This merger, now in its final stages, will bring three chapters and two auxiliary units into the Maryland Department, which now has six chapters and four auxiliary units.

In addition, a new Maryland chapter is being formed at Brunswick, and it is hoped that this chapter will be chartered and instituted before the holiday season. That unit also plans to form an auxiliary.

Clifford A. Parmenter, Long Beach, Calif., national commander of the Purple Heart, is due to arrive on an official visit in the East this month. Leib said he will be invited here to discuss plans for the national convention.

The next meeting of the State Department officials will be held in Baltimore January 16 at the home of Baltimore Chapter. At that time, plans for the state department convention will be completed and a program outlined. Tentative plans call for a two-day business session, followed by a memorial service and annual banquet.

The national conclave in August will probably be a three or four day affair, it was indicated.

Methodist Group Will Meet Here

The Advance Methodists of the Charleston District will meet November 23 at McKendree Methodist Church, 129 North Centre Street. District Superintendent Mapson F. Hayling will preside.

Five speakers are scheduled to participate in a platform discussion on subjects including Mission, Religious Education, City and Rural Work and W.S.C.A.

Meeting sessions will be held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10p.m. Dinner will be served after the afternoon session.

Larger Smoke Board Suggested By Labor Head

Amendment Would Be Needed, Mayor Says

Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday informed Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, that the smoke control ordinance would have to be amended to permit increasing the advisory and appeal board to five members.

Aldridge had offered the suggestion that the three-member board be increased to permit the appointment of a housewife and a representative of labor.

Already mentioned as tentative board members are Charles Z. Heskett, former city attorney; John C. Shoupe, retired businessman, and John Connelly, assistant chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Under the smoke control ordinance, which was passed in May, 1947, the advisory and appeal board shall consist of one member with business and administrative experience, another with engineering experience in the design and operation of fuel burning installations, and a third with professional experience.

The ordinance provides that initial members of the board shall be appointed for one, two and three years. Thereafter, terms will be for three years.

Methods of examination and inspection of fuel burning installations will be determined by the board. The group will also handle technical and economic problems which may arise in enforcement of the ordinance.

In his reply to Aldridge's letter, Mayor Post said although amendment of the ordinence would be necessary, the suggestion of increasing the board's membership would receive serious consideration. He added:

"I deeply regret that you did not make your request before the smoke control ordinance was passed in its final form."

Unity Conference Plans Expansion

Plans for the expansion of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference were formulated at a meeting of that group last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

C. E. Stutzman, president, announced plans for a committee to contact unaffiliated locals and ask them to join in the work of the Unity Conference designed to integrate the work of organized labor in Allegany and Garrett counties.

AFL delegates attending said the Labor League for Political Education will be continued as a permanent organization here and CIO officials advised the CIO-Political Action Committees are committed to continue their work in Allegany County.

Paul L. Burley, secretary, said plans were made to formulate a legislative policy for Allegany County labor and to follow through with the plan during the meetings of the General Assembly.

Delegates from the Sixth District, Maryland League of United Voters, meeting in Hagerstown reported the revised by-laws of that group will be adopted at a meeting in Hagerstown January 8, 1949.

He added the organization set up to direct labor's political activities in the recent election will consist of district officers, executive board and trustees. Each of the counties will have a chairman, vice chairman, secretary-treasurer and executive board.

Collection Day TODAY

Local Police Recover 80 Autos Reported Stolen Since February

The Cumberland Police Department has recovered 80 stolen automobiles since last February, and a check of the larceny bulletin board shows it isn't a bad record, for there are only three vehicles not recovered. The three are recent thefts.

Records kept at Police Headquarters indicate that the big percentage of automobiles stolen in this city never get out of the municipal limits. Better than 75 per cent of the cars were recovered short distances from the place they were stolen.

Police found it a little more difficult to explain the automobile larceny racket than to keep records on it. Taking keys out of cars and locking the vehicle isn't a guarantee against automobile larceny, but it helps, police said.

Automobiles aren't the only means of transportation that theifs are prying on these days. Another check of police records shows that there were more bicycles than automobiles stolen in the past year. There were more recovered, too.

Authorities reported that 93 bicycles stolen in the city since last January have been recovered and added 11 of the two wheeled vehicles are presently being sought. The smaller vehicle is easier to steal and a whole lot harder to recover, police will assure you.

For the most part automobiles that are reported stolen are found within a day or two. Usually they have been taken by a group who intend to use the vehicle for only a short time. Police believe that is the reason 65 of the autos were recovered in the city limits.

Of course, some of the stolen cars have been transported a lot farther, with records showing that one of the machines was recovered as far away as the state of Ohio this year. Several were found in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The percentage of arrests made in stolen car cases is small, because the thief usually abandons the car long before it is reported, generally the same night it is stolen.

Red Cross Disaster Relief Work Outlined At Committee Meeting

The work of the Red Cross in disasters were outlined at a meeting of the disaster committee of the Allegany County Chapter by James Cumiskey, Alexandria, Va., special representative of the disaster committee of the Eastern Area Red Cross.

Cumiskey, who was introduced by Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the county disaster committee, defined a disaster as a situation where persons are plunged into helplessnes and suffering and are in need of food, shelter, medical care and other necessities of life.

During the emergency period the Red Cross is usually called in to assist the local government in rescue and evacuation of victim and to give medical attention and provide food, clothing and shelter.

Of the 312 major disasters which occurred in the United States in 1947, the American Red Cross spent $11,500,000 in disaster work. Twenty per cent of this amount, he said, was spent during the emergency period and the other 80 per cent was used for rehabilitation.

Rehabilitation work done by the Red Cross includes building and repair work, medical aid, occupational trainin, supplying household furnishings, farm supplies, livestock and equipment and occupational equipment and supplies, he said.

Following a disaster, Cumiskey said, an advisory committee consisting of from seven to nine men or women, usually leading citizens not connected with the Red Cross, is set up to review each case and to determine what needs should be filled by the Red Cross.

In reference to Cumberland's most probable disaster problem, that of a major flood, Cumiskey said the United States Weather Bureau is experimenting with watersheds all over the nation and will have spotters at headwaters to report any rise. Tabulation of these reports,

Second Flood Contract May Be Let Next July

Survey Cost Is Set At $35,000

Army Engineers plan to let a second contract in July, 1949, for construction of a number of additional pressure conduits in Cumberland and Ridgeley as the second phase of the flood control project, provided Congress appropriates the necessary funds.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he received that information in a letter from Lt. Col. Harold E. Bisbort, operations officer of the Corps of Engineers.

Col. Bisbort said a "considerably larger" program of real estate acquisition must be undertaken at an early date in preparation for the work.

He estimated the cost of the government survey service to cover property requirements at $35,000.

If the city wishes to continue the previous arrangement for the Corps of Engineers to undertake property surveys, such a request should be made promptly, Col. Bisbort said.

Field Check Begins

A survey crew attached to the local Army Engineers office began a field check of the proposed Valley Street conduit location this week.

Work on that conduit will open the second phase of the project, according to D. V. C. Birrell, senior engineer of the Corps of Engineers.

Birrell attended a conference with city officials yesterday morning in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post for a preliminary discussion of the next step in the overall project.

Albert S. Paye, liaison agent, said the Valley Street conduit, largest contemplated to date, will have an interior measurement of eight by nine feet.

The conduit will extend from Wills Creek to the present storm sewer located near the entrance to the County Home property on Valley Road.

Construction of the conduit will involve widening of Valley Street and the Valley Street bridge, in accordance with an agreement made with the city in 1947.

Col. Bisbort informed Mayor Post that charges up to November 1 against the initial advance of funds from the city to the Corps of Engineers total $20,992.07.

Charges Listed

Expenditures were itemized as follows:

1. Property surveys for non-federal acquisition, $3,089.61.
2. Mapping non-federal property survey data, $5,821.64.
3. Property and topographic surveys of the C. and O. Canal property, $8,665.04.
4. Mapping C. and O. Canal property survey data, $3,415.78.

Col. Bisbort expressed his appreciation for the city's co-operation in acquiring real estate necessary for the first phase of the work, which involves construction of pressure conduits at Franklin, Knox, Pear and Wineow Streets.

Contract for that work has been let to the Union Foundation Corporation of Union, N. J., which bid $273,914.50.

Paye reported yesterday that shortage of steel has delayed the New Jersey firm in starting the work.

No overall estimate has been made as yet regarding the second phase of the flood project, according to Mayor Post.

Besides Birrell, Mayor Post and Paye, others attending yesterday's conference were City Attorney Thomas B. Finan and Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Birrell was a guest at the luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday.

Meetings Planned On Parking Lot

Construction of the Keyser-McCoole Bridge and improvement projects on Route 40 at Green Ridge and Sideling Hill are slated to begin next spring, Miles G. Thompson, chairman of the Highway and Transportation Committee, reported last night at a meeting of the board of directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Construction work on the bridge project, he said he was advised, is in the hands of the West Virginia State Road Commission. That group is expected to advertise for bids within the next two weeks, he added.

The information was given by the SRC Tuesday when Thompson, Commissioner William H. Buchholtz and City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer conferred with SRC officials in Baltimore on means of conducting a traffic survey in Cumberland. It was suggested at that meeting that the survey be undertaken in the spring when weather and traffic conditions are favorable.

SRC officials also commented on improvements planned on Route 40 and advised that the work on Green Ridge and Sideling Hill is to begin in the spring.

Discuss Parking Lot

Thompson also reported that R. A. J. Morrison, superintendent of the Cumberland Division agreed at a recent conference to take up the subject of the North George Street Parking Lot with construction engineers of the B. and O. in Cumberland and Baltimore within the next few weeks. Commissioner William V. Keegan and Rizer were present at the conference.

The directors, at a meeting in Chamber headquarters last night, approved the membership of 27 Cumberland firms and business and professional men and congratulated the membership committee on the success of its drive.

The Publicity Committee headed by Mrs. Aurelia S. Becker, reported it was studying a series of radio programs to develop interest in this city and its work and that the 1949 Blue Book of the Chamber is being revised.

A documentary film, "American and Sons, Unlimited" will be secured by the Chamber and will be available soon.

The first case involves a dispute on the position known as the pulverizing coal job and the other involves five suspensions in the filtration department at the Amcelle plant.

The weatherman predicts cloudy weather for today with possible showers. Yesterday weather was spring-like in most of this area with temperatures reaching a maximum of 64 in the afternoon, and a bright sun shining. The low reading, however, which was recorded in the early morning hours, was 28 above zero, four degrees below freezing. At 11 p. m. mercury was still well above freezing, standing at 48. There was no rainfall.

Local 886 Names Nominating Group

Officers of Local 886, Retail Food Clerks Union, AFL, will be nominated and elected at a meeting planned early in December, Robert Edenhart, president, announced last night.

A nominating committee composed of George Taylor, Raymond Canfield, Macklin Peterson, Katherine Forsier and William Conley was appointed at a meeting of the local last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Edenhart said the nominations planned yesterday were delayed so that American Store employes may be eligible for offices.

Until recently, Local 886 included only employes of the A. and P. Super Market. American Store employes were included in the unit as a result of an NLRB election held in October.

Local 886 announced it is planning a party early in 1949 to formally welcome American Store employes of this area into the local.

J. N. Mayberry, Baltimore, international representative, said he will go to Baltimore today to confer with the National Labor Relations Board concerning a union shop election for the American Stores workers.

Women Want Fabrics Made Available Here

Members of the Women's Civic Club, after hearing a highly interesting and informative talk yesterday on Celanese fabrics by Mrs. Kathryn Hammer, New York, director of consumer relations for the Celanese Corporation of America, voiced their opinion that the Amecelle plant here should have a show room where fabrics could be seen, and also that local stores should make them available.

The criticism of the failure of the local industry to make their product available to local people was voiced by several club members during a question and discussion period, after Mrs. Hammer completed her talk and demonstration. She displayed numerous pieces of gaily colored fabrics, prints and materials.

She agreed with her audience that "it is a very serious thing to know that beautiful things are made in your own community and yet they are not available to people here."

Mrs. Hammer suggested that women in Cumberland begin asking local merchants for Celanese. "Keep insisting and keep asking," she said. "I know from experience that if enough women keep asking for something, they get it."

Mrs. Hammer explained how Celanese is made, how it is styled, how colors are created, and how stylists bring out new designs and new names. Celanese is constantly developing, studying and engaging in research to improve its products and bring out new fabrics and other materials.

She exhibited fabrics for practically every conceivable type of attire from men's sport shirts to women's suit linings. The dress and blouse fabrics were among the most colorful, except perhaps material developed for curtains and draperies. She emphasized the acostic qualities of Celanese along with the gay variety of patterns that pastel shades, designed to fit any color scheme or combination.

Among new products exhibited was a section of a rug. As she held it up, it looked just like any other good grade rug or carpet. But she explained the rug is being made entirely of Celanese and is "moth proof, mold proof, and mildew proof."

Mrs. Hammer went into detail about the cleaning and laundering of Celanese. She offered several "tips" on easier ways of caring for Celanese.

She reminded her audience that Celanese recently won two important awards, the national award for plant safety and the American Legion award for providing jobs for

Mine Engineer Testifies In Case On Coal Strip Act

Testimony Continues On Constitutionality

Following lengthy testimony by officials of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, the hearing on the constitutionality of the Maryland Strip Mining Act which began in Circuit Court yesterday morning, was continued to resume today at 9:15 a. m. Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish and Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., are presiding.

Dr. John J. Rutledge, chief of Maryland's Bureau of Mines, told the Court the total tonnage of coal mined in Allegany County from strip mines in the past five years is more than a million tons. He explained that most strip mines are over or adjacent to deep mines, since the strip method is used to get coal not reached by deep mines.

Explaining that the strip mine law is intended to require strip mine operators to backfill the deep cuts they make to reach the coal seams, Dr. Rutledge said failure to replace the soil leaves deep gashes in the earth, causes erosion, prevents trees and other growth from flourishing for years, and causes great pools of water to form.

Dr. Rutledge said the cuts made in strip mining should be backfilled and made as level as possible to prevent accumulation of surface water and erosion.

He told the Court that $350 per acre bond was requested in the case at hand, and explained that he arrived at this figure by considering amounts fixed in Indiana and Pennsylvania. He noted that West Virginia requires $500 per acre.

Frank Powers, Frostburg, and Clyde Rowe, Westernport, district mine inspectors, described the spoil banks and cuts made in the earth as a result of strip mining. Powers said there are 12 strip mines in his territory in Allegany County and Rowe said there are mine in his section of the county, for a county total of 21.

Walter C. Capper, one of the attorneys for the Maryland Coal and Realty Company and the Tri-State Construction Company which are contesting the law, made the opening statement for the plaintiffs yesterday.

Capper brought out that the act

Liberty Street Parking Areas To Be Discussed

Merchants To Meet With Police Chief

Liberty Street merchants will meet with Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn and officials of the City's Traffic Division this morning to map a "loading and unloading" schedule similar to one worked out recently for North Mechanic Street.

Traffic officials said they hope to halt parking on one side of Liberty Street to permit a freer flow of traffic. This will necessitate making arrangements with merchants for loading and unloading trucks.

Similar action was taken on North Mechanic Street several weeks ago and parking on the west side of the street was prohibited after the majority of merchants showed a preference for establishing a loading zone on the east side of the street.

Invited By Chief

Chief Flynn has invited Liberty Street merchants to meet in his office today so the traffic conditions and planned corrections can be discussed. Maps of the street indicating the various business houses will be used and present traffic problems will be explained.

Police said they hope to be able to restrict parking on one side of the street and establish a loading zone on the other. The zone will be established on the advice of the merchants.

With the loading zone in effect, merchants will be assured of a place to park their trucks when they are receiving or shipping merchandise, police declared. Parking of vehicles in the zone will be prohibited except to the merchants.

Police explained that by eliminating parking the loading zone will be open for the merchants when they need the area. Time limits will be initiated.

The restricted areas on North Mechanic Street are opened for parking at the end of the business day, police said and provide space for movie goers and pleasure seekers. A two hour parking limit is enforced during the night hours.

"Quick Business" Only

Authorities said parking restrictions on Pershing Street in front of the Postoffice Building are being misinterpreted by many motorists who mistake the yellow curb marking to indicate a parking area.

The area is restricted to all parking except for persons who are conducting "quick business" in the Postoffice. Police explained that the quick business does not mean that persons going in for conferences with heads of many of the offices can park there for long periods.

If a motorist is going in to mail a letter or purchase stamps the area can be used but overtime parkers will receive parking tickets which must be presented at police headquarters within 48 hours, traffic officials declared.

Purple Heart Chapter Host To Two Conventions

State And National Conclaves Here In '49

Mountain Chapter No. 66, Military Order of the Purple Heart, will be host next summer to both the state department and national Purple Heart conventions, it was disclosed here yesterday by George M. Leib, past commander and adjutant of the local chapter.

Leib, who is also chairman of the national department legislative committee, said the local chapter made bids for both conventions and was awarded both. Plans are already underway for entertaining the state conclave in June and the national meeting in August.

The Department of Maryland convention next year will be a larger affair than heretofore, because by that time plans to merge the District of Columbia Department with the Department of Maryland Purple Heart will have been completed, Leib said. This merger, now in its final stages, will bring three chapters and two auxiliary units into the Maryland Department, which now has six chapters and four auxiliary units.

In addition, a new Maryland chapter is being formed at Brunswick, and it is hoped that this chapter will be chartered and instituted before the holiday season. That unit also plans to form an auxiliary.

Clifford A. Parmenter, Long Beach, Calif., national commander of the Purple Heart, is due to arrive on an official visit in the East this month. Leib said he will be invited here to discuss plans for the national convention.

The next meeting of the State Department officials will be held in Baltimore January 16 at the home of Baltimore Chapter. At that time, plans for the state department convention will be completed and a program outlined. Tentative plans call for a two-day business session, followed by a memorial service and annual banquet.

The national conclave in August will probably be a three or four day affair, it was indicated.

Methodist Group Will Meet Here

The Advance Methodists of the Charleston District will meet November 23 at McKendree Methodist Church, 129 North Centre Street. District Superintendent Mapson F. Hayling will preside.

Five speakers are scheduled to participate in a platform discussion on subjects including Mission, Religious Education, City and Rural Work and W.S.C.A.

Meeting sessions will be held from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 8 p.m. to 10p.m. Dinner will be served after the afternoon session.

Larger Smoke Board Suggested By Labor Head

Amendment Would Be Needed, Mayor Says

Mayor Thomas S. Post yesterday informed Playford Aldridge, president of Celanese Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, that the smoke control ordinance would have to be amended to permit increasing the advisory and appeal board to five members.

Aldridge had offered the suggestion that the three-member board be increased to permit the appointment of a housewife and a representative of labor.

Already mentioned as tentative board members are Charles Z. Heskett, former city attorney; John C. Shoupe, retired businessman, and John Connelly, assistant chief engineer of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

No formal action has been taken on their appointment, however.

Aldridge made his suggestion in identical letters to the mayor and the four councilmen.

Under the smoke control ordinance, which was passed in May, 1947, the advisory and appeal board shall consist of one member with business and administrative experience, another with engineering experience in the design and operation of fuel burning installations, and a third with professional experience.

The ordinance provides that initial members of the board shall be appointed for one, two and three years. Thereafter, terms will be for three years.

Methods of examination and inspection of fuel burning installations will be determined by the board. The group will also handle technical and economic problems which may arise in enforcement of the ordinance.

In his reply to Aldridge's letter, Mayor Post said although amendment of the ordinence would be necessary, the suggestion of increasing the board's membership would receive serious consideration. He added:

"I deeply regret that you did not make your request before the smoke control ordinance was passed in its final form."

Unity Conference Plans Expansion

Plans for the expansion of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference were formulated at a meeting of that group last night in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

C. E. Stutzman, president, announced plans for a committee to contact unaffiliated locals and ask them to join in the work of the Unity Conference designed to integrate the work of organized labor in Allegany and Garrett counties.

AFL delegates attending said the Labor League for Political Education will be continued as a permanent organization here and CIO officials advised the CIO-Political Action Committees are committed to continue their work in Allegany County.

Paul L. Burley, secretary, said plans were made to formulate a legislative policy for Allegany County labor and to follow through with the plan during the meetings of the General Assembly.

Delegates from the Sixth District, Maryland League of United Voters, meeting in Hagerstown reported the revised by-laws of that group will be adopted at a meeting in Hagerstown January 8, 1949.

Permanent officers of the district will be nominated and elected at that meeting, Burley said.

He added the organization set up to direct labor's political activities in the recent election will consist of district officers, executive board and trustees. Each of the counties will have a chairman, vice chairman, secretary-treasurer and executive board.

Local Police Recover 80 Autos Reported Stolen Since February

The Cumberland Police Department has recovered 80 stolen automobiles since last February, and a check of the larceny bulletin board shows it isn't a bad record, for there are only three vehicles not recovered. The three are recent thefts.

Records kept at Police Headquarters indicate that the big percentage of automobiles stolen in this city never get out of the municipal limits. Better than 75 per cent of the cars were recovered short distances from the place they were stolen.

Police found it a little more difficult to explain the automobile larceny racket than to keep records on it. Taking keys out of cars and locking the vehicle isn't a guarantee against automobile larceny, but it helps, police said.

Automobiles aren't the only means of transportation that theifs are prying on these days. Another check of police records shows that there were more bicycles than automobiles stolen in the past year. There were more recovered, too.

Authorities reported that 93 bicycles stolen in the city since last January have been recovered and added 11 of the two wheeled vehicles are presently being sought. The smaller vehicle is easier to steal and a whole lot harder to recover, police will assure you.

For the most part automobiles that are reported stolen are found within a day or two. Usually they have been taken by a group who intend to use the vehicle for only a short time. Police believe that is the reason 65 of the autos were recovered in the city limits.

Of course, some of the stolen cars have been transporte a lot farther, with records showing that one of the machines was recovered as far away as the state of Ohio this year. Several were found in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The percentage of arrests made in stolen car cases is small, because the thief usually abandons the car long before it is reported, generally the same night it is stolen.

Red Cross Disaster Relief Work Outlined At Committee Meeting

The work of the Red Cross in disasters were outlined at a meeting of the disaster committee of the Allegany County Chapter by James Cumiskey, Alexandria, Va., special representative of the disaster committee of the Eastern Area Red Cross.

Cumiskey, who was introduced by Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the county disaster committee, defined a disaster as a situation where persons are plunged into helplessnes and suffering and are in need of food, shelter, medical care and other necessities of life.

During the emergency period the Red Cross is usually called in to assist the local government in rescue and evacuation of victim and to give medical attention and provide food, clothing and shelter.

Of the 312 major disasters which occurred in the United States in 1947, the American Red Cross spent $11,500,000 in disaster work. Twenty per cent of this amount, he said, was spent during the emergency period and the other 80 per cent was used for rehabilitation.

Rehabilitation work done by the Red Cross includes building and repair work, medical aid, occupational trainin, supplying household furnishings, farm supplies, livestock and equipment and occupational equipment and supplies, he said.

Following a disaster, Cumiskey said, an advisory committee consisting of from seven to nine men or women, usually leading citizens not connected with the Red Cross, is set up to review each case and to determine what needs should be filled by the Red Cross.

In reference to Cumberland's most probable disaster problem, that of a major flood, Cumiskey said the United States Weather Bureau is experimenting with watersheds all over the nation and will have spotters at headwaters to report any rise. Tabulation of these reports,
